J. J. DAVIS WILL AID INQUIRY ON SUGAR CHARGES

Report Senator Was Paid to Lobby.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special]—The senate today instructed its lobby investigating committee to learn the truth of the report that a senator, during his former occupancy of a high official position, had received approximately $100,000 from a domestic sugar company president in return for his agreement to lobby for a high sugar tariff.

JAMES J. DAVIS. [Acme-P. & A. Photo]

Immediately following the senate's action, Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.], former secretary of labor, whose campaign expenditures have been under scrutiny of another senate committee, announced off the senate floor that he stood ready to appear before the lobby committee at any time, and that he would assure the committee of the appearance of certain witnesses it might wish to hear.

Among the witnesses Senator Davis named Bror G. Dahlberg of Chicago, former president of the Celotex company and head of the Southern Sugar company.

Davis Promises Assistance.

"I will assist the committee in investigating these charges to the bottom," Senator Davis declared. The committee, of which Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] is chairman, will meet tomorrow morning.

BROR G. DAHLBERG

The report, which appeared in print in a New York paper this morning, was read to the senate by Senator William E. Borah, Idaho insurgent Republican. The news story had previously been made the subject of a statement by Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota insurgent Republican.

Senator Nye's earlier statement declared the fact that such an unsubstantiated report had been given credence and publicity. Later, however, in answer to questions by Senator Borah, Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, and others, he declared that the allegations concerning the senator and the sugar lobbyists should be thoroughly investigated.

Stumbled Upon Report.

It appeared from Senator Nye's remarks that the senatorial campaign committee, of which he is chairman and which, for several months, has been investigating Senator Davis' election, had come upon the report of the hundred thousand dollar gift to a senator during its inquiry, had investigated the report and turned over a memorandum to the lobby committee.

Several weeks ago the report also reached the lobby committee, which did not take action. After reading the story, Senator Borah urged the lobby committee to take action. He was supported by Senator Robinson. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, asked Senator Nye to make a statement.

Senator Davis was on the floor during the colloquy, but did not contribute to it.

Senator Nye explained that his earlier statement had meant that the campaign committee had been unable to make a thorough investigation, since its powers were limited. He thought the senator in question was entitled to have an inquiry made and the truth established. He, himself, said Senator Nye, referring to the report disclosure of the campaign committee's $96,500 expense account, "had suffered from the "publication of some story that may seem to have slight grounds and foundation."

CITY HALL BOYS JUBILATE AS IN THE DAYS OF OLD

Mayor and Friends Hear Returns.

Ensconced in a corner of his city hall office, as far back as his present satellites could push him, Mayor Thompson last night listened with telephone receivers at both ears to the reports and congratulations of those still out in the field.

"Fourteen precincts in the second ward, 3,062 for Thompson and 208 for Lyle, Louis Anderson reporting," said the mayor, and there was an ovation

"Mayor Walker of New York is on the phone," said a helper, and Thompson accepted the congratulations with thanks.

"We'll win by 60,000," he said. "My friend Tony wants to be the World's Fair mayor and we've just fixed up a little song about him."

Walker Hears a New Song.

Then the mayor of New York was treated with the new song, to the tune of "The Sidewalks of New York.'

"Tony, Tony, where's your push cart at?
"Can you picture a world's fair mayor
"With a name like that?
"What a job you're holding;
"And now you're trying for two,
"Better start thinking of one for me,
"Instead of two for you."

Thompson's henchmen did their homage with reports on their wards or certain precincts between telephone calls. Morris Eller of the 20th ward was one of the most attentive.

"Here's another precinct, Mr. Mayor," said Eller. "Two hundred and eight for Thompson and a goose egg for Lyle."

Ettelson and Serritella Near.

Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, who played an inconspicuous role in the primary campaign, was sitting at the mayor's desk. Nearby was City Sealer Dan Serritella, whose allegiance is shared by Thompson and Alphonse Capone.

Not long after Jimmy Walker's call William Randolph Hearst was on the phone, and Thompson observed that it was a great victory to drive prohibition and internationalism out of the Republican party. Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana was next.

"They tried to put you in the penitentiary when they were calling me Kaiser Bill, and we're both still here," said Thompson.

There was another local call and Thompson informed the gathering that "Bob Crowe's ward shows a plurality for Thompson of 2,500."

Throughout the evening "Prof." Joseph Frank, the Prairie avenue patriarch with the flowing mane and beard, mingled with the big shots. A bright yellow shawl and an ancient overcoat kept Prof. Frank warm, and he established the hot dog and coffee record of the evening.

His Statement for Talkies.

The big event was the making of talking pictures, for which several rehearsals were held.

Thompson demurred when told he was expected to talk. He should have been warned in advance, he said. But he called for "that last statement I issued" and went ahead.

"I am much gratified that the principles for which I have consistently fought, the principles laid down by George Washington, adhered to by Thomas Jefferson, and upheld by Abraham Lincoln, have been upheld in our party primary by a plurality, according to present indications, of 60,000.

"The Republicans of Chicago, by their vote today, indorsed the idea of driving internationalism, as well as prohibition out of the Republican party, and I confidently believe that the same principles which were proclaimed by Thomas Jefferson, upon whose teachings the Democratic party was founded, will receive even a greater majority in the April election.

"I am grateful to all my friends and supporters, but I care more for the success of these principles than I do for my personal victory. It is my hope that every defamer of Chicago will throw away his hammer and get a horn."

His speech repeated for the talkies for the last time, Thompson called for Richard Wolfe, commissioner of public works.

"Get Dick Wolfe," he shouted. "There is some phraseology in that statement that can be improved."

Thompson and his followers retired to his private office and sang more songs to Tony.

Voters O. K. Bond Issues by Wide Margins

Large majorities were given each of the 13 bond issues, totaling $54,600,000, submitted by four local governmental agencies to the voters at yesterday's election.

The desire of the voters to open the way for public improvement construction as a means of stimulating employment was cited by officials sponsoring the bonds as a strong factor in bringing about their approval.

Election Proposal Wins.

Apparently unaffected by the primary voting, the bond issue proposals won consistently in every part of the city in the complete returns. The bond issues carried along with them the single other proposition submitted, that to ratify an act of the legislature providing that aldermanic candidates at February elections may contest the vote in court.

The city submitted one bond issue of $2,500,000, the sanitary district four totaling $36,000,000 for sewage treatment plants, the Lincoln park board one of $3,000,000, and the south park board seven aggregating $13,100,000.

Complete returns on the city and sanitary district issues give:

City—	Yes.	No.
State-st. wid'g, $2,500,000	332,467	225,640
Sanitary district—
W. side plant, $11,000,000	367,824	246,956
Calumet plant, $20,300,000	348,986	243,702
N. side plant, $1,600,000	344,815	241,057
So'west plant, $3,100,000	344,203	238,482

The complete returns on the aldermanic contest proposal gave 341,207 for the amendment and 235,873 opposed.

The Lincoln park issue carried by a vote of 75,399 to 31,983 in the complete unofficial returns.

	Yes.	No.
Outer drive, $2,610,000	159,457	71,506
Small parks, $1,915,000	149,197	72,286
Jackson pk. pier, $475,000	149,404	68,707
So'eastern-blvd., $2,000,000	148,775	70,355
Marquette road, $1,000,000	150,113	69,166
Yates avenue, $1,500,000	145,423	70,423
Randolph street viaduct, $3,500,000	146,719	67,039

The city will spend its $2,500,000 bond issue for the widening of North State street from the river to Chicago avenue to make way for a four track subway.

Each of the sanitary district bond issues will go to pay part of the costs of treatment works which the district must build in accordance with the decree of the United States Supreme court in the lake diversion case.

Extend Lincoln Park.

The $3,000,000 Lincoln park issue will pay for the northward extension of the lake front park. This issue was authorized by the legislature two years ago when a total of $9,000,000 in Lincoln park bonds was approved. The proposal approved yesterday was the third and final installment.

One issue in the south park group was that for $3,500,000 for the extension of the Randolph street viaduct. The Illinois Central railroad and the south park commissioners are to share equally in constructing the viaduct. The railroad is now building its part of the improvement.

The other south park bond issues will be used for the extension of the shore line development southward to the Indiana line for the improvement of several small parks and for the widening and connecting of boulevards.

DEMOCRATS IN RECORD VOTE FOR CANDIDATE

On to City Hall and Cleanup, Is Cry.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A. J. Cermak, Democratic nominee for mayor, is ready for the fray and the Democrats are rarin' to go.

Mr. Cermak says his appeal will be to voters of all parties and to independents to accomplish "a change at the city hall." Constructive issues are to be emphasized, with stress upon unemployment, revenue, public improvements, and taxes.

Organization work starts this morning. Platform campaigning opens March 15. The Democratic batteries will be led by James Hamilton Lewis, senator elect.

Democrats Are Jubilant.

Mr. Cermak sat last night at a dinner confevence of 125 ward leaders and county officers at the Hotel Sherman. Jubilation spread around the horseshoe table as returns came in showing that Mr. Cermak, who was without a fight at the Democratic primary to draw out the vote, had polled a record vote for a Democratic candidate for mayor in a Chicago primary.

The complete Democratic vote was: Cermak, 235,260; De Voney, 9,829. In 19 wards Cermak polled a larger vote than Thompson.

The Cermak vote was 73,000 more than the vote polled by Mr. Lewis a year ago when he got 162,000 in the Cook county primaries. It far exceeded the primary vote of 149,000 for Mayor Dever four year ago.

Movies and talkies were taken of the assemblage, and the leaders raised a slogan, "Clean Out the City Hall."

As the Democrats viewed it, the vote shaped up 296,242 for Thompson and 574,390 against Thompsonism, in the vote polled by Cermak, Lyle, Albert, and Schmidt. "Chicago's need now," said the managers, "is to keep the opposition to the city hall machine undivided."

Campaign Begins Now.

Candidate Cermak plunged into the campaign plans between courses. "The campaign for election begins now," he said, "and I invite the support of every man and woman, irrespective of political affiliations, who has a pride in our city.

"I shall be mayor, not of a party, nor of a faction, but the servant of all the men, women, and children who comprise our great municipality.

"My first desire is to thank the men and women of my party who whole-heartedly have approved my candidacy. Though I was unopposed, 235,000 men and women did me the honor of going to the polls to vote for me. I regard their action as an expression of confidence which carried with it definite and important responsibilities. If elected mayor my single aim shall be to prove myself worthy of that confidence."

Will Match Their Records.

In the campaigning the Democratic intention is to match the records of Mr. Cermak and Thompson as public officials.

"Now that the primaries are over," said Mr. Cermak, "I ask of the citizens only this: That in the coming campaign they insist on a frank and honest discussion of the vital issues only.

"My opponent is known. His record of twelve years as mayor is a record on which no intelligent person needs to be enlightened.

"I have served this community in various public offices for twenty-eight years. My record is known. On my record of performance and achievement I stand. I offer it as a guarantee for the faithful carrying out of a constructive program for the betterment of Chicago. This program I shall present in detail during the campaign.

A Fight for All Chicago.

"This is not alone my fight—it is the fight of Chicago's good citizenship. Together we shall surely win."

In the talk of issues the question of unemployment came up.

"No one needs to be told how vital this is," remarked Mr. Cermak. "Cook county, under the county board of which I am president, is spending $250,000 a month to help out the unemployed and to relieve wan and suffering. As mayor I shall be able to help the situation materially."

MAYOR NAMED AGAIN; FAILS OF A MAJORITY

Albert Splits Vote of Opposition.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Thompson was renominated in the Republican primary yesterday. On a complete tabulation of the unofficial returns he won by 67,841 over Judge Lyle.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert, backed by Charles S. Deneen, retiring senator, ran a poor third but his vote was sufficient to give Thompson the victory. Thompson's total vote on the unofficial returns was 296,242, Lyle's was 228,401, and Albert's 99,506. Therefore Thompson was nominated by a minority. He received 46.62 per cent of the vote of his party, Lyle received 35.95 per cent, Albert 15.66 per cent, and George K. Schmidt, with 11,223 votes, 1.77 per cent.

City Hall Strength Falls Off.

More than half of Thompson's plurality was given him in the first four wards—former Ald. Kenna's bailiwick and three Negro wards. His victory was made complete by the Democratic territory farther down on the side side and by the Democratic wards of the west side.

Judge Lyle carried seventeen of the fifty wards, but most of them were the big Republican strongholds of the south, the north, and the northwest sides. He won the north side by 6,582, the northwest side by 3,731, and the Republican wards of the south side, except the Negro wards, by 16,117.

But Thompson was handed 36,278 by the black belt, 15,036 by Democratic wards on the south side, and his banner accomplishment was winning a lead of 39,046 in the west side Democratic territory. In addition, he had a lead of 3,911 in the Republican wards of the west side.

A Comparison with 1927.

The total vote cast in the Republican primary, 635,372, exceeded predictions. In the corresponding primary four years ago only 518,455 Republicans went to the polls. And yet Thompson received about 50,000 fewer votes this year than he did in 1927 in spite of the fact that this year he had the big advantage of the city hall political machinery.

Thompson's losses during the four years he has been in office came in the outlying residential wards. But in the river wards and similar territory he held his own and in several instances made gains in what is ordinarily Democratic ground.

But the Democratic managers were confident, they said, that most of their ward and precinct leaders remained on their own side of the fence. In support of this they pointed to the vote cast for their organization entry, President Cermak of the county board. The complete tabulation gave him 235,260. This is the largest vote ever received by a Democrat in a primary such as this one, where there was no real opposition.

The total of Republican and Democratic votes cast in the mayoralty primaries yesterday was 330,461.

Kearns Leads for Treasurer.

James A. Kearns was ahead last night in the Republican race for city treasurer. City Clerk Smith apparently was victorious by a big margin in his race. The Democratic regular candidates for these two offices, Edward J. Kaindl and Peter J. Brady, walked away from their nominal opposition.

In some wards there were aldermanic battles with some entanglements in the mayoralty contest which threatened to unseat several members of the city council. At least it was certain in several wards there will be runoff elections on April 7, because there was no majority victor yesterday.

Thompson Delays Returns.

The outcome of the big headliner match of the day—the fight between Thompson and Judge Lyle—became visible in the early returns telephoned to the City News Bureau and sent by that agency to the newspapers. Other returns, however, were tied up for hours by Mayor Thompson's order that the police deliver to him the written sheets containing the unofficial returns on minor offices and little ballot propositions.

As soon as the result was certain Mayor Thompson issued a restrained statement which was completely silent

FILM GIRL FILES $601,000 SUIT VS. D. W. GRIFFITH

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Fern Setril, 24, film extra girl, today filed a $601,000 suit against David W. Griffith, veteran movie producer. She accuses Griffith of inviting her to an apartment and raping her.

Miss Setril charges Griffith told her he wanted to make tests of her for the part of Ann Rutledge in the film, "Abraham Lincoln," and asked her to visit an apartment on June 25, 1930. She said that as a result of her experiences there, she was compelled to undergo an operation, and has suffered permanent injuries. She lists $1,000 for medical treatment.

Griffith Denies Charges.

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—D. W. Griffith, who was sued for $601,000 today in Hollywood by Fern Setril, said tonight: "The story is false. I am astounded at the charges. I shall fight to the limit."

in reference to his primary opponents and those who had supported them.

Judge Lyle visited his headquarters to thank the leaders of the Snow, Harding, Brundage, Barrett, and Robertson groups, who had guided his campaign. He said that he would have no statement until he had had opportunity to confer with those advisers today. He declined to comment on the effect of the Albert vote on his own total.

Where Mayor Is Strong.

The early returns showed Thompson running strong in such wards as the Twenty-seventh which includes the Madison street lodging house district. It was this ward that Thompson called Homer K. Galpin back from Florida to handle. And it was the consensus around all headquarters that Galpin delivered the goods.

Attention was called to this ward first when among the widely scattered precincts there was a report from one of Galpin's that gave Thompson 308 votes and not a single one for Lyle, Albert or Schmidt.

Galpin did not do so well throughout the ward, for Lyle received 1,031 votes. Nevertheless the old county chairman delivered it to the mayor with a margin of 8,609 over the judge. Four years ago Thompson received a total of only 7,929 in the ward. This year his figure was 9,640 and this is one of the wards where the population has been decreasing instead of growing.

Eller Also Delivers.

The "Bloody Twentieth" where City Collector Eller rules was another that snowed Lyle under. It gave Thompson 5,509 and Lyle only 626. It had been reported that Eller had predicted it would go 10 to 1 for Thompson and it did almost that well.

Another ward of this type with a higher percentage of vice and gambling is the First where City Sealer Serritella, Capone lieutenant and a member of Thompson's cabinet, is the Republican boss and frequently teams up with the Democratic chieftain, Michael Kenna.

This year, although it is another of the shrinking wards, Thompson carried it by more than his total vote their four years ago. In 1927 his primary vote in the First was 3,065, and yesterday he carried it by 3,438, his total vote being 4,446, a substantial gain during his four year term.

Curran Helps City Hall.

Another ward that gave Thompson a substantial part of his lead was the Twenty-sixth, adjoining the Twentieth on the west side. Here James Curran, superintendent of the Bridewell, was reported to have threatened Lyle workers. Although it is a small ward it gave Thompson a plurality of 5,578, the count showing 6,425 for him and only 847 for Judge Lyle.

One other banner ward for Thompson was the Thirty-first, lying north of the Twenty-seventh and west of the north branch of the river. There, too, the Thompson forces rolled up a 9 to 1 lead for their candidate. The vote was 4,665 to 496. This beat Thompson's total four years ago.

Thompson did not get out the Negro vote on the south side that he did four years ago but apparently his advantage there contributed the biggest single factor in his success. In the Second ward alone he totaled 13,193 and added 11,983 to his plurality, while Lyle barely did better than Edward R. Litsinger in 1927, receiving only 1,210 votes. The Thompson plurality in the Third was 12,507. The Fourth ward, largely Negro, added another 8,250 to the Thompson lead.

Hyde Park and South Shore.

Wards to the south of these—from Hyde Park to South Chicago—showed that Thompson had lost strength there since 1927. Thompson carried the Fifth ward then, but lost it yesterday. He barely carried the Sixth yesterday and four years ago he carried it almost 2 to 1. His vote yesterday in this ward was 7,108 and in 1927 it was 8,038. The Seventh gave Lyle a lead of 4,446 and Thompson received 1,800 less votes there than he did in 1927.

The Eighth ward went to Lyle by 2,316, although Albert received an additional anti-Thompson vote of 3,803 there. In 1927 Thompson received 1,245 more votes in this ward than showed for him yesterday.

Thompson's 1927 vote in the 9th ward was cut almost in two and he lost it to Judge Lyle by 2,390, although Albert received 1,397 votes.

Thompson did almost the same yesterday in the 19th, the ward that includes Morgan Park, but the ward has grown immensely. Although he carried it four years ago, he lost it this time to Lyle by 5,914. Judge Lyle carried his own Englewood ward, the 17th, by a small margin.

Northwest Side Battle.

The battle was hot in the big Republican wards of the northwest side. The 39th went to Thompson by a small margin. He polled 9,126 votes but Lyle and Albert between them rolled up 13,683. The 40th went to Lyle by 154, Thompson's vote dropping 4,000 below his 1927 mark there. Lyle carried the 41st by 1,117 although Albert had a score there of 5,060.

On the near north side Thompson had the better of it, but in the larger wards further north Lyle carried off the honors. Where Thompson carried the 42d by 832, Lyle carried the 44th by 168. Thompson carried the 45th by 2,335 and th 46th by 919. But Lyle carried the 47th by 1,811, then the 49th by 4,628, and the 50th by 3,979.

Backed for Mayor by United Democrats.

cratic ticket, despite the absence of a contest, means that the party is unified and intact and that the voters desire a change at the hall. They issued a call to workers and voters.

Democrats Are United.

"Every member in our party has been eagerly waiting for the signal to begin the fight we are now entering," the statement read. "Our candidates may depend upon it that back of them stands a united party. The vote cast for Mr. Cermak is conclusive proof that the Democrats participated only in their own primaries, and left the Republicans to settle their affairs unassisted.

"The unity in our party which brought the unprecedented victory of last fall, remains unshaken and is destined to lead us to a more formidable victory in April.

"We invite the independent voters to join our ranks in the struggle for the honor of Chicago. The conditions which led them to be with us last fall have not changed.

To the Republican Voters.

"We invite the thousands of Republicans who are opposed to and resent the present administration to join with us.

"The burden upon the long suffering taxpayer must be lifted. Crime, corruption and other conditions which have brought us into contempt before the world must be eradicated. Mr. Cermak has the determination and ability to do these things."

The Democratic managers likewise stressed the question of undivided opposition.

"The primary," they said, "demonstrated the futility of dividing the opposition to the city hall. Thompson was victorious in his own party only because his opponents could not agree upon the man to oppose him.

"It should be evident to every citizen of Chicago that the way to end the present misrule in the city hall is to unite all forces—Republicans, Democrats and independents—behind the candidacy of Mr. Cermak."

KEARNS BEATS THOMPSON MAN FOR TREASURER

Patrick Sheridan Smith won renomination for city clerk against Albert O. Anderson, who had a measure of Deneen backing. Smith was the city hall candidate.

In the complete returns the Republican vote for treasurer and clerk stood:

TREASURER.

Kearns	340,242
Schultz	191,966

CLERK.

Smith	220,219
Anderson	89,185

Anderson was closely pressed for a time by George F. Haas and C. Thomas Hanley, but at the close of the count they had dropped back. Haas polling 71,976 votes and Hanley 61,920.

Kaindl and Brady Nominated.

In the Democratic primary Ald. Edward J. Kaindl, and Peter J. Brady, organiaztion candidates for city treasurer and city clerk, respectively, easily won their nominations. Kaindl's vote was 144,930 and Brady's, 158,406.

The one election besides the aldermanic contests in yesterday's balloting returned Judge Harry A. Lewis to the Superior court. Judge Lewis was a coalition candidate and had almost no opposition. The final returns gave him 489,520 votes, against 31,124 polled by his opponent, Ernest Stout.

The Municipal Court Vote.

For the nomination for the Burke vacancy in the municipal court each party entered only one candidate. Edward B. Casey, the Republican, polled 339,093 votes in the complete returns, while the Democratic choice, A. M. Smietanka, was behind with 184,326 Each, of course, was nominated.

Mr. Kearns becomes a candidate for treasurer after a long career in public office. He has served in the city council and for years was clerk of the Municipal court. He was defeated for reelection to this office last November by Joseph L. Gill, Democrat. Kearns has long been aligned with the Deneen wing.

JOHN A. MASSEN [48TH WARD].

JOHN J. HOELLEN [47TH WARD].

PRIMARY COSTS SET AT $581,660 FOR CITY ALONE

The cost of the primary election yesterday, and of the two days of registration and one of revision that of necessity preceded it, was $581,660 to the city alone. The ballots, more than twelve million of which were printed, represented $40,000. Pay of the judges and clerks of election figures to $462,985 at the established scale, while rent of the polling places was $78,675. Experts have estimated that if the workers for the various candidates were compensated at the same rate as the precinct election officials several hundred thousand dollars more would have been expended.

GOV. EMMERSON STARTS SOUTH FOR VACATION

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson left tonight for a ten days' vacation at Fort Myers, Fla., taking advantage of the present lull in legislation while the general assembly is in recess.

Although both houses meet March 3 he does not expect to be back in the city until the latter part of next week.

Last week Gov. Emmerson signed 15 bills.

BUNDESEN COURSE ON MAYORALTY NOW PERPLEXING TOPIC

Whether Coroner Herman N. Bundesen will announce himself as an independent candidate for mayor was a fruitful topic last night as the results of the primaries came in. Some friends of the coroner asserted that he is expecting to open headquarters, while others maintained that he will not enter to split the opposition to Mayor Thompson. In other quarters, however, it was generally believed that he will announce his candidacy within a day or two.

Democratic managers at their dinner pointed out that the mayor got his renomination yesterday through the failure of the opposition to unite on one candidate in the Republican primaries. The records were again pointed to, showing that in other campaigns a third candidate has failed, although sometimes affecting the results of the election.

WRIGLEY'S FLYER IN BIRDS PROVES A 'DEAD' EXPENSE

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP)—William Wrigley Jr., who has made a fair success of chewing gum, the Chicago Cubs, and this island, is not so enthusiastic over his aviary venture here. The aviary is supposed to attract tourists.

"One day my manager told me he had bought a bird for $1,500," Wrigley said today. "I expected to get nothing less than a bird the size of an ostrich for that price. When it showed up it wasn't any bigger than my hand. And in a few days it died.

"I thought baseball was tough until I got into this. You can't trade a bird to any other aviary, and you can't sell one to any club in the league. Besides, there's nothing quite so dead as a dead bird that cost $1,500."

'A Watchdog for Your Pocketbook!

WHEN the Davis Store started with its new merchandising idea of "Bottom Prices Guaranteed," many merchants said that we would not be successful.

We admit it was a big undertaking—this job of being watchdog for Chicago's pocketbook, but we tackled it confidently and we haven't let go since.

Now Chicago's thrifty housewives are telling us in increasing numbers—with their patronage—that we are right; that they feel confident whatever they buy from the Davis Store is purchased at the lowest possible price in town for that day.

The Davis Store's watchdog never sleeps. He represents the most economical buying the public has been offered since the development of the department store idea.

MAYOR'S VICTORY LAID TO DIVISION OF OPPOSITION

His Showing Weaker than in Previous Polls.

A study of the figures in the Republican mayoralty contest shows that it was a divided opposition that handed Mayor Thompson a renomination. If the opponents had been united the figures show the mayor would have been easily defeated.

A majority of the Republicans who went to the polls—and they number many more than ever before since primaries were inaugurated here—voted against Thompson. There were approximately 42,888 more Republicans who did not want Thompson than those who voted for him. Yet he won the nomination with a plurality of 67,341.

The opposition to Thompson was emphasized in some Republican wards. In the 40th ward on the northwest side, the mayor got 7,563 votes, while the opposition received 13,006 votes, of which 7,717 went to Lyle, 4,795 to Albert, and 48 to Schmidt. In the 44th ward on the north side Thompson received 4,593 votes, while his opponents got 7,950.

Thompson Gets Plurality.

In the 40th, 42d, 43d, 44th and 45th wards the mayor obtained 25,242 votes, while the opposition got 36,582, yet the mayor emerged from the five wards with a plurality of 3,750.

The Fifth ward supplies another illustration of how the opponents of Mayor Thompson wasted their strength. The opposition had a clear majority in this ward of 3,684 votes, but Lyle's plurality was only 733. The total opposition vote against Thompson was five times as strong as the plurality received by his highest opponent. In the Sixth, which is often referred to as the University of Chicago ward, there were 2,056 more votes against Thompson than for him, but he emerged from that territory with a plurality of 57 votes. These facts are deduced from the police returns of the election. The candidacy of Judge John H. Lyle was composed of an opposition to Thompson. Ald. Albert has criticized the mayor's sins of omission and commission for 10 years. Former City Controller Schmidt also made his campaign against Thompson. These three together polled about 339,000, while Thompson polled about 296,000.

Ratio for Candidates.

Candidate.	Probable total vote.	Per-centage.
Thompson	296,242	46.62
Lyle	228,401	35.95
Albert	99,506	15.66
Schmidt	11,223	1.77
Totals	635,372	100.00

Judge Lyle obtained two and a third times as many votes as Ald. Albert, and on the basis of the foregoing reckoning, Lyle came within 62,975 votes of the Thompson total. Students of the result last night did not assume that all of the Albert vote and the Schmidt vote would have gone to Judge Lyle, if they had been out of the race, but a large percentage would have gone to the judge. If he had obtained only two-thirds of the Albert and Schmidt totals, the judge would have won over Thompson.

Mayor's Showing Weaker.

Except in his first trial back in 1923, when his nomination by less than 4,000 was looked upon as an accident, the mayor made a weaker showing yesterday than on the two previous occasions. Yesterday he obtained 46 per cent of the Republican votes. Four years ago he obtained 67 per cent, and in 1919 nearly 55 per cent.

Four years ago he got 342,259 votes, while yesterday his total was around 296,242.

The statistics of city campaigns here show that Thompson has been able to get a much larger percentage of the votes in a primary than in an election. That has been his history since the first effort in 1915. Four years ago, after Thompson obtained 67 per cent of the votes in the primary, he received only 51½ per cent of the votes in the subsequent election.

Vote in Elections Smaller.

In his previous try out in 1919, the mayor gathered in 54.92 per cent of the votes in the primary, but in the subsequent election he obtained only 37.61 per cent. This year he starts with 46 per cent of the votes in the primary contest. What his percentage of votes will be in the election remains to be seen.

There was comment last night that the Republican primary vote was definitely large enough to represent the G. O. P. side of the electorate. The total, when all the returns are in, will probably be in the neighborhood of 630,000. That nears the point of the total active Republicans in the city. It is within 20,000 of the total number who voted for President Hoover at the election in 1928, and equals the total given former Gov. Al Smith.

Question of Party Allegiance.

Perhaps not all of those who voted for Thompson are regularly Republicans. In an early speech to ward workers, during this campaign, the mayor was quoted as claiming that he could obtain 100,000 Democratic votes. A detailed analysis of the ward returns will be necessary to determine whether the mayor made good on his boast.

As to the question of independent candidates in the election next April, the record is that no independent candidate for mayor has won in Chicago in the last 35 years, at least.

It was an independent who was responsible for Thompson's reëlection in 1919. In that contest the mayor polled 259,828 votes and County Clerk Sweitzer, a Democrat, 238,206. But another Democrat, Maclay Hoyne, polled 110,851, and John Fitzpatrick of the Federation of Labor, 55,990. A large percentage of both Hoyne's and Fitzpatrick's vote would have gone to Sweitzer had they been out of the race. Thompson won the election with 37.61 per cent of the total votes cast.

BROTHER FIGHTS CONGRESSMAN SABATH'S VOTE

A family feud over the assigning of the job of purchasing agent of the sanitary district yesterday resulted in the challenging of the vote of Congressman Adolph J. Sabath by his brother, Rudolph. Rudolph, acting as a resident of the fifth precinct, 21st ward, and not as an election official, contended that the congressman did not live at his recorded address, 2006 South Ashland avenue, and had not for the last eleven years, but was a resident of the Graemere hotel, 113 North Homan avenue. The congressman was allowed to vote on the affidavit of two householders of the ward.

Rudolph explained that his action was the result of a family feud involving himself, the congressman and another brother, Morris. After the November election, Rudolph said, the congressman obtained the job of purchasing agent for Morris, after it had been promised to Rudolph. Judge Joseph Sabath, another brother, is not involved in the feud.

Before leaving for Washington on an afternoon train, Congressman Sabath asserted that the Ashland avenue address was his legal address and had been for 40 years. He occasionally lives at a hotel when in Chicago, he said.

Woodruff's vote totaled 10,890; Lyman, 4,189, and Allen, 12,727.

FOUR ALDERMEN LOSE; CITY HALL MEETS DEFEATS

Ringa, O'Toole, Nance and Zintak Are Out.

Four sitting aldermen, two of them Thompsonites, were defeated in yesterday's election. Thirteen other aldermen, five of whom are Thompson adherents, thus making a total of seven Thompson councilmen who fared badly, were sent to a runoff election on April 7. Also a number of aspirants for a council seat who aligned themselves with the city administration, were beaten.

Ald. Frank R. Ringa [39th] was a Thompsonite who lost. He was beaten by two candidates, who will run again in April. The votes of the two highest candidates and Ringa's vote follow: Frank J. Reilly, 11,770; Walter J. Orlikoski, chief clerk of the county recorder's office, 10,529; and Ringa, 10,115.

Ald. O'Tole Defeated.

Another alderman defeated was Ald. Clement A. Nance [7th] who ran behind Barnet Hodes and Charles L. Gerds. Their vote was Nance, 6,266; Hodes, 9,074, and Gerds, 7,741. As a climax to a bitter fight in the Fourteenth ward State Representative Thomas J. O'Grady defeated Ald. William R. O'Toole, the vote being 8,400 to 6,062.

The fourth alderman defeated was B. J. Zintak [12th]. Bryan Hartnett, a former alderman, and William E. Staschke both ran ahead of the alderman and will fight it out on April 7. The vote was Hartnett, 6,629; Staschke, 4,656, and Zintak, 4,351.

Evidence that the city hall was not able to win in fights against some of the sitting aldermen was produced in the 48th ward, where the Thompson forces had waged a bitter fight against Ald. John A. Massen. Complete returns gave Massen 10,539 votes, while the Thompson candidate, Maurice Leavitt, received 3,776.

In the 47th ward the city hall made a determined fight against another alderman and lost. Here, Ald. John J. Hoellen gathered in 10,768 votes to win the election and defeat the city hall candidate, M. J. Schmidt, who was given a count of 9,119.

Others Must Enter Runoff.

One of the Thompson aldermen forced into a runoff by the anti-administration forces was Ald. James H. Taylor [37th]. In a field of 17 candidates, Wiley W. Mills, a former alderman, polled a larger vote than Taylor. Mills received 7,624 votes and Taylor 6,713.

Complete returns also showed that five other Thompson aldermen will have to run again in April. They, and the men who appear likely to dispute their seats with them, are Ald. B. J. Zintak [12th] and Bryan Hartnett, a former alderman; Ald. Walter W. Morris [18th] and Patrick F. Ryan, a former alderman; Ald. George M. Rozcynialski [33d] and Joseph P. Rostenkowski, a state representative. Ald. Edward L. Nusser [36th] and George W. Robinson; and Ald. Curtis F. Mellin [50th] and Eli B. Herren.

One of the two women in the race learned from the early returns that she was defeated. She is Paula Milgrom, the only candidate against Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th]. There, 32 out of 97 precincts gave Ross 9,779 votes and Milgrom 721.

The other woman candidate, Mary McGinnity O'Connell, was faring badly also. Forty-one precincts out of 70 in the 29th ward gave her 617 votes, compared with 7,119 for Thomas G. Terrell, who was leading a field of seven candidates.

See New Members.

New members of the council on the face of the incomplete returns will be Thomas A. Doyle in the Thirteenth; Thomas P. Keane [34th], John J. La Godny [21st], and Thomas D. Terrell [29th].

In looking over the results of the aldermanic races the Municipal Voters' league in a statement from President Herbert J. Friedman, said that the public has given generous support to the recommendations of the league and no matter what the mayoralty outcome is the city will be able to count upon having a better council than the outgoing one.

Interest was shown in the campaign in the fight made by Ald. John P. Wilson [11th] from a sickbed against four contenders. Returns from 28 precincts out of 37 showed Wilson leading by the narrow margin of six votes over Joseph Sikorski, the votes being, respectively, 4,442 and 4,436.

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, Long Island, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Commissioner Mulrooney of the New York police force has ordered his underlings to find out who is doing all the shooting amidst the big town's gangsters and put a stop to the wholesale murders of local racketeers. What he ought to do is corral the whole bunch and make them take lessons in marksmanship, so they could be sure to shoot one another instead of slaughtering an innocent bystander or detectives. The best things that ever happened to Chicago were the several civil wars among gunmen. Hundreds of thousand of dollars were spent on floral horseshoes for the slain, but the total tears shed would hardly make enough gravy for a broiled flea.

Two Brothers Wounded at Alleged Liquor Flat

Two men were shot and wounded last night when they entered an alleged booze flat at 933 North Franklin street. They are Donald Anderson, 27 years old, of 853 Lawrence avenue, and his brother, David, 23, of 212 West Oak street. Police arrested William Francis, 50 years old, occupant of the flat, as the assailant. He was intoxicated, detectives said. The Andersons, whose wounds were not serious, charged that Francis fired at them when they called for a bottle of liquor.

QUIET ELECTION GIVES POLICE LITTLE TROUBLE

Reports of Violence Turn Out to Be False.

Order prevailed in most of the city's 2,987 precincts during yesterday's primary and aldermanic election. Mark O'Leary, chief investigator for the board of election commissioners, reported to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki at 6 o'clock that there had been no shooting, violence, or trouble at the polls. Two kidnapings were reported, but on investigation, O'Leary said, the reports were found to be without foundation.

Patrick J. Hynes, a friend of Bernard Conlon, candidate for alderman in the Eighteenth ward, said an attempt had been made to kidnap him, but that his daughter, Mrs. Kathleen McGurty, 8058 South Hermitage avenue, and Mrs. Martha Frye and Mrs. Lillian Paul had frustrated the kidnapers. He said he was standing in front of a polling place at 7823 South Wood street when some men in an automobile tried to force him into the car. The women held him, he said, and thus prevented his being taken away.

Fail to Find Capone.

Police were seeking Al Capone in his strongholds in the 1st, 20th and 27th wards, but declared they found no one who had seen the gang leader since his return to Chicago. It was anticipated that Capone would be directing his forces in behalf of Mayor Thompson, but though his work was evident he was not to be found and detectives were ordered to be at the federal building today to serve a warrant for his arrest issued by Judge Lyle. Capone is scheduled to appear before Federal Judge Wilkerson on a contempt citation and his attorneys have promised to have him in court.

John S. Hartell, 6510 Loomis street, was arrested by representatives of the election commissioners when he tried to vote in the 43d precinct of the 15th ward in the name of his cousin. Peter Ostrowski, worker at the 6th precinct of the 32d ward, telephoned that gunmen were present in the neighborhood of the polling place at 1854 West Augusta street, but police sent to the scene were unable to find them.

Nab Three at Polling Place.

Three men were seized in front of the polling place of the 14th precinct of the 21st ward at 1830 West 17th street yesterday afternoon, when they interfered with voters. All were intoxicated, the police said. Those arrested were Frank Zachary, 22 years old, 2472 Blue Island avenue, who was carrying a revolver; Albert Budzek, 20 years old, 3054 West 40th street, and Albert Rzeznikiewicz, 21 years old, 3038 West 40th street.

Harry Drummerheiser, secretary to Ald. Eugene L. Nusser of the 36th ward, and a worker for Mayor Thompson, was punched on the nose during a fight in front of the polls at 1002 North Ridgeway avenue. Assistant State's Attorney Ross Lee Laird and a squad of detectives stopped the fight without making any arrests.

A report that a shot had been fired in the polling place at 5360 Wentworth avenue was found to have been false.

Judge Jarecki intimated last night that he would investigate the vote in the 41st precinct of the 27th ward. The polling place is at 6 South Jefferson street, in the heart of the "flophouse" belt. There are 307 voters registered in the precinct and there were 307 votes cast for Mayor Thompson, with none for Judge Lyle, Ald. Albert, or George K. Schmidt. The ward is in the Des Plaines street police district, notorious for its "delivered" vote in past elections. It is said to be under the control of "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone syndicate chief.

Tydings Asks Publishing of Wickersham Evidence

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—To prevent what he termed an "utter waste of government funds" by placing the evidence in a "cubby hole where no one can see it," Senator Tydings [Dem., Md.] today suggested the printing of 5,000 copies of the Wickersham commission prohibition testimony turned over to the senate. The Marylander, however, was persuaded by Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, to withhold a formal request for the printing until the cost was determined.

Chicago Youth Convicted of California Bank Robbery

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Emerson Phillip Holden, 24, said by police to be a member of a wealthy Chicago family, was found guilty of bank robbery today by a jury. He will be sentenced Friday.

Holden was convicted of second degree robbery on testimony he aided Tom Coffee and Delbert Hudson in the holdup of a bank in the southwest part of the city last Dec. 2.

Coffee and Hudson recently pleaded guilty. They testified Holden had been intoxicated for two days preceding the robbery and accompanied them to the scene without knowing what he was doing.

Missouri House Votes to Impeach State Treasurer

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Missouri house of representatives late today adopted the report of a special committee which recommended impeachment of State Treasurer Larry Brunk, Republican.

BANDITS RAID HOSPITAL; GUNS MENACE SEVEN

Thieves Busy While City Goes to Polls.

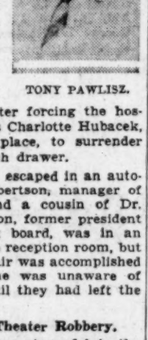
Chicago robbers took advantage of the fact that about half of the city's policemen were on election duty yesterday. Numerous holdups, including one in a theater and another in a hospital, were reported during the day.



TONY PAWLISZ.

Two men carrying pistols entered the Jefferson Park hospital at 1410 West Monroe street during the morning, threatened to kill four women and three men in the reception room, and fled after forcing the hospital cashier, Miss Charlotte Hubacek, 5335 West 25th place, to surrender $215 from the cash drawer.

The holdup men escaped in an automobile. I. B. Robertson, manager of the institution and a cousin of Dr. John Dill Robertson, former president of the west park board, was in an office adjoining the reception room, but the work of the pair was accomplished so quietly that he was unaware of their presence until they had left the building.

Get $1,500 in Theater Robbery.

Three masked men stepped into the office of the American theater at 8 North Ashland avenue as the manager, Fred A. Mindlin, was taking the Sunday and Monday receipts from a safe. He and two other employés were forced to raise their hands. The robbers escaped with $1,500.

The body of a man who was shot and killed by two drunken robbers in front of 749 Noble street earlier in the day was identified yesterday afternoon as that of Tony Pawlisz, 45 years old, 1812 West Division street. After killing Pawlisz and slugging a second man, the bandits robbed two others before they were taken into custody by a police squad. The men are Frank Cichanski, 20 years old, 1513 Tell place, and Frank Blazek, 25 years old, 2307 West Chicago avenue.

Pair Capture Robber.

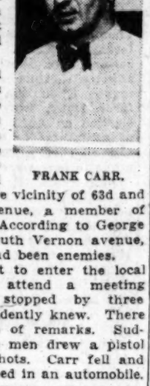
Charles Schroeder, 62 years old, and his son, Charles Jr., owners of a meat market at 2654 North Laramie avenue, fought with and overcame a robber who entered their place carrying a pistol. The robber was identified as Raymond F. Thomas, 31 years old, 7702 Sunset avenue, Elmwood Park.

Claud Johnson, clerk at the Story hotel, 2115 Sedgwick street, was forced to give up $250 in currency to robbers, who also terrorized four bridge players in the hotel cardroom. About $1,200 was the loot of a masked robber who held up the Baron restaurant at 714 West Roosevelt road and forced six employés into the basement.

Two armed men invaded the telephone exchange of River Grove last night, held up three employés, and took $63. After the robbery the bandits sped toward Chicago in their automobile, pursued several blocks by Louis Janicek, one of their victims, in another car. They escaped. Janicek, his wife, and another woman were in the exchange at work when the thieves entered.

PAINTERS' UNION OFFICIAL SHOT TO DEATH ON STREET

Frank [Junior] Carr, 27 years old, financial secretary of the Painters, Decorators, and Paper Hangers' union, was shot seven times and killed last night during a quarrel with three unidentified men in front of the union headquarters at 12 West Garfield boulevard.



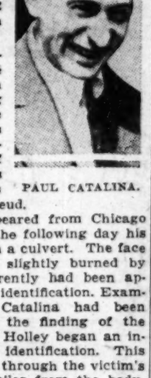
FRANK CARR.

A personal grudge was blamed for the slaying by union officials. Wabash avenue police were requested to search for Fred Scott, living in the vicinity of 63d and Stony Island avenue, a member of the local union. According to George Kummer, 6527 South Vernon avenue, Carr and Scott had been enemies.

Carr was about to enter the local headquarters to attend a meeting when he was stopped by three men whom he evidently knew. There was an exchange of remarks. Suddenly, one of the men drew a pistol and fired eight shots. Carr fell and the gunman escaped in an automobile.

IDENTIFY SLAYING VICTIM AS CHEF IN GANG HANGOUT

Authorities yesterday announced the identity of the man who was found slain and unclothed eight miles south of Gary two weeks ago as Paul Catalina, a chef in the Little Florence restaurant at 2132 South Michigan avenue.



PAUL CATALINA.

According to detectives, the café has been known as a gathering place for Capone hoodlums. This knowledge supported the belief of investigators that Catalina was killed in a gang feud.

Catalina disappeared from Chicago on Feb. 11, and the following day his body was found in a culvert. The face and hands were slightly burned by acid which apparently had been applied to frustrate identification. Examination showed Catalina had been strangled. With the finding of the body, Sheriff Roy Holley began an inquiry to establish identification. This was accomplished through the victim's hat, found two miles from the body.

UNABLE TO GET WIFE ON PHONE, SHE'S FOUND DEAD

Unable to get into communication with his wife, Thelma, by telephone from Kansas City last night, Ralph A. Martin, an accountant, 6923 Wayne avenue, requested neighbors to look into his flat to learn if anything was wrong. They entered through a window.

Mrs. Martin, 30 years old and an expectant mother, was found dead in the bathroom. An investigation by Lieut. Steve Barry of the Rogers Park police resulted in a theory that Mrs. Martin had fallen from a small scale and had fractured her skull by striking it against a radiator. Death apparently occurred more than two days ago. Martin was on his way home from California and stopped in Kansas City yesterday.

WOMAN FALLS DOWN STAIRS; HURT.

PRODUCERS CHARGE MARY LEWIS BROKE MORALITY CLAUSE

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The Pathé Motion Picture studios today filed an answer to the $22,500 breach of contract suit recently brought by Mary Lewis, grand opera song bird. The studio charges that Miss Lewis "became involved in scandal."

She was not used to star in a motion picture, the studio states, because of a violation of the so-called "morality clause" in her contract. This clause, recorded on a sound disc, set forth that the singer should "conduct herself with due regard to public convention and morals," should "not become intoxicated," and "not become involved in any scandal."

The studio's legal papers contended today the actress "became intoxicated, became involved in scandal, and became the subject of comment by publications reflecting on her character and tending to lessen her drawing ability and her popularity as an actress."

MYSTERY BULL PAYS $325,000 TO SETTLE SUIT

Dr. Sidley Drops Action in Shadow Case.

The $250,000 damage suit involving W. Perkins Bull, K. C., the Horlick malted milk family of Racine, and Dr. John Streeter Sidley was settled out of court yesterday, preventing the expose through court testimony of the activities of Bull and his associates in shadowing Dr. Sidley during the last three years.

From a reliable source it was learned that Dr. Sidley was paid $325,000 to withdraw the action he started against Bull and J. J. Harrison, head of the Harrison detective service, whose men were put on Dr. Sidley's trail. This figure represents $75,000 more than the damages Dr. Sidley sought. In this respect the settlement stands as one of the most unusual cases of its kind in the history of Cook county courts.

Report Horlick in Parley.

Participating in the final negotiations were Harrison, John E. Kehoe, representing Bull and Harrison, and Jay Fred Reeve, counsel for Dr. Sidley, divorced husband of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley. In Racine it was stated that Col. William Horlick Sr., head of the prominent Horlick family, had come to Chicago to take part in the proceedings and that Horlick money figured in the settlement.

In return for the huge sum paid Dr. Sidley the physician gave written stipulations to dismiss the damage suit and the injunction proceedings which sought to restrain Bull and Harrison from molesting him.

The hearing of the suit had been continued a half dozen times in the last month by Master in Chancery James P. Harrold on request of counsel. Attorney Reeve had previously stated that the purpose of the hearing was to secure testimony from Bull regarding who provided the money used in paying for the services of Harrison's sleuths and on whose behalf the shadowing activities were instituted.

Report Sleuths Cost $300,000.

It was reported that during the three years that operatives were trailing the physician between $200,000 and $300,000 was paid for the campaign, which Dr. Sidley said was one of harassment. The sum approximates the amount of settlement, indicating that Barrister Bull's activities in this strange case have caused the payment of much more than a half million dollars.

While the money was being turned over to Dr. Sidley yesterday Bull was in Toronto recovering from injuries received in an accident in his recent flight from Chicago. Police were awaiting his recovery to question the mystery man in an effort to learn what caused his precipitate departure.

In his suit Dr. Sidley charged that Harrison's detectives were put on his trail shortly after he left his home in Racine. His departure was followed by a suit for divorce started by Mrs. Sidley. The decree was granted last Saturday and was believed to be related to yesterday's settlement.

Hired by Bull, Claim.

The operatives on several occasions informed Dr. Sidley that they were hired by Bull, the physician charged in the declaration of the suit. The suit was started when the health of the complainant was endangered by the activities of his shadowers, it was charged.

The filing of the suit was followed by a raid on Bull's Drake hotel suite, the questioning of Bull and Mrs. Sidley by federal narcotic agents, and later by Bull's flight across the border to Canada. Another questioned by the government men was Dr. W. C. Wootton of Arkansas, a friend of Bull. Reports from Toronto stated that Wootton had departed for Chicago. He was thought to have left on the International Limited but he was not found on the train when it arrived at Chicago yesterday.

State to Ask Death in 'Bridge' Murder

Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, who is on trial in Kansas City for killing her husband in a bridge game dispute, with her mother, Mrs. Alice Adkins, in court. [Acme-P. & A. Photo.]

SEEK MARRIED MAN JURY TO TRY HUSBAND SLAYER

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Opposing counsel sparred cautiously today as selection of a jury continued in the trial of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, charged with slaying her husband, John G. Bennett, in a quarrel originated by her alleged disparaging remarks about his bridge playing.

The defense apparently was seeking to obtain a jury of married men to try the 35 year old widow of the wealthy district manager of a perfume company.

It was indicated the defense would attempt to prove the defendant had been subjected to a long series of indignities by Bennett, climaxed when he slapped her in front of guests at their fashionable apartment when she chided him for failing to make a bid of four spades.

James R. Page, prosecuting attorney, intimated the state would not be averse to leaving the verdict to a jury of married men if that was the purpose of the defense.

Raiford, Fla., Feb. 24. — (AP) — Florida's electric chair broke down while a man was being executed today.

Nathan Burton, 24, convicted of beating his wife to death with a stick of wood after a quarrel, was strapped in the chair and the switches thrown at 2:31 p. m., after the current had coursed through his body for 50 seconds a high voltage wire snapped.

Electricians hurriedly disconnected the chair and began splicing the wire but before they were ready to resume a physician said Burton was dead.

PULITZER'S SONS SUE FOR RIGHT TO SELL N. Y. WORLD

Two Publishing Interests Seek to Buy.

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The three sons of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the New York World, asked a surrogate today to permit them to sell to the Scripps-Howard interests the three newspapers published in their gold domed building on Park Row — the Morning World, the Evening World, and the Sunday World.

Surrogate James A. Foley reserved decision on their petition and adjourned court until 11 a. m. tomorrow. He desired to decide whether he could legally permit the sale of the properties under the will of the late founder, who took every possible precaution in his last testament to make sure his male descendants would continue to publish the papers.

The delay also was favored passively by counsel for the grandchildren of the elder Pulitzer, fourteen of whom are co-heirs of a residuary estate with which the fortunes of the World are linked. The guardians of the grandchildren's interests were abetted by Max D. Steuer, noted New York lawyer, who caused a surprise by appearing in court in behalf of Paul Block, publisher of a chain of papers.

Paul Block Enters Litigation.

Steuer introduced the suggestion that Block desired to make an offer for the World, and his intimation of a better price led to some spirited testimony about Block's part in the efforts of the Pulitzer brothers, dating back to last August, to dispose of the World.

The Scripps-Howard interests desire to merge the Evening World with the New York Telegram under the name of the New York World-Telegram.

A contract of sale presented to the court called for an immediate down payment of $500,000 upon completion of the sale, another $500,000 within ninety days. It was indicated notes would be given for an additional $2,000,000, and that a further $2,000,000 would be contingent on profits earned by the corporation.

Physical Assets Not Included.

Roy Howard, chairman of the board of Scripps-Howard, testified the price would be the highest ever paid in the United States for the intangible assets of a newspaper. Under the terms of sale Scripps-Howard would get none of the physical assets of the Press Publishing company, which publishes the Worlds, but would acquire their good will and the two Associated Press memberships.

Frederick D. Fuller, banker representative of the Pulitzer estate, said it was "a marvelous offer." His own valuation of the property was $800,000 odd for the good will, and "between $400,000 and $500,000 apiece for the Associated Press memberships."

What will become of the Morning World, one of the famous newspapers of the United States, under the sale was not announced, but it was indicated its publication would be discontinued and the purchasers would publish only one evening newspaper.

According to statements of John J. Jackson, the Pulitzer legal representative, the sale is imperative and any delay in the matter would be "most disastrous" to the World newspapers as going concerns.

Herbert Pulitzer testified that the papers lost $1,900,000 in 1930, that the loss for January, 1931, was $170,000, and declared that it would be impossible to continue publication of the papers for more than ninety days.

Mr. Jackson, in objecting to any delay, said Mr. Block's prior offer of $10,000,000 for the World and Sunday World had been reduced to $8,000,000 and later withdrawn completely.

The World and Evening World are part of a journalistic enterprise begun in the eighties by the late Joseph Pulitzer.

Coming to this country a penniless immigrant from Hungary, he started his career in St. Louis, where after a lapse of several years he purchased the St. Louis Dispatch, merging it with the Post to form the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In 1883 he came to New York and purchased the Morning World from Jay Gould for $346,000.

Pulitzer made it a paper of broad appeal. Striking headlines, human interest articles, illustrations, a tone of aggressive journalistic independence and many innovations increased the circulation by hundreds of thousands until at the time of the Spanish-American war it could announce a sale of 1,300,000.

Evening World Prospers.

In 1887 Pulitzer founded the Evening World. By the end of its second year it was an outstanding success.

Beginning in 1895, there was a historic struggle between the Pulitzer papers and W. R. Hearst's New York Journal. Out of the competition grew many innovations, including colored "comics," and colored supplements to Sunday editions.

Steadily as the years went by, the Pulitzer papers won wide reputations as liberal, independent journals.

On the death of Mr. Pulitzer in 1911, his eldest son, Ralph, became president of the Press Publishing company, publishers of the World. He was succeeded last year by his youngest brother, Herbert.

BLANK PAY ROLLS OF GUARD BARED AT KRAFT TRIAL

Witness Says He Warned Against Practice.

Virtually the same story was told yesterday as witness after witness took the stand in Federal Judge Lindley's court in the trial of Col. Charles J. Kraft, former commander of the 202d coast artillery, Illinois National guard. This story was that while the witnesses were carried on the pay roll at $150 a month as battery mechanics, they received only $125 a month, and worked most of the time putting up and taking down circus seats in the Broadway armory for Col. Kraft.

The defendant, who is charged with embezzling some $100,000 in federal funds, was depicted as a hero by the defense counsel in their opening statements. Efforts to have a government witness describe Kraft as a good officer and a man of valor failed yesterday. Maj. Charles F. Gorey of the anti-aircraft unit was questioned as follows:

Q.—Did you regard Kraft as a good officer? A.—Do you mean as an executive or as a soldier?

Denies War Rescue Question.

Q.—As an executive and as a soldier. A.—I never considered him much of a soldier.

Q.—Didn't you consider him a good soldier when he carried you to a dugout in the Argonne, in France? A.—He never carried me to any dugout.

Maj. Gorey testified on direct examination that he signed some thirty pay roll vouchers which did not list the amount to be paid but only carried the names. He said that he warned Kraft of the danger of this practice. He also said he told Kraft that they were short of mechanics and that the equipment was being neglected.

The government's contention that enlisted men, while drawing federal pay for mechanical duties, were doing personal work for Kraft, was attacked by the defense, who argued that outside work was of no significance so long as the equipment was cared for.

Judge Holds Work Is Issue.

"There can't be any question about the fact that these men who were mechanics were paid for full time by the government," said Judge Lindley. "Whether they worked part of the time on other duties is relevant."

William H. Ganchell, one of the witnesses, who testified that he signed a blank pay roll and then received only $125, whereas the voucher called for $150, said Kraft asked him to tell a government inspector that he was getting $150 and doing only federal work.

Adjt. Gen. Carlos E. Black of the Illinois National Guard and Col. Richings J. Shand, United States property and disbursing officer of the guard, attended the trial yesterday.

Select Jury to Try Kirkland for Murder of Girl at Gary

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—A jury comprising nine farmers, a grocer, a bricklayer, and a telegrapher was sworn in late today by Circuit Judge Grant Crumpacker in Porter County court here to decide the case of Virgil Kirkland, the 20 year old Gary youth on trial for the murder of 18 year old Arlene Draves, also of Gary.

Following six hours of examination of veniremen, during which the defense exercised seven peremptory challenges to the prosecution's four, Kirkland's counsel, Barratt O'Hara of Chicago, Oscar B. Thiel of Gary, and John Crumpacker of Valparaiso, went into a huddle with their client. They whispered together for ten minutes.

"The defense accepts the jury," suddenly announced Mr. Crumpacker, son of the presiding judge and the lawyer who examined the jury for the defense.

Only One Juror Unmarried.

Members of the jury, most of whom are middle aged and all except one married and the fathers of families, are the following: Roscoe Durham, James L. Rigg, Elgert Anderson, John Trede, Edward Esserman, Frank Graves, Leo McNeff, John Cuson, A. E. Upp, Nicholas Gast, George Pumroy, and John A. Carlson.

The first nine are farmers. Gast is a Valparaiso grocer, Carlson a bricklayer, and Pumroy has for twenty years been the telegraph operator at the Pennsylvania railroad depot in the nearby hamlet of Kouts, Ind.

Tonight, by agreement of opposing counsel, the jurors were in custody of the elderly bailiff, John McNey, at Mrs. Joseph Boule's boarding house, a block from the courthouse, and under injunction from Judge Crumpacker to hear no discussion nor read newspaper accounts of the trial.

Tomorrow morning they will hear Deputy Prosecutor John Underwood of Gary outline the state's theory that Kirkland and four other youths, not now on trial, raped Arlene Draves, mistreating her so brutally as to inflict the brain concussion and hemorrhage which, according to a coroner's verdict, caused her death. Mr. Thiel will open for the defense.

Tonight Mr. Underwood clarified the position of the prosecutor regarding the possible demand for the death penalty against Kirkland. Except in one instance the state had omitted questioning jurors on their attitude toward capital punishment, giving rise to the assumption that the defendant, if convicted, faced life imprisonment at worst.

"We have tried and, I believe, succeeded, in drawing a jury above the average in intelligence," said Mr. Underwood. "We have drawn an indictment containing four counts, murder by the blow of a fist, murder with an unknown blunt instrument, murder in the attempt to commit rape, and murder by rape."

Dealth Penalty for Rapist.

"An amendment to the Indiana criminal code, as enacted in 1925, provides the death penalty for rapists who kill a person in the commission of that crime," the prosecutor explained. "That law will be read to the jurors by the judge before they retire to deliberate."

In examining jurymen, Attorney Crumpacker had asserted that the evidence would show that Kirkland and Arlene, coming under the influence of liquor at the house party where she met her death, stepped out on the front porch and there by mutual agreement indulged in a hectic petting party.

Sitting with Prosecutor Underwood and his associates at the prosecutor's table today and passing on the jurors was Charles J. Draves, elderly widower and father of the dead Arlene. On the front bench among the spectators were his four sons, Edward, Carl, Kenneth, and Elmer Draves.

MAYO SURGEON'S SON AND BISHOP'S DAUGHTER WED

Boston, Mass., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—John Boit Cabot of Boston, 22, son of Dr. Hugh Cabot, chief consulting surgeon of the Mayo Brothers clinic at Rochester, Minn., was secretly married to Miss Grace Dixon, daughter of a Philadelphia bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, in New York on Aug. 7, 1930.

This was disclosed tonight when young Cabot confirmed reports of the wedding which took place at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York in the presence of a few intimate friends. The bride now is residing with her husband's parents in Rochester.

Charge 3 Jurors Owned Stock in Closed N. Y. Bank

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—An affidavit by Bernard K. ITALIAN-AMERICANS DENIED HEARING ON DE MARTINO CHARGES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—An appeal by a group of Italian-Americans for a hearing to present charges against Ambassador de Martino of Italy and to submit a demand for the diplomat's recall was denied today by Secretary Stimson.

The Italian embassy ignored the incident, officials asserting it was "not worthy of the dignity of comment."

The secretary said he did not consider it a duty of his office to hold public hearings on charges against the representatives of friendly nations.

A resolution adopted by the group charged the ambassador's activities were causing "dissension and strife in the United States and are disturbing the peace of loyal American citizens of Italian extraction."

The communication to Stimson asking a hearing was signed by a number of Italian-Americans headed by Dr. Charles Fama of New York. It asserted the demand for the ambassador's recall was the result of activities for the court martial of Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler and the ambassador's "more recent investigation into the alleged criticisms of the Fascisti government by John Lord O'Brian, first assistant to Attorney General Mitchell."

State department officials said the resolution was in error in claiming De Martino had asked a court martial for Butler.

ditures," he complained, "editorial writers have drawn conclusions which have prompted them, for instance, to publish editorials without any qualifications whatsoever, saying, in effect, that Senator Nye had employed his own brother to be disbursing clerk of the committee and that his brother had drawn between $4,000 and $5,000 of the committee funds for personal compensation.

"As a matter of fact, his brother drew not one penny of compensation from the funds given to this committee to be spent for that purpose, not one penny; and yet I do not expect during the remainder of my days to catch up entirely with that sort of story."

So far as his committee had gone, Senator Nye continued, it had found no truth in the story about the senator and the sugar company president.

Gives Substance of Story.

Senator Watson wanted to know whether the story went to the effect that $100,000 had been given to some senator to lobby for the sugar trust. That was the substance of it, Senator Nye replied, except that no specific sum had been mentioned.

Then Senator Borah again entered the discussion, to say that, as he understood it, the Nye committee had ceased investigating because its jurisdiction was confined to campaign matters. That was so, Senator Nye answered.

"The senator," Senator Borah went on, "did not cease the investigation because he came to the conclusion that there was nothing convincing?"

"No, indeed not," Senator Nye replied.

Later the campaign investigating committee met to discuss what report it would make concerning its findings in connection with Senator Davis' campaign. At the close of the meeting Senator Nye announced that no decision had yet been reached and that the committee would meet again tomorrow.

AMENDMENT TO END LAME DUCKS PASSED IN HOUSE

Would Move Inauguration Up to January.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The Gifford-Norris resolution proposing an amendment to the constitutions abolishing "lame duck" sessions of congress and providing for the inauguration of a newly elected President in January rather than March was adopted by the house early tonight. The roll call vote was 289 in favor of the measure and 93 against.

As the measure has been approved by the senate, it now goes to conference, where an attempt will be made to iron out differences in the language of the two resolutions and send an approved measure to the White House before adjournment. Although the house resolution is objectionable to Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], in that it sets a limit on the second session of congress, indications tonight were that he would accept the revised resolution rather than see the legislation lost.

Only One Difference.

Although the Norris resolution, as approved by the senate, was completely rewritten in the house, the setting of a date limiting the second session of congress to four months marked the only important change between the resolutions as they were adopted by the two houses. Speaker Nicholas Longworth [Rep., O.] offered the amendment ending the second session on May 4.

The Gifford-Norris resolution as adopted proposes an amendment to the constitution which must be adopted by the legislature of three-fourths of the states before going into effect. Under this resolution the terms of the President and Vice President end on the twenty-fourth day of January and the terms of senators and representatives at noon on the fourth day of January of the years in which such terms normally would end. Congress would assemble on the fourth day of each January instead of on the first Monday in December. The President would be sworn in on Jan. 24.

Would End Lame Duck Sessions.

Approval of the Gifford-Norris resolution would make congress more immediately responsive to the people by requiring that the newly elected congress meet within two months of election day. Thus the present so-called lame duck sessions of congress, which include many members defeated at the polls, would be eliminated. The present three months' short second session of congress would be replaced by a four month-second session.

Under the present system, defeated candidates hang on to their positions for thirteen months after the election in which their successors were chosen. Newly elected senators and representatives have to wait for thirteen months before taking office.

Longworth Amendment Wins.

The big fight on the lame duck resolution centered on the Longworth amendment setting May 4 as the date of adjournment of the short session of congress. No sooner had this amendment been read than Speaker Longworth took the floor.

"The fundamental objection to this proposed legislation," said Mr. Longworth, "lies in the fact that it makes it entirely possible for congress to be in session perpetually. I think that congress and the country ought to have a breathing space now and then. It is not wise for congress to be in session during periods of political conventions. Members of congress should have time to go home now and then and look after their interests.

"With the adoption of this amendment, setting a limit on the session that comes in even years, my objection to the whole resolution is gone. It should be adopted."

The Longworth amendment was approved in committee of the whole by a vote of 193 to 125. Later, on a roll call vote, it was approved by 230 to 148.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Supreme court today set what its oldest attendants believe to be a record and precedent.

Another Official Pledges Fortune to Closed Bank

Walter Meyn, assistant cashier of the closed First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, returned to Hammond yesterday after an absence of several weeks in Florida. He had been asked to return by directors of the bank at the suggestion of deputy Indiana state bank examiners. Meyn, son of Peter Meyn, the president, will be questioned about his personal account, it is said. He announced that he would turn over to the bank his personal fortune, estimated at more than $160,000. The elder Meyn recently handed over his properties, valued at more than $500,000.

DRY LAW VALID, DECISION OF U. S. SUPREME COURT

Upholds Ratification of 18th Amendment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Validity of the 18th amendment was sustained today by the Supreme court of the United States.

JUSTICE ROBERTS.

The decision of Judge William Clark of Newark, N. J., the young federal jurist who held that the amendment should have been ratified by state legislatures, was reversed.

"The United States relies upon the fact that every amendment has been adopted by the method pursued in respect to the eighteenth," said the Supreme court in concluding its ruling.

"Appellees reply that all these save the eighteenth dealt solely with governmental means and machinery rather than with the rights of the individual citizen. But we think that several amendments touch rights of the citizens, notably the thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, and nineteenth, and in view of this weight is to be given to the fact that these were adopted by the method now attacked.

Ratified According to Law.

"For these reasons we reiterate what was said in the national prohibition cases, that the 'amendment by lawful proposal and ratification has become a part of the constitution.'

Justice Owen D. Roberts, the newest member of the Supreme court, wrote the opinion, which was concurred in unanimously by his associates. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes took no part in the consideration or decision in the case because of his participation as counsel in a prohibition case some years ago.

The Supreme court also handed down several other decisions bearing on various phases of prohibition.

In the case of Richard Husty and Charles Laurel, appealed from the western district of Michigan, the court held that the severe penalties of the Jones "five and ten" law are not applicable to conviction for possession of liquor. The lower court, which sentenced Husty to five years' imprisonment and a fine of $3,000 and Laurel to imprisonment for one year and six months, was instructed to resentence them with penalties which come under the possession section of the Volstead act, the court pointing out that the Jones law, in increasing penalties, did not include possession.

Property Forfeiture Upheld.

The government was upheld in a case involving the forfeiture of property of a distilling company because of failure to pay tax on distilled liquors, but lost in a case involving penalty taxes imposed upon a restaurant proprietor convicted of selling liquor.

The Newark case involving the validity of the 18th amendment was based on the indictment of William H. Sprague and William J. Howey for possession and transporting 50 barrels of beer. When Judge Clark quashed the indictment, delivering an exhaustive opinion that the 18th amendment had not been properly ratified, it tied up prohibition enforcement in so far as it fell under the jurisdiction of that particular court.

Other district judges, however, in different parts of the country, refused to concur in Judge Clark's decision. The case was rushed to the Supreme court and decided in record time, the lower court's decision having been handed down only last December. It was appealed direct to the Supreme court without going through the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Justic Roberts, in the decision of the Supreme court, sketched the arguments presented on both sides of the issue.

"The appellees contended in the court below, and here, that, notwithstanding the plain language of article V., conferring upon the congress the choice of method of ratification, as between action by legislatures and by conventions, this amendment could only be ratified by the latter," said the court.

"They say that it was the intent of its framers, and the constitution must, therefore, be taken impliedly to require, that proposed amendments conferring on the United States new direct powers over individuals shall be ratified in conventions; and that the eighteenth is of this character. They reached this conclusion from the fact that the framers thought that ratification of the constitution must be by the people in convention assembled and not by legislature, as the latter were incompetent to surrender the personal liberties of the people to the new national government. From this and other considerations they ask us to hold that article V. means something different from what it plainly says.

"In addition, they urge, that if there be any doubt as to the correctness of their construction of article V., the tenth amendment removes it.

"The District court refused to follow this reasoning. It quashed the indictment, not as a result of analysis of article V. and amendment X., but by resorting to 'political science,' the 'political thought' of the times, and a 'scientific approach to the problem of government.' These, it thought, compelled it to declare the convention method requisite for ratification of an amendment, such as the eighteenth. The appellees do not attempt to justify the lower court's action by the reasons it states, but by resubmitting to us those urged upon that court and by it rejected."

After a further discussion of the arguments advanced both for and against the decision of Judge Clark, the court continued:

"The constitution was written to be understood by the voters; its words and phrases were used in their normal and ordinary as distinguished from technical meaning; where the intention is clear, there is no room for construction and no excuse for interpolation or addition.

Contains No Limiting Phrase.

"If the framers of the instrument had any thought that amendments differing in purpose should be ratified in different ways, nothing would have been simpler than so to phrase article V. as to exclude implication or speculation. The fact that an instrument drawn with such meticulous care and by men who so well understood how to make language fit their thought, does not contain any such limiting phrase affecting the exercise of discretion by the congress in choosing one or the other alternative mode of ratification, is persuasive evidence that no qualification was intended.

"This court has repeatedly and consistently declared that the choice of mode rests solely in the discretion of congress."

The court asserted that the 10th amendment was intended to confirm the understanding of the people at the time the constitution was adopted that powers not granted to the United States were reserved to the states or to the people.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

CONTINUE QUIZ INTO U. OF IOWA FUNDS HANDLING

Legislators Study Gift of Rockefeller Millions.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Charges of irregularities in the handling of the $2,250,000 gift of the Rockefeller Foundation and in contracts for University of Iowa buildings were inquired into today by the joint legislative committee.

Light on the financial phase of the twenty-one accusations brought against the administration of President Walter A. Jessup was sought in minute books of the board of education finance committee and in the testimony of W. H. Gemmill, secretary of the board for many years.

It was a struggle between the committee attorney, Dennis Keleher, and the committee secretary, who is said to be the "political lobbyist" who has aided in keeping the board of education under the control of the Jessup group for many years.

The reading of many records and the asking of many questions brought out the picture of the university fund being handled at the will of a small group of men headed by the president, with much shifting of funds and control of bids.

May Place Responsibility.

In general, however, the day's testimony did not indicate any violations of law, or any misappropriation of funds. It opened the way to place responsibility for anything that may be shown in the future on Mr. Jessup. It showed that the superintendent of grounds, John M. Fisk, was given large powers in the matter of bids and construction. Whether this was a saving of money for the university or resulted in waste remains to be developed.

Several witnesses, whose names are kept secret, have been subpœnaed and the hearing is expected to be moved to Iowa City the latter part of the week.

President Jessup and members of the board of education remained in the committee room and followed the proceedings closely. "All old stuff," was the comment of the group on many of the charges brought by Verne Marshall, Cedar Rapids newspaper man.

Testimony Goes Back Years.

This is true. They are old. Some of the testimony today went back to 1923. But Mr. Marshall maintains that they have never been investigated, some of them never known before.

"We are waiting to have all the facts brought out," said Mr. Jessup. "We are mighty proud of our university. There are 5,200 students there, many coming from other colleges. That speaks well for what they are getting. We have a $20,000,000 plant, and have had many gifts and bequests, so that now only 56 per cent of the support need come from the state. I think that is a record."

He would not discuss the financial subject. He is expected to be called as a witness.

It was shown today that the Rockefeller money, which came in lots of $450,000 over a period of years, was transferred from one fund to another at will of the board of education or its finance committee. Such action always followed recommendation of President Jessup.

Asked About Contracts.

There was a transfer from interest fund to pay the cost of dedicating the hospital. Mr. Gemmill was questioned as to specific work taken over by Mr. Fisk, after bids had been opened. The committee attorney wanted to know if the university superintendent did not buy up three contracts. The witness did not recall it.

The charge against Fisk is that he drove the substantial contractors out of the university competition, and that work done under his jurisdiction was often wasteful and had to be done over again. It is complained that President Jessup has refused to investigate these charges.

One name was mentioned frequently in the testimony today, in the reading of board minutes. That was W. C. Stuckslager, a member of the board of education who had a good deal to do with investing the Rockefeller money in the east. Mr. Stuckslager, a banker of Lisbon, fell dead in the home of his daughter in Winnetka, Ill., on Monday.

ALLAN DINEHART IS ARRESTED ON WIFE'S ALIMONY CHARGE

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Allan Dinehart, playing the leading role in "That's Gratitude," was taken into custody by a deputy sheriff today and given his choice of membership in the Alimony club, which has windows with bars, or posting a bond to guarantee payment of $1,500 in temporary alimony to Mrs. Louise Dinehart, who has a divorce suit pending.

She contends that he has $1,000,000 and has been sharing a luxurious apartment with another woman. Mrs. Dinehart has been destitute, she says, and has been living on the bounty of friends, while her husband has been living up to an income of $100,000 a year, and has been showering money and other gifts on the other woman.

With Mrs. Dinehart's application for alimony there was filed by Harold Henderson an affidavit telling of a raid which was made on Dinehart's apartment, with Mrs. Dinehart and her sister, Madge Sheridan. They assert they found a woman there with Dinehart.

It is asserted that there are two co-respondents, one being a woman with whom Dinehart played in "Applesauce" some years ago. Dinehart, a popular actor on Broadway, was educated for the church and intended to enter the priesthood.

HARVESTER CO. BOMBING LAID TO COMMUNISTS

The police yesterday blamed communists for the bombing of the twine mill of the International Harvester company at 2557 Blue Island avenue on Monday night. The bomb broke hundreds of windows in the building and caused damage estimated at $1,500. Joseph Alekas, 3339 South Morgan street, organizer of an independent bakery union, was arrested by the police after the bakery of Joseph Wukins, 3357 Auburn avenue, had been bombed early yesterday. Wukins told police Alekas had threatened him when he refused to join the union and kept bread at 7 cents a loaf. Alekas was released after questioning.

Plead for Quota to Save Provisional Gifts.

With a deficit of $24,375 the $5,000,000 relief fund drive being conducted by the governor's commission on unemployment and relief enters the final day this morning. This relatively small deficit is in effect equal to $120,095, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the fund raising committee, pointed out, for unless the deficit is erased before tonight $95,720 in provisional donations, collection of which is contingent on the pledging of the entire quota, will be lost.

Workers Continue Efforts.

All day yesterday was spent by volunteer workers soliciting additional subscriptions from individuals and corporations who have indicated their willingness to contribute further to make the drive a success. Today will be spent in a final effort to complete the quota.

In answer to telephone and telegraph appeals the following plus donations were received: Crane & Co., $2,000; Victor Chemical works, $500; Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, $500; Mrs. James H. Douglas, $250; Reid, Murdock & Co., $250; Joseph A. Rushton, $250; Steele, Wedeles & Co., $100; R. O. Berger, $100; John Medlock, $250, and Dr. Peter Fahrney & Sons, $50. Other subscriptions received were $1,000 from employés of the New York Central railroad and $500 from the General Printing Ink corporation. Responses to the home mail appeal totaled $2,951.

Carry Plea to Resorts.

"In a final effort," Mr. Clarke said, "we are again soliciting corporations and individuals who have already contributed again and again. Our appeal has been wired to the winter resorts in Florida, California, and Arizona to reach prominent citizens who are out of town for the winter.

"Silas H. Strawn in California has already raised $750 and hopes for more. C. B. Goodspeed is working among Chicagoans in Arizona and Joseph M. Cudahy is hopeful that Chicagoans in Florida will aid in the final drive. Although the home appeal was disappointing we are sure the deficit will be raised before tonight."

FRACTURES SKULL IN FALL.

William Cotter, 12 years old, 1436 West 63d street, fell from the rear porch of his home last evening and was taken to the Englewood hospital, where it was found his skull was fractured.

Mexican Court Prepares to Hear McLean Divorce Suit

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Hearing of the divorce suit filed here Feb. 4 by Edward B. McLean, Washington, D. C., publisher, will be called in court within the next 20 to 30 days, it was learned today.

At the court house it was said that Mrs. McLean had not filed an answer to her husband's petition. The time in which this could be filed expired at noon yesterday.

McLean's application for divorce says he and his wife were married in Denver, Colo., July 22, 1908, and that three children were born of the union. He gave his age at 56 and hers as 54. His petition says he has established legal residence in Cuernavaca, and that "there is no premarital agreement in our marriage and there exists no property subject thereto."

Charges Incompatibility.

"Despite conciliatory efforts," the petition continues, "which I have made, I have found the character of my wife totally incompatible with mine, making harmonious conjugal life impossible.

"For two years the defendant and I have lived separately because of the radical incompatibility of our characters. The defendant has sufficient property of her own to cover, in ample manner, whatever necessities she or her minor children may need. There should, therefore, be no question regarding maintenance."

Lenient Divorce Laws.

The divorce law in the state of Morelos, which is one of the most lenient in Mexico, provides as one of the causes of divorce "incompatibility of the parties to the marriage."

Mrs. McLean, who was served with notice of the proceedings in Palm Beach, Feb. 11, may still oppose the suit by taking out a restraining order against the action until approximately March 15.

4-11 BLAZE HITS CHEMICAL PLANT; LOSS IS $75,000

Fire for which a 4-11 alarm was sounded, swept through the three story plant of the International Chemical company at 3140 South Canal street last night, routed two families from their adjoining dwellings on the south, and caused damage of $75,000.

The blaze started on the second floor and feeding on chemical supplies, spread quickly throughout the entire structure. As the fire gained headway, John Rice and his seven children were driven from their cottage at 3146 Canal street. His wife, Sadie, returning from church, saw the fire and fainted. Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Hodur and their seven children were routed from their home at 3148 Canal street. No one was hurt.

According to Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan an explosion preceded the fire.

CHARGES POLICE GOT SPEAKEASY CASH LIKE RENT

Spy Testifies 150 Places Paid $100 Month Each.

New York, Feb. 24. — [Special.] — Elaborating his charge that graft of up to $100 a month each was collected with the regularity of rent from 150 speakeasies by Patrolmen James Quinlivan and William M. O'Connor, Harry Levey, former stool pigeon, brought back from New Orleans, came out of the Tombs today to resume his rôle of accuser as their departmental trial began at police headquarters.

Pressed by defense counsel, James D. C. Murray, to name resorts where his story could be verified, he listed eight places by approximate addresses, and gave the names of the proprietors.

Collects for Policemen.

Then, through cross-examination during which Murray sought to intimate that Levey had been collecting, not for the police, but on his own account, the witness stuck to his story that Quinlivan and O'Connor had at first made the collections of personally. Only after a couple of months during which he made the rounds with them and met the owners.

In visiting the places, which he did between the first and fifth of every month from February to March, 1928 to 1929, Level used an automobile bought by Quinlivan, but registered in the stool pigeon's name, the testimony continued. For his share of the collections, which he estimated at about $7,500 a month, he received $40 or $50 a day during the period he was collecting, Levey swore.

Earlier in the proceedings Mr. Murray drew the ire of Deputy Police Commissioner Nelson Ruttenberg, presiding, by declaring that stool pigeons were used by plain clothes men, with the knowledge and consent of their superior officers, "from the commissioner down."

Calls Charge Unfounded.

"That is unfair and unfounded," Mr. Ruttenberg retorted. Later he said from the bench, in commenting upon the testimony of former Inspector William Day, who admitted that he knew Quinlivan and O'Connor were paying for information, that the purchase of information had always been a necessary part of police work.

Chile Mapocha Acuna, stool pigeon, who had been the principal witness at earlier departmental trials, took the stand after Levey had finished to accuse the two defendant patrolmen of misconduct in two vice cases. In both of these Acuna said he had figured as the "unknown man." His testimony, however, was secondary to that of Levey, which bore upon the main charge that Quinlivan and O'Connor induced Levey to flee to New Orleans and financed his trip so that he might not be used as a witness against them.

Threatens Driving Ban for Alderman's Daughter

Another traffic violation in Evanston will cost Miss Eleanor Massen, 20 years old, daughter of Ald. John A. Massen, of the 48th ward, the loss of driving privileges. She received this warning yesterday when Magistrate Harry Porter fined her $10 for speeding. It was her third offense. Judge Porter told her if she appeared in court once more he would revoke her driving license.

Raid on Englewood Brewery Spurs Police Graft Inquiry

Federal prohibition agents yesterday raided a brewery in the Englewood police district, where seven policemen are under accusations of accepting graft from speakeasy proprietors. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is in charge of the investigation of the police department by the special grand jury, immediately sought additional evidence against the police.

The raiders found 8,000 gallons of beer ready for bottling at the brewery, situated at 6646 South State street. The place was said to be the property of Vincent McErlane, one of the "public enemies" named by the Chicago crime commission. Capt. Michael Lee, commander of the district, said he had never heard of the brewery.

Asked About Suspension Request.

Prosecutor Mueller was asked yesterday if he had received a reply from Acting Police Commissioner Alcock regarding the requested suspension of the seven policemen of the Englewood district who were accused before the grand jury as graft collectors.

"I am not going to do anything about the matter today," Mr. Mueller said. "I think I'll let Alcock hold the bag for a while. I don't know what idea he has in the back of his head. I suppose he has one. We have done all we could. Now it is up to him."

Alcock refused to comment on Mr. Mueller's letter requesting the suspension of the policemen.

Criticizes Reinstatement.

Mr. Mueller criticized the reinstatement of 13 policemen who had been suspended. The prosecutor and the grand jurors had recommended the suspension of and the filing of charges against Sergts. James Coleman and Peter Bernacchi, who came under suspicion when the notorious Rex hotel, a vice resort at 22d and State streets, was raided. They had asked that the same action be taken against Sergt. Jack Herdegen, who was accused in connection with the protection of west side vice resorts. Mr. Mueller participated in the investigation which resulted in a federal indictment against two Negro policemen, James Howland and Wellington Britten. All were under suspension a short time, but were restored to duty by Alcock on the day before the primary.

A new order suspending Herdegen was issued yesterday, but nothing was done concerning the other policemen.

CITIZEN OF U. S., HE LOSES SEAT IN PARLIAMENT

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 24. (AP)—A Czecho-Slovakian court today canceled the parliamentary mandate of Karl Pergler, former minister to the United States, on the ground that he was an American citizen.

Inquiries revealed that Herr Pergler, who emigrated in 1906 to Cedar Rapids, Ia., had been naturalized an American and that his citizenship had never been revoked.

He met President Masaryk of Czecho-Slovakia in the United States in 1918 and became his secretary. Later he was named minister to Washington and then to Tokio. Recalled from Tokio, he became an opponent of President Masaryk and when he was elected to parliament joined the opposition to the government.

CUSTOMS COURT LIMITS FLEXIBLE TARIFF POWERS

Rules Coolidge Went Beyond His Authority.

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A distinct limitation of the powers of the President in remaking tariff schedules under the provisions of the flexible tariff act of 1922 was decreed by the third division of the United States Customs court today when it decided, in the case of the Fox River Butter company, that an order of former President Coolidge revising the tariff on cheese was unconstitutional.

The opinion, written by Judge George M. Young, former member of congress from North Dakota and member of the house ways and means committee which framed the Fordney-McCumber tariff act in 1922, also strikes at the basic constitutionality of the flexible tariff itself, which was affirmed by the United States Supreme court in 1928.

Judge Young's opinion was concurred in by Judge George W. Brown, and a dissenting opinion was filed by Judge Genevieve R. Cline, an appointee of former President Coolidge. Judge Cline held that the original decision of the Supreme court covered the point at issue in this case.

Held to Be Law Enacting.

The order raised the tariff on cheese from a flat 5 cents a pound and 25 cents ad valorem, to 7½ cents a pound, but not less than 37½ per cent ad valorem. The new rate was restricted to "eye formation cheese of the Swiss or Emmenthaler variety."

The contention of Judge Young was that singling out a particular kind of cheese was an act of legislation by the President, forbidden by the constitution. The flexible provision, Judge Young decreed, permits changes in rates alone, not in classifications.

"The minute the President does that," he said, "he goes into a new field. He makes new law."

If the President can make such changes in the tariff law he can also make similar changes in the income tax law without congress, the opinion predicts.

Classification Is "Despotic."

"Even those who talk of taking out of politics the necessarily political act of writing tariff laws," said the judge in his opinion, "will realize that our unique constitutional plan of representative government does not contemplate delegating to our President the power to write the language of the federal tax laws, including classification of persons into the groups that shall pay graduated rates of income tax. Yet if this can be done, so can that. We are not prepared to make a decision which legally authorizes the setting up of that executive despotism in America."

Harking back to the Supreme court's original decision affirming the constitutionality of the flexible tariff, Judge Young insisted that "complete uncontrolled executive power" was not an issue in that case.

"Executive Power" Not Extended.

"No claim of fancied necessity," he says, will support this attempted grant of executive power to write new tariff laws. A constitution that can be brushed aside by necessity is no constitution. Any claim that . . . the President might write better tariff laws than congress is not a legal argument, but a political plea for a more autocratic kind of government than the republican form which the constitution established."

Appeal from decisions of the Customs court is to the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals at Washington, and further appeal is to the United States Supreme court.

SHE GOES FREE

YVONNE RICHMAN MARCO.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Failure of New York police to provide details of a charge of grand larceny on which they sought extradition of Yvonne Richman Marco brought her release from custody on a writ of habeas corpus late today.

Mrs. Marco, 29, was wanted in New York for questioning in the hope that she could give information that would aid in clearing up the murder of her husband, who was taken for a ride by gangsters there a week ago. She was arrested yesterday following the funeral of Marco. She said she was willing to answer any questions but would not return to New York. She declined to comment on police belief that she might fear those who killed her husband.

The widow retired tonight to the home here of her parents-in-law, where she fled the day after she learned of her husband's death.

FRENCH ACTRESS IN CITY ON WAY TO ENTER MOVIES

Mme. Odette Autant, French actress, reached Chicago yesterday on her way from Paris to Hollywood, where she will enter the American movies. Her husband, Lara Autant, is already in Hollywood directing French versions of American pictures that are made for export. Mme. Autant is 21 years old. She thinks Charlie Chaplin's pictures are funny, that American men are nice, and that the country between New York and Chicago is "beautiful." She will appear in French talkies, she said, until her knowledge of the English language has improved.

Chicagoans Buy Miniature Ohio Railroad for $125,000

Lisbon, O., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The $2,000,000 Youngstown and Ohio River railroad, 38 mile line running between Salem and East Liverpool, O., was sold at auction today to Briggs & Turvias, Chicago brokers, for $125,000. The once prosperous railroad went into receivership when strikes closed numerous coal mines in its territory, a number of potteries moved from Ohio to West Virginia, and busses took much of its passenger business.

50,000 RUSSIANS FLEE INTO CHINA; FIND "PARADISE"

Gather Gold, Precious Gems and Rich Furs.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—A. R. Tamberg, a representatives of an American motor car company, has just arrived in Shanghai from a trip to Sinkiang, or Chinese Turkestan, and reported that more than 50,000 Russian refugees have fled into that area within the last year. According to Mr. Tamberg's report, a copy of which has been handed to the American consular authorities, the Russians are crossing the soviet boundary into Chinese Turkestan at the rate of more than 10,000 a year. Most of them are Cossacks, but many are Mennonites.

Most of the refugees are congregated in the vicinity of Tihwa, the capital of Sinkiang. Tihwa is approximately 2,800 miles due west of Peiping, but due to the soviet occupation of outer Mongolia it is now practically impossible to reach the territory except with the consent of Russian authorities.

Fear Russians Plan Coup.

According to Mr. Tamberg, Chinese authorities in Sinkiang have offered no objections to Russian immigration and have granted the refugees protection, but there is considerable anxiety that the Moscow government may use the presence of the refugees as a pretext for a military invasion somewhat similar to the soviet action in North Manchuria in 1929.

While some of the Russian refugees are trying to get into China proper by traveling over the long overland trail through Kansu and Shensi provinces at the western end of the Lung-Hai railway, which connects with the railways leading to Peiping, Tientsin and Shanghai, the majority are settling down, with the consent of the Chinese authorities, to become farmers and stock raisers.

The American's report revealed a story of a new "paradise" of central Asia, heretofore practically unknown. The province has an area of 550,000 square miles and a population of about 5,000,000, composed of Chinese, Manchus, Mohammedans, Mongolians, Turks, Asiatic Jews, Afghans, Hindus, and Russians.

50,000 Hunt for Gold.

The area is mountainous, with the Altai range on the north, the Tien Shan in the center, and the Kuenlun range in the south. The southern part of the province is occupied by the Great Gobi desert. From the desert on the south the territory changes to regions of immense fertility and forested districts in the north and east.

The chief occupation of the people is gold mining. About 50,000 are searching for gold nuggets in the Altai mountain district. Each digger works "on his own" and thus far has succeeded in the five month season in extracting an average of 10 ounces of gold, out of which he is required to pay a considerable portion in taxes. Most of the gold, after being smelted in a primitive manner, goes to Russia. In addition there are large supplies of coal and other minerals, as well as precious and semi-precious stones.

NEW YORK GANG WARFARE ADDS 2 MORE VICTIMS

1 Found Dead in Vacant House; Police Kill 1.

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The casualty list in the latest crime wave which began last week mounts to nine this afternoon when an Edison company inspector came across the body of a man about 27 years old lying in a refrigerator in an abandoned inn on Bergen avenue, Brooklyn.

The man, who had been shot twice in the head and had been dead apparently about twenty-four hours, had nothing on his body to identify him except a belt buckle with the initial "F" and some cards containing the addresses of restaurants in Queens and Brooklyn.

The building was in pre-prohibition days a sportsmen's rendezvous, and Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons used to train there when he fought at Coney Island. But it had been vacant since August, and it was by the merest chance that the inspector discovered its murdered tenant. Charles Schwartz, the inspector, had gone to the place to inspect the wiring.

The fingerprints of the dead man, apparently a victim of a gangster ride, were sent to headquarters for identification.

Before this discovery half a dozen policemen in three affairs with criminals today demonstrated the value of Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney's order that his men should go into action ready to shoot.

Two of them frustrated a daring daylight holdup attempt at one of the busiest corners of Brooklyn, Bedford avenue and Fulton street, wounded one of the holdup men and captured the other.

Some hours earlier three other policemen shot it out with two bandits in front of the Fox Congress theater on St. John's place. They killed one of them. One of the policemen was wounded twice, but he is expected to recover.

The third triumph of preparedness resulted in the capture of four armed men by a single policeman in a café on Eighth avenue.

Reds Riot at Graves of 31 Victims of Mine Blast

ESCHWEILER, Germany, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Wild scenes were witnessed at the cemetery here today when 31 victims of a fire damp explosion in a mine here were buried. A communist speaker indulged in such violent language that police expelled him from the cemetery. The crowd finally howled down a group of communists and the police cleared the cemetery. The explosion occurred Feb. 21.

WALES TO HUNT AND EXPLORE IN SOUTH ARGENTINA

Prince Will Visit Famous Show Places.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 24.—Early in March the prince of Wales will enter Argentine territory when he crosses the Chilean border and goes to Bariloche, in the heart of the southern lake district, where one of Argentina's patrician families—the Ortiz Basualdos—has placed its country seat at his disposal.

Lake Nahuel Huapi is one of the sights of Argentina, and yearly thousands of people journey there to contemplate the grandeur of the scenery and to recuperate their health in its cool, bracing climate.

Will Hunt and Explore.

Here the prince and his party are expected to pass two or three days hunting and exploring before undertaking a long cross country journey to Mar del Plata, where, except for a flying three day visit to Buenos Aires, they will spend the remainder of the first fortnight of March.

On March 14 the prince of Wales is scheduled to open the British trade exhibition in Buenos Aires.

Set Up British Surroundings.

Here the promoters of the exhibition have laid out a great deal of money in setting up typically British surroundings to their exhibits. All kinds of British industries will be shown "in action," and articles of the highest British workmanship will be on view with the purpose of impressing visitors with the idea that "British and best" is not a mere slogan.

After opening the exhibition the prince will make a short country tour, mainly by airplane.

MOBILIZE POLICE IN EUROPE; FEAR 'HUNGER RIOTING'

Jobless Ordered Out by Moscow.

VIENNA, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Police and soldiery of numerous countries of central and southeastern Europe, including the Balkans, were mobilized tonight to prevent disorders tomorrow—variously designated as international, communist, unemployment and hunger day—with force of arms if necessary.

From the nature of measures adopted and orders issued authorities appeared to anticipate stubborn resistance to orders issued in many countries forbidding demonstrations or indoor and outdoor meetings during the day. The demonstrations are said to have been ordered by Moscow.

Permit Parade in Austria.

Austria, where the influence of the communists on Socialist unemployed is slight, is one of the few countries where such strict bans against public gatherings have not been issued. A parade will be permitted here.

In Berlin, where authorities have forbidden a demonstration called by the communists, the police tonight warned that their clubs would be used freely in breaking up an attempt to stage a "hunger march." Minor disturbances occurred there tonight when groups of unemployed raided several foodshops and escaped with provisions.

In Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, and various other countries all forms of manifestations have been barred.

North France Imports Troops.

LILLE, France, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Sizable reinforcements of republican guards have been imported into northern France to cope with threatened communist manifestations tomorrow.

RAID HOUSE, DESTROY STILL.

Federal prohibition agents raided a house in Lansing, Ill., yesterday and destroyed a 600 gallon still, 75,000 gallons of mash, and 120 gallons of alcohol. No arrests were made.

AID OF YELLOW KID SEIZED AS $200 SWINDLER

Fred Buckminster, confidence man associate of Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil, was held in the lockup of the New City station last night because his legs failed him. Worse yet, however, the arrest served as a sort of epilogue to Buckminster's career, revealing him as allegedly stooping from high fleecing finance to small time stuff.

Last evening Buckminster and another man whom he knew as Bert Collins, entered the grocery of Mrs. Bertha Bandyk at 4743 South Laflin street. She looked searchingly at them a moment, and then screamed: "I know you two. You cheated me out of $200 last August." Buckminster and Collins turned and fled, pursued by Mrs. Bandyk's grown son and daughter. Collins leaped aboard a car and drove off, deserting his companion.

Buckminster hobbled away as fast as he could, but his legs, which have carried him for 64 years, failed him, and he was collared a block down the street by Policeman Charles Pribyl.

BURNING ACID STOMACH ENDS

Mr. C. M. Reade, Merchantville, New Jersey, writes, "After 15 years of searing acid stomach I began taking ACIDINE. From the first dose, about three weeks ago, I have enjoyed my old health back again."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

BRITAIN TO TELL ITALY OF FRENCH NAVY REDUCTION

Hopes to Win Five Power Accord in Rome..

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Arthur Henderson's traveling naval conference closed its one day stand here this afternoon and left for Rome as abruptly as it had arrived in Paris.

The flying squad of diplomats and naval experts, headed by the British foreign minister and the first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, departed at 5:25 o'clock, carrying with them what is widely rumored in semi-official quarters tonight to be the text of an accord which only needs the approval of Premier Mussolini to become effective. As a result, greater optimism prevails tonight than at any time since the close of the London naval conference that the five power naval treaty will become a reality, perhaps within the next few days, thus ending one of the principal menaces to the peace of the world.

Italian Snag Only Menace.

It is understood that as far as questions directly concerning France and England are concerned the accord is complete, and the only danger of the negotiations running into a snag lies in possible Italian disapproval.

Although official utterances envisage only a sort of a three-way holiday calculated to remove the danger of Franco-Italian rivalry from upsetting the equilibrium of the pact for England and America, the French spokesman today said that if Premier Mussolini accepts the proposition offered by the British there will be no obstacle preventing France and Italy from adding their signatures.

The new formula for settling the Franco-Italian naval dispute hinges on the implicit abandonment of Italy's demand for parity with France in return for a reduction in the French margin of superiority from 244,000 tons to around 150,000 tons.

Arrive in Rome Today.

The British representatives will arrive in Rome tomorrow and will inform Premier Mussolini that France is ready to reduce her tonnage superiority.

According to dispatches from Rome, Italy regards the settlement of naval differences as entirely possible under the arrangement between France and England.

Italy, it was stated, is ready to abandon a few thousand tons of naval construction and would be satisfied if her fleet was roughly equal to that of France in categories below battleships. Italy was granted parity with France in capital ships under the Washington treaty.

BRITTEN ASSERTS U. S. NAVY IS 'MURDERED' BY OWN COUNTRYMEN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], of the house naval affairs committee, today denounced the Hoover administration and congressional leaders over the failure of naval construction legislation to start the United States on the way toward a London treaty fleet.

Britten said congress' failure to pass the $74,000,000 construction program at this session had converted the London treaty into a "meaningless scrap of paper," and asserted congress was "being dominated by Socialists, bolshevists, communists, and pacifists of butterfly ideals."

The congress and the administration under which the London conference was promoted, he asserted, "will go down in history as lacking the courage and the leadership of making effective the first step towards international equality for the greatest nation on earth."

He declared that the navy was being murdered by its own countrymen.

The Britten statement today followed the disclosure that Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], of the senate naval affairs committee, had given up the fight in behalf of the warship construction bill and would make no more efforts this session to secure its passage.

The senate appropriations committee today added $10,000,000 to the second deficiency bill to start battleship modernization.

BOMB EXPLODES IN CUBAN PALACE; PERILS MACHADO

Youth Tries to Kill Him with Revolver.

HAVANA, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Cuban celebrants of the republic's independence anniversary today were excited by the knowledge that the life of President Gerardo Machado has been endangered twice in twenty-four hours. The first attempt came yesterday, when a bomb planted by a Cuban sentry exploded within the presidential palace.

The second was this afternoon, while the president was delivering a speech in dedication of the new capitol. A youth attempted to draw a pistol from his pocket but was seized by police.

Narrow Escape from Bomb.

Last night a sentry placed a heavy piece of pipe filled with dynamite in a four-inch vent running from the roof to the president's bathroom on the third floor, with a long fuse attached to be lighted from the top and explode the bomb in ten minutes.

But due to recent repair work, a pipe had been left in the vent which cut its diameter by half. Thus the bomb stopped in the bathroom of the floor above the president. It partly wrecked this bath, endangering the lives of the president's son-in-law's children in an adjoining room.

New Capitol Dedicated.

Otherwise the independence festivities were as carefree as in any year, with the young republic celebrating the "Grito de Baire"—the 36th anniversary of the uprising at Baire, which opened the successful war for independence from Spain—the inauguration of a new 700-mile highway, and the dedication of the new capitol, which cost $18,000,000.

The festivities began at midnight, with great revelry, and additional noise early this morning marked the dawn.

Woman Still Unidentified After Loop Suicide Leap

The middle aged woman who committed suicide on Monday night by leaping from the nineteenth floor of the Capitol building, 159 North State street, in the midst of the theater crowds was still unidentified last night. She was about 42 years old and rather poorly dressed.

SAW MISSING WOMAN'S BODY IN AUTO, HE SAYS

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The finger of suspicion today was pointed at William Frazer, 31, of Rahway, N. J., who, according to Assistant Prosecutor John B. Walsh of Union county, N. J., is being sought in connection with the disappearance and possible death of Mrs. Phoebe Stoder, 33, also of Rahway.

Mrs. Stoder, the Union county officials believe, may be the young woman whose body was found beneath a tree near Washington, D. C. The fact that the body had been exposed for several days made positive identification almost impossible.

Ira Jensen, who is a relative by marriage to Frazer, told Mr. Walsh that last Wednesday he saw Frazer's automobile in front of the missing man's home. There were handbags and extra clothing in the car, and it was apparent that Frazer intended to be away for a time.

Jensen, according to Mr. Walsh, declared he looked into the car and saw Mrs. Stoder's body beneath a blanket.

DEMAND RIGHT TO LET ALL SPAIN DECIDE ON RULE

King's Foes to Oppose New Government.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 24.—The Aznar government's idea of a constitutional assembly is such as to make a peaceful solution impossible in Spain, the Constitutionalist party declared tonight in a significant manifesto.

Thus the Constitutionalists, or, in other words, the assemblyists, opened an attack on the new government "the monarchical concentration," and reiterated their demands for a sovereign assembly to decide the fate of the monarchy.

The Constitutionalists, in characterizing the projected parliament as a body not representative of the people, said in their manifesto:

"We declare that the parliament announced by the government is nothing more than an ordinary parliament, fundamentally inacceptable because it presupposed the existence of the constitution of 1876, now nil, and will have its sovereignty limited by executive power."

They repeat that the only kind of assembly they will accept—and the Republicans and Socialists are behind them—will be one that will be an incarnation of national sovereignty entirely untrammeled in order to decide freely on the "fundamental institutions by which we are to be governed."

In many quarters it is felt that Aznar's cabinet is already doomed.

The government tonight announced its compromise offer to the railroaders' demand for higher pay. Union officials termed it so unsatisfactory that there may be a strike within the next 48 hours. To add to the excitement, the perpetually discontented taxi drivers of Madrid walked out tonight in time to annoy the theater crowd.

Daisy De Boe Lawyer Loses Another Plea for Retrial

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Daisy De Boe today lost another motion for a retrial on the charge of misappropriating Clara Bow's funds. Judge William Doran denied the plea of William Beirne, Daisy's attorney, that in granting her probation following eighteen months in jail the judge did not comply with the legal provision that he pronounce judgment and sentence within twenty-five days after the jury's verdict. Beirne gave oral notice of appeal.

HOW THOMPSON WAS NOMINATED.

Thompson has been nominated as Republican candidate for mayor. The majority of the Republican vote was against him, but its distribution made it ineffective. Judge Lyle could have been nominated if he had been given a clear field against the mayor, whose acts and character are condemned by the majority of the voters in his own party. The fears entertained during the campaign were proved to be well grounded. The opposition created by Thompson's record was divided by partisans and thus was conquered.

The principal diversion of votes from the man who could have won in opposition to Thompson was made by the Republican element which entered Ald. Albert and supported him. This was the Deneen group. It insured Thompson's renomination. The group did not expect to win. Even if Mr. Albert was deceived as to his strength his principal backers were not. As veterans experienced in Chicago campaigning they could see after the first week that Albert did not have even an outside chance. Nevertheless his backers persisted in keeping him in, although the effect of it could be anticipated. It may not have been so clear to many Republicans who voted for Albert. They may have been attracted by his good record in the council and may not have realized that their desire to defeat Thompson would be frustrated by their support of a candidate who could only divert votes from their intended purpose. The expected having come to pass, the city has the consequences on its hands.

Thompson as Republican candidate now goes into the election in April against Cermak, the Democratic nominee. The chance of escaping four more years of political depravity in the city hall is contained in the Democratic ticket. An independent candidacy in the election would take over the responsibility which Mr. Albert's candidacy carried in the primary. It would make another distribution of votes by dividing the opposition. A lesson is plain in today's news of the election. It is to be seen whether or not it means anything to people who prevented the defeat of Thompson in the primaries.

AMERICA'S INTEREST IN NAVAL POWER.

We have written repeatedly in recent years of our persistent drift into inferiority as a naval power and offered explanation of this strange phenomenon. The chief reason is our people's failure to realize what they have at stake, a growing commerce with the world, the safety and expansion of which has become without our knowing it essential to our prosperity. Even at this moment, when we are suffering acutely from the reduction of our foreign trade, we are not drawing the grave conclusion it should be driving home to every American, in every walk of life. Our commerce is now world-wide, growing in extent and in importance to our domestic welfare, to the investors in American business, to the farmer, to the millions of employed. This commerce is in need of protection on the highways of the world. We are not providing it.

But this indifference to our vital interest in sea power has effective allies. One is organized pacifism. The other is a strange kind of subservience, which is vague as to American interests but keen to perceive and to urge the interests of other nations, especially those of Great Britain. It is an astonishing fact a man of this mentality is in no less a responsible position than chairman of our house of representatives committee on naval appropriations, Congressman Burton L. French of Idaho, a very long distance from the sea, its interests or its dangers.

Chairman French is a persistent opponent of adequate naval measures. His point of view is significant. During the Geneva conference of 1927 he was honored by quotation in the house of commons, where Sir Austen Chamberlain, then British foreign secretary, gave to that appreciative audience the following as a statement of Britain's case with which no Briton would quarrel. Sir Austen did not say that an American might be less satisfied. This is Mr. French's statement:

"The people of Great Britain depend, and must depend, upon the outside world. Their dependency is for food; it is for clothing; it is for structural materials; it is for fuel and especially fuel oil. Great Britain must maintain open to her ships the lanes of the sea. To do this Great Britain must have naval bases, and Great Britain, more than the United States, is in need of types of ships such as cruisers that are swift and of widest radius of action. Great Britain must pay attention to the reserve supply of fuel oil, to materials of all kinds, in a manner that the United States does not need to consider.

"Stop the lanes of the sea to the ships of Great Britain and suffering would be brought to the people of the British isles within a period of weeks, and collapse of the British navy as a fighting force would be a matter of days.

"Turn to the United States. Our country could be cut off from the rest of the world and there would be food for our people, there would be fuel oil for our use, there would be materials of all kinds for our fabrication. The lanes of the sea might be closed to us for weeks or for years should the necessity arise. The United States within her own territory could sustain her own people without suffering, and could produce the materials to meet whatever emergency naval necessities might require in resumption of active naval warfare for the protection of the interest and dignity and honor of our country."

Another American has made a statement of America's interest in a navy capable of protecting our trade which Americans might compare with that of Mr. French. Mr. Hoover, who can hardly be classified as a militarist or extremist on naval power, in his speech at Boston, Oct. 15, 1928, said:

"The goods which we export contribute to the purchase from foreign countries of the goods and raw materials which we cannot ourselves produce. We might survive as a nation, although on lower living standards and wages, if we have to suppress the 9 per cent or 10 per cent of our total production which is now sold abroad. But our whole standard of life would be paralyzed and much of the joy of living destroyed if we were denied sufficient imports. . . .

"Our total volume of exports translates itself into employment for 2,400,000 families, while its increase in the last seven years has interpreted itself into livelihood for 500,000 families in the United States. And in addition to this, millions more families find employment in the manufacture of imported raw materials. The farmer has a better market for his produce by reason of their employment."

The man who made the statement of our interest in sea power which so pleased the British statesman is palpably unfit for the chairmanship of the house committee on naval appropriations or for any place on any committee having to do with our defense or our international interest in any phase. That he should be where he is, in a place giving him power to do much mischief, which power he uses, is a remarkable instance of the irresponsibility of congressional politics.

RATIFYING CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

The decision of the Supreme court upholding the validity of the ratification by state legislatures of the 18th amendment will not surprise many lawyers. The argument advanced by Judge Clark and the very able lawyers who as amici curiæ attacked the amendment raised very important issues, but though they were plausibly reasoned from a legal standpoint they were essentially of a political nature.

The decision of the Supreme court, it should be understood, does not by any means foreclose discussion and consideration of the real issue, which is the desirability of correcting the method of ratifying amendments of the fundamental law. Our federal practice has been to ratify by state legislatures, ignoring the alternative method permitted by the amending article of the constitution, that of ratification by conventions in the states called for the purpose of considering amendments submitted by the congress. If the method of ratification by state legislatures is unsatisfactory, as we believe it clearly has been shown to be, congress itself can correct the evil by choosing the other method. At the same time, since this will not be thought a sufficient safeguard, steps may be taken to amend the amending clause of the constitution to make submission to state conventions mandatory instead of as now permissive.

THE BONUS FOR CONGRESSMEN.

The senate and the house passed the bonus bill expecting the President to veto it. Congressmen voted overwhelmingly for the bill because they counted upon it to endear themselves to the veterans among their constituents. As there are, on the average, some six or seven thousand veterans in each congressional district the advantages of the bill in forthcoming elections are not to be despised. To each congressman the bonus bill has the value of a couple of dozen postmasterships of the second class and a score of United States marshals in the bargain.

That was on the credit side. From the congressional viewpoint there was no debit entry. To be sure, Mr. Mellon foresaw tax increases, but if his fears are realized the President and not the congressmen will bear the blame. Therefore, Mr. Mellon's points were scarcely examined. The passage of the bill put the President in an awkward corner. He could veto it, thereby risking loss of support among the veterans; or he could sign it, contrary to the advice of his secretary of the treasury, and face the likelihood of an enforced increase in the income tax rates for which he would be held responsible.

Under the circumstances it is scarcely astonishing that this congress voted as it did. There have been congresses whose members could think of something besides their own political advantage; but this congress is incorrigible. Not in our time has there been a match for it.

Editorial of the Day

A STATE PAYS FOR POLITICAL FOLLY.

[Kansas City Star.]

Mississippi, at least its governor, seems about to learn a valuable yet costly lesson. It is that political interference with education is extremely bad business. About a year ago the state educational institutions of Mississippi virtually were demoralized through the action of Gov. Bilbo in wholesale removal of teachers and directing heads, who were replaced by persons of limited or no competence. The result was serious and immediate disturbance of educational standards, and the state schools were dropped from the accredited list of one scientific or educational organization after another.

As the serious consequences have become apparent it is reported that the governor has moved to restore the educators to their posts and thus to attempt a remedying of the evil. But with a representation of this character with regard to the state school of medicine, the council on education of the American Medical association has declined to remove the institution from its list of suspensions. It desires further assurance that the gesture at restoration is genuine. Such an attitude is understandable and it probably will be that of other educational bodies. It will require more effort to rebuild than was necessary to tear down the school standards of a state. Yet the reconstruction can and should be done, with its warning against repetition of expensive meddling for political purposes.

POWDERING NOSE IN PUBLIC

WALKING down the street I noticed the cashier of a restaurant powder her nose industriously as she sat there working at her job. She reminded one of an ant washing his face. Now, ant society probably is the best the world knows of unless it be bee society. The best that man has ever been able to do at making a society is a mighty poor product as compared with what bees and ants do. Maybe it will help to keep me from being murdered by indignant nose powderers to run in right here that both ant society and bee society are bossed by females of the species.

In this particular case of nose powdering the cashier sat in front of a large street level window. She faced the customers beyond, but the cash register acted as something of a screen. On the cash register the lady had set up a small nose mirror. When business slackened she studied her face in the mirror secreted from the restaurant trade but badly exposed to the street wayfarer, and then went through the ant motions as she powdered her nose. I confess to have been one of the street gang, and I want to make amends for snooping by telling the lady something about powdering her nose.

The skin is studded with grease and sweat glands. These glands must have open mouthed tubes through which to pour out the sweat and grease they are to supply. If these mouths are kept plugged with powders, however harmless the powder may be, some harm to the skin may result. Men who do heavy labor and sweat profusely develop skin troubles if the mouths of the sweat glands are kept plugged. The evidence on that point, however, is not overly convincing. There is more likelihood that stopping the mouths of the grease glands tends to blackheads, pimples, and acne.

Cleaning the skin is fine, as the ants and bees know, but powdering it is not so fine. Most face powders are made of good, clean dust of one sort or another. Some of them contain lead and other poisons. Lead poisoning has resulted from the use of lead powders. Babies have been poisoned by feeding at breasts powdered with lead powders.

There are some powders that are made of substances that are wholesome to most people but are poisonous to others. There are people who, we say, are "sensitized to powders." For instance, rice powder is inoffensive to most people, but there are some who are poisoned by it. Let me add that there are some who are poisoned by the substances used in lipsticks and in eyebrow pencils.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE'VE GOT TO DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT!

A woman who killed her husband in a quarrel over a bridge game is on trial for her life in Kansas City. The trouble arose apparently because the wife raised her husband's bid two points to four spades and husband failed to make the bid. It's all Greek to us, as we don't play bridge, but we had always understood that killing was never permitted unless the wife or husband trumped the other's ace. That was always held by the courts as justifiable homicide. The Kansas City case presenting a different angle, we could only advise husband to crawl out the window and escape when friend wife raises his bid from two points to four.

But, anyhow, the trial now on in Kansas City shows that something should be done about bridge. In the grand old American game of poker there were few casualties compared to bridge, and the players were rough, hard men who were out for cash. Yet it was considered unethical to shoot unless one of the players was detected dealing from the bottom of the deck or taking needed cards from his sleeves. Even then a hint, or some kind of preliminary warning, was often given before the six-shooters were brought out. The gentle veiled suggestion of a player in a poker game out west is still remembered and has become a classic. He suddenly looked up from his cards and drawled softly: "There's a guy at this table a-pulling aces out from under his vest. I hain't namin' no names or a-indicatin' who 'tis, but if he does it again I'll shoot his other eye out."

Some such evasive remark, general in its nature but so worded that the offender could take warning, should be used in bridge. Bridge is usually played for pennies or nickels, as we understand it, but poker went up into the thousands. And poker was played by men strangers to each other, while the bridge casualties are among husbands and wives. In poker only cheating called for the death penalty, but in bridge if the husband or wife raises the other's bid, and then through stupid playing or ill luck loses the trick, then the guns begin to bark. Apparently, a husband who would never say a word about his wife's cooking or how much money she spends for hats will stand up and talk to his wife like an army sergeant to a squad of raw recruits if she doesn't play a bridge hand to suit him. And the same thing for the wife if husband messes up the game. Anyhow, the number of casualties seem to call for another amendment to the constitution forbidding husband and wife to play bridge together. Write to your congressman today!

ATTAINMENT.

If dust of me, rekindled in a star
Might shine to thin the edges of the night
And there, remote, a lonely avatar
Resolve my meters into rippling light,

If drops of me might run with silver feet
Through banks of flowering touseled heads of gold
And breath of me might softly sing awake
Wild violets dreaming in their beds of mold,

O then, the all of me, disseminate
In light, fluidity, and rhythmed air
Might pulse the very heart of poetry
Nameless, the accolade of Poet wear.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

A MAN HAS BEEN sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary for robbing hen roosts in Pennsylvania. The poor boob should have got life. If he'd taken a gun and held up the farmer that owned the chickens he would probably have got nothing worse than a change of venue, a quo warranto, or a habeas corpus, depending on how smart his lawyer was.

REP. TINKHAM OF MASS. has introduced into the house a bill designed to banish the church lobby headquarters presided over by Bishop James Cannon Jr. and Dr. Clarence True Wilson from Capitol Hill in Washington. Mr. Tinkham maintains that the existence of the great lobby buildings right at the very doors of congress violates the spirit of the constitution regarding the separation of church and state. Oh, Mr. Tinkham, you are so mid-Victorian. We only use the constitution nowadays to carry the 18th amendment. And, besides, Mr. Tinkham, don't you think Bishop Cannon and Dr. Wilson were very nice to go to the expense of putting up buildings of their own instead of taking the capitol itself for their headquarters? Very self-sacrificing and very noble of the bishop and the Doc, say we.

THE BARBER in the statehouse of Oklahoma let his razor slip and nipped the countenance of Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray, and he's been told to move his shop. Which disposes of another popular delusion; everybody thought Alfalfa Bill was so hard you could break rocks on his face and it wouldn't hurt him. But now it seems he is just human like the rest of us.

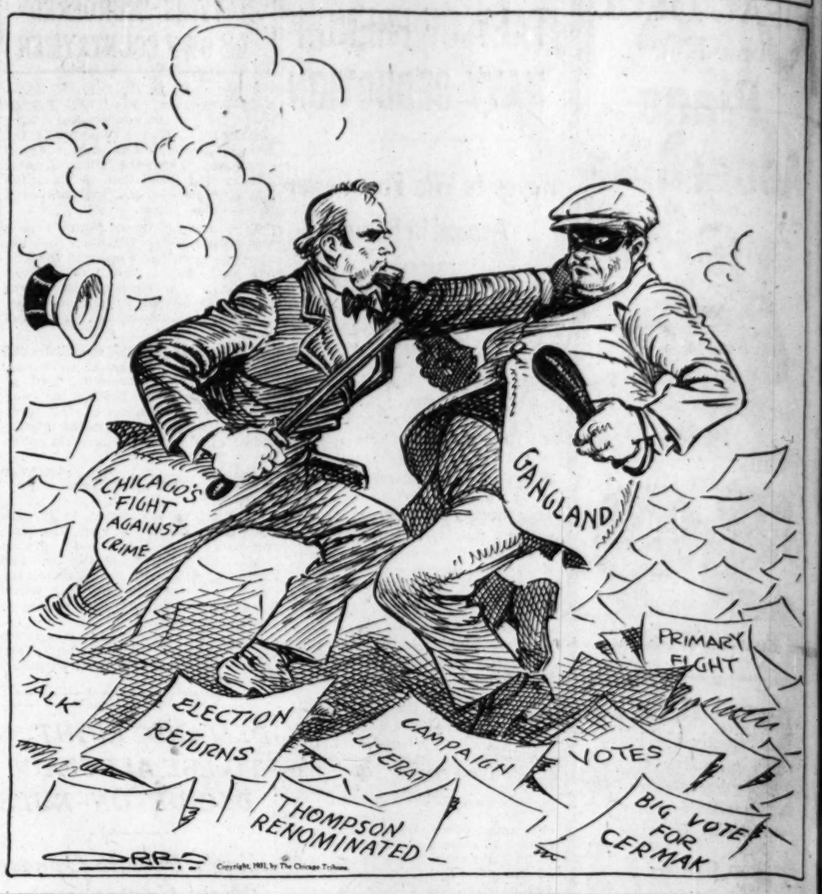
THE ACTOR who years ago played dear, sweet, darling little Lord Fauntleroy has been arrested for stabbing a woman with a knife. Ah, how sweet little Lord Fauntleroy was with his velveteen suit and the big sash tied around his waist and his long curls and the loving way he called his mamma "dearest." Every time we saw him in the old days when the women all around us were weeping scalding tears and saying, "Isn't he sweet," we used to just yearn to take him across our knee and spank him an hour by the watch. Maybe it would have been better if we had.

LAGNIAPPE.

A POOR, RAGGED GIRL stopped us in the street yesterday and begged for money to buy herself some shoes and get a cup of coffee. We hastily gave her two bits. You can't be too careful these days. That poor, ragged girl who begged money for shoes and a cup of coffee may have been Al Capone in disguise.

WE APOLOGIZE to Mussolini today. We can't think of anything especial for which to apologize, but we apologize anyhow. And, anyhow, we apologize for using his name without cabling him for permission. But cable messages are expensive; and, furthermore, we couldn't apologize to Mussolini without using his name. Please, Mr. Mussolini, no court martial; we apologize, we apologize. R. H. L.

A GOOD TIME TO REDOUBLE OUR EFFORTS



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 25, 1915.

LONDON.—The day's developments in the naval warfare follow: British armed merchant cruiser Clan MacNaughton is missing and official news bureau admits it may have been destroyed; 208 men reported to have lost their lives; steamer Rio Parana torpedoed and sunk off Beachy Head, but the crew, numbering 31 men, was saved; steamer Oakby torpedoed off Rye and sunk, the crew being rescued by fishing smack and landed at Ramsgate; steamer Harpalion torpedoed off Beachy Head, with three of the crew killed and forty-one other members landed at Newhaven; Norwegian steamer Vitalia, bound from New York to Rotterdam and loaded with meats from Chicago, detained by the British government.

WASHINGTON.—Great Britain has submitted to its allies, France and Russia, the proposals made by the United States government designed to end the menace to neutral commerce arising from the retaliatory measures of the European belligerents.

CHICAGO.—G. F. Rinehart, the man who led the fight which resulted last fall in making Arizona a prohibition state, has been employed to manage a similar campaign in Chicago. The general committee of church and temperance workers is sponsoring the cause.

PETROGRAD.—An official war statement says: "Severe fighting continues on the right banks of the Bobr and Narew rivers. German detachments, which took the offensive near Ossowetz on Feb. 21, were forced back by the fire of our artillery. Fighting is in progress north of Lomza, on the roads to Radziłowo, Artchoutchina and Kolno. In spite of strong German forces we hold Jedwabno."

FEBRUARY 25, 1901.

LONDON.—A correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "Gen. De Wet was routed by Col. Plumer, with whom were Cols. Henniker, Craddock, Jeffreys and Grabbo. This success was preceded by a series of desperate attempts on the part of the Boers to escape from the water belt of the Orange and Brak rivers. At Zuurgat the Boers fled, leaving their horses ready saddled and their cooking pots full." The engagement between Col. Plumer and De Wet is reported to have taken place near Desselfontein, on the south bank of the Orange river. The Daily Telegraph says that President Steyn has told the Boers they must all shift for themselves, returning to Orange River Colony as best as they could. "He and Gen. De Wet took 300 of the best horses with which to escape," the report states.

WICHITA, Kas.—A small room made of boiler iron, mounted on wheels, has been ordered of an eastern machine company by John Webster, refugee jointkeeper of Kansas. He will use the iron room as a joint. Webster was the part owner of one of the saloons smashed by Mrs. Nation early in her career, and he proposes to give the crusaders something they cannot smash.

FEBRUARY 25, 1881.

LONDON.—More troops will be sent to South Africa to fight the Boers. The Cape government, it is learned, has sent terms to the Basutos. They must be accepted in twenty-four hours.

WASHINGTON.—The President and Mrs. Hayes gave an elaborate reception at the White House in honor of the diplomatic corps. Representatives of foreign nations at Washington were dressed in the court dresses of their respective nations, and our own army officers appeared in their uniforms. Nearly all of the senators were present, but owing to the filibustering in the house there were not many representatives on hand. Quite a sensation was caused among the ladies when the sergeant at arms of the house appeared and arrested eleven truant representatives and took them from the scene of mirth and melody.

CHICAGO.—The sultan has ordered 30,000,000 cartridges from this country, which does not indicate peaceful intentions towards Greece on his part. In official circles at Berlin it is almost conceded that war cannot be prevented, and the energies of Germany will be bent to keep the war as near the archipelago and the Adriatic as possible.

CUBA'S FUTURE.

South Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 22.—A good many years ago THE TRIBUNE published a remarkably prophetic editorial headed "Our Destiny," showing that however much we might be against it, the United States could not escape ultimately directly or indirectly controlling all the territory south to the Panama canal.

When the United States set up Cuba as a supposed independent nation, Washington selected Estrado Palma as the first president, a great Cuban patriot who had fought in the various Cuban rebellions against Spanish rule, had been head of the Cuban junta maintained at Washington, but had become a professor at Cornell university.

Palma seriously objected to accepting the offer of president, publicly stating repeatedly that "the Cuban people would not be prepared or competent to govern themselves for at least one hundred years." Subsequent years have shown that Estrado Palma was right. The United States has had to intervene twice in Cuba, taking over its government, maintaining order, pulling it out of bankruptcy, and starting it off again as a nation.

When we were winding up our second intervention President Roosevelt openly and bluntly warned Cuba that if we had to come down a third time to establish order and safety of people and property we would stay there permanently. That time has come. In fact, it came a number of months ago.

There is no such a thing in Cuba as national patriotism. Politicians and schoolboys talk it, but today or any other day for the last thirty years if a secret honest ballot of the Cuban inhabitants were taken it would show 95 per cent in favor of the annexation of Cuba by the United States. The other 5 per cent are officeholders or would-be officeholders.

The assessed valuation of all real or personal property in Cuba is three billion dollars. Over half of this is owned by American citizens and a good slice of the remaining half is owned by English and Canadian and French subjects. Sugar is 84 per cent of the exports of Cuba and 89 per cent of this business is owned by Americans. The banking business of Cuba is practically entirely in the hands of Americans and Canadians. Americans own the tobacco production, public utilities, and other great enterprises.

Let our government buy out the beet sugar producers of the western states [it is an exotic product at best] and the cane sugar growers of Louisiana and annex Cuba. If that were done what is now Cuba would buy more machinery, automobiles, pianos, radios, shoes, clothing, almost everything else imaginable than our total exports to Canada or any other country in the world. BACK WHERE BANKS FAIL.

New York, Feb. 14.—Well, I'm out of Chicago again, and what a relief! After a week of poor hotels, hick newspapers, extortionate taxicab rates, political ballyhoos, and hayseed citizens who walk down the left side of the sidewalks, to say nothing of the sinister looking characters that stare at you on every corner in the loop, it's nice to know that you are safely back in God's country once more. C. D. BARRETT.

UP NORTH TO STAY.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—I wonder if R. C. really witnessed the scene he depicted between Mass George and the big Negro Henry and his family, or is it just a fictitious tale to bring out his conviction that the Negro would be better off down south again?

In answer to R. C. I say nothing would happen in Chicago if Julius Rosenwald would offer free tickets to points south. Who wants to go back where they cannot have equal privileges as a citizen?

We do not live by bread alone; neither do we live for bread alone. And in R. C.'s article bread and cake was the only thing Mass George offered Henry and his family. He said nothing of an education for Henry's six children who are to become future citizens. But Chicago does offer equal rights, privileges, opportunities, and education for these six children and all others within her jurisdiction. It is for these advantages we live in the north.

And another thing. Julius Rosenwald would be the last man in Chicago to offer free tickets to points south. There is a living proof for this, the Michigan Boulevard Garden apartments owned and built by Rosenwald, and if he had wanted the Negro to live in the south again he would have built it in Louisiana instead of Chicago.

OLA MAE WOOLRIDGE HITT.

THE GENTLEMEN OF ANN ARBOR.

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 21.—I noticed in a news article on Feb. 20 that Judge Rapp said to the college students of Ann Arbor, Mich., in effect, that there would be no charges if they would act like gentlemen. I assume this applies to the violation of the prohibition law. That proves exactly what most people thought all these years, that this act was not intended by its promoters to affect gentlemen. The only question is who are the gentlemen.

Certainly no gentleman will ever be prosecuted. It was intended only for laborers, aliens, and colored men. For instance, witness the scene at the Kansas City Republican convention.

E. V. OLVA.

WAR.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Fourteen thousand bodies of Frenchmen killed on the battlefield at this late date not given decent burial and 50,000 more covered by only a few inches of soil, many daily laid bare by the elements of nature. Lack of money is said to be the reason for this "scandalous condition." At the same time the French government proceeds to appropriate $258,000,000 to spend on its army in 1931. What a cruel, ghastly, wasteful, and incongruous thing is this business of making war. PAUL H. WEEKMAN.

GAME PRESERVES.

Argo, Ill., Feb. 20.—I think it would be a good idea for congress to pass a bill for the purchase of a few million acres of cheap farm lands and set them aside for game refuges, forest preserves, etc., especially the overflow lands that are costing so much for protection and very seldom pay their way when we do protect them. Why drain the bottom lands, only to flood the country with more grains than we can use?

STATE PLEDGES EARLY PAVING OF GAPS IN COUNTY

Need 5 Miles of Highway on 22 Stretches.

Assurance that the paving of about five miles of gaps in Chicago and Cook county state roads will receive immediate attention from the highway department was promised County Highway Superintendent George A. Quinlan yesterday by H. H. Cleaveland, director of the state department of public works and buildings.

The gaps should be paved at an early date, Mr. Cleaveland wrote Quinlan. Twenty-two breaks in the hard roads, ranging from fifty feet to three-quarters of a mile in length, are involved in the promised improvements. They were left open during the road construction because of contemplated railroad grade separations or to allow earth to settle.

Reduces Effectiveness of Roads.

Because of these incompleted portions, "the effectiveness of a great number of our highways has been materially reduced," Maj. Quinlan wrote Mr. Cleaveland last week, and asked that the paving go forward immediately.

"The weather is propitious and I believe this is the type of work that you are extremely anxious to have completed at the earliest moment possible," he wrote.

In reply, Director Cleaveland wrote: "I am forwarding this information to the division of highways, suggesting that these matters receive their early attention. Unless there are reasons of which I am not informed it would seem to me advisable that these gaps be paved at an early date, and I am making this suggestion to the highway department."

Some Long Gaps Involved.

The longest strip which would be paved is on 159th street, extending seven-tenths of a mile from a point one-third of a mile east of Torrence avenue through to Burnham avenue.

Another gap is on Butterfield road and runs 2,500 feet west from Mannheim road. One gap of 1,650 feet on Cumberland avenue under the Chicago and North Western railway is named on Quinlan's list he sent to Springfield together with another of equal length on Waukegan road over the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul tracks.

A RADIO MAN IS ASKED TO DOUBLE FOR THE DOCTOR

Eugene Gerhardt, 5002 North Springfield avenue, sold a radio set on Monday to the Joseph Kays of 914 Crescent place. When he arrived to install the machine the same afternoon Mr. Kay was not present. Mrs. Kay was, and according to Mr. Gerhardt she was wearing cerise pajamas and a dressing gown.

Not bothered, Mr. Gerhardt was busy with the radio when, according to his story, Mrs. Kay, who had retired to the next room, suggested that he help her get a cinder out of her eye.

Just about the time Mr. Gerhardt began to oblige there was another interruption. Mr. Kay entered. He seemed to be peevish, according to Mr. Gerhardt. As the radio man relates it, Mr. Kay was so out of humor nothing would satisfy him but $1,000 of Gerhardt money.

Mr. Gerhardt, being familiar with the time payment plan, suggested that Mr. Kay take nothing down and meet him in Evanston for the next installment. Mr. Kay agreed, but when he kept the rendezvous he found not only the radio salesman, but Detective William Calderwood carrying a complaint charging attempted extortion. Mr. Kay spent the night in the town hall police station.

PERU SEEKS TO END REVOLUTION BY NEGOTIATION

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The southern rebels who seized the city of Arequipa last week have set up their own Peruvian government under the name "Southern Junta" and the troops garrisoned at Cuzco have joined their banner.

One hundred high officials of the Lima garrison met behind locked doors in the Military club last night and today they decided to send delegates to treat with the Arequipa insurgents. They designated three of their number to fly to the southern city.

Yesterday Provisional President Cerro withdrew his candidacy for the presidency and his Lima military supporters said they believed that the Arequipa rebels would line up with them when they were informed of this.

Previous government announcements said loyal troops were moving upon Arequipa while today the cruiser Bolognesi was en route to Mollendo, but the government desired to end the trouble by peaceful negotiations if possible, thus avoiding an open civil war. Mollendo is the port of Arequipa and controls that city's trade.

CHICAGO FLYER IS HELD CAPTIVE BY PERU REBELS

B. D. Rickards, 24 years old, a mail flyer and son of E. L. Rickards, secretary of the Western Automobile Underwriter's association with offices at 175 West Jackson boulevard, is being held captive by rebel troops at Arequipa, Peru, it was learned yesterday.

Rickards, who for the last 10 months has been a pilot for the Pan-American Airline, flying the mail between Lima, Peru, and Arica, Chile, was arrested by the rebels when he landed Monday at Arequipa, which is a regular stopping point on the route. He is reported to be well but his term of captivity remains indefinite.

Rickards flew a tri-motored Ford plane, carrying both mail and passengers, but he was alone in the plane when he landed at Arequipa. He was formerly a pilot for the Western Air Fast Express.

LOWELL DENIES HE'S TO QUIT AT HARVARD IN 1932

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 24.—(AP)—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard university today denied a story published by the Boston Post to the effect that he plans to retire at the close of the academic year ending in June, 1932.

The denial was issued through the university offices and was confined to the bare statement that the report was untrue. President Lowell has declined newspaper interviews for many years.

The Post said Dr. Lowell intended to submit his resignation shortly in order to give the university plenty of time in which to choose a successor.

RUNAWAY TRUCK KILLS A WOMAN; HURTS ANOTHER

The dead woman was Mrs. Anna Silkin, 41. She was struck as she was crossing the street and crushed to death before the eyes of a dozen or more awestruck beholders. Mrs. Ida Lozar, 52, was felled as the runaway truck veered up onto a sidewalk in its mad flight down the incline, but escaped with a broken arm and internal injuries.

The driver of the truck was in a store making a delivery at the time. He and a clerk chased the runaway for a block down the incline but were unable to overhaul it.

RESUME HEARING ON PETITION FOR TRACK REMOVAL

Hearing on the petition of the Lincoln park commission seeking removal of street car tracks in Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street was resumed yesterday before the Illinois commerce commission. J. Rowland Bibbins, Washington traffic expert, produced statistics on traffic over the Michigan avenue bridge to show the need for a new high speed north and south traffic outlet.

The tracks in question were laid under a temporary order during the Pageant of Progress exposition in 1921, and are still in use, although, the park commission charges, a gentlemen's agreement at the time provided for their removal at the conclusion of the exposition. The tracks are in the middle of what will be the new outer drive when the link bridge at the mouth of the river is completed.

Robber Caught by Tribune Men Is Held to Grand Jury

Alex Paucsek, 4342 Washington boulevard, who was captured by two TRIBUNE truck drivers whom he tried to hold up, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $30,000 on charges of robbery when he was arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace Paul R. Wick of Oak Park. Paucsek was caught in Oak Park on Feb. 19 by J. A. Ryan of 1630 North Shore avenue and Francis Black, 2510 Aubert avenue, the drivers, after a hand to hand struggle in which he was disarmed.

W. M. SCUDDER, VETERAN NEWARK EDITOR, IS DEAD

Newark, N. J., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Wallace McIlvaine Scudder, one of the founders of the Newark Evening News and its publisher since it was organized in 1883, died suddenly today as he sat reading after luncheon in his home here in Newark. He was 77. Death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. Scudder was born in Trenton, N. J., Dec. 26, 1853, the son of Supreme Justice Edward Wallace Scudder and Mary Louise Drake Scudder, who was a daughter of Supreme Court Justice George King Drake. His family traces its ancestry to Thomas Scudder, who emigrated from London to Salem, Mass., in 1635.

After giving the law a trial, Mr. Scudder embarked in the newspaper business in 1883, with Henry A. Steel, formerly connected in an editorial capacity with the Philadelphia Press, and Lorenz Mott, founder of the Newark News. Shortly afterward Mr. Mott sold his interest to Mr. Scudder and in 1891 Mr. Steel retired, leaving Mr. Scudder the sole owner.

Washington Courthouse, O., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Jane Daugherty, widowed mother of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, and Mal S. Daugherty, who is on trial here for alleged misapplication of funds while president of the closed Ohio State bank, died at her home early today. She was 95 years old.

Indications were that the trial of Mal would be continued until after his mother's funeral.

Miss Gates was a former professor of physics at Goucher college, Baltimore. She next served as dean of women at the University of Illinois. For the last three years she was head of the department of science at the Roycemore school in Evanston. During the war Miss Gates had charge of Y. W. C. A. work in New York.

FORMER RULER OF OLDENBURG DIES; OUSTED BY WAR

OLDENBURG, Germany, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The former Grand Duke Friedrich August of Oldenburg died today at the age of 78. The grand duke abdicated Nov. 11, 1918, when a body of revolutionary sailors from Wilhelmshaven told him that the time for royalty in Germany had passed. After that time he lived quietly on his family estate at Rastede and took up farming and local industrial interests. His eldest daughter, Sophie Charlotte, married the former kaiser's second son, Prince Eitel Friedrich. She divorced him after the war, marrying a cavalry captain, Harald von Hedemann.

CHICAGO MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF GEN. DEARBORN

Many Chicagoans are celebrating this week the birthday anniversary of Gen. Henry Dearborn, who was born 181 years ago Monday. It was Gen. Dearborn as secretary of war who sent Capt. John Whistler in 1803 to build Fort Dearborn, which became the early site of Chicago.

In honor of "Father" Dearborn, the Chicago Historical society has on exhibit a ladder back chair once used by the general at Monmouth, Me. The chair is so large it can hold three children with ease. It was made especially large because of Gen. Dearborn's physique. The chair was recently acquired by Eugene R. Pike, president of the society, and given to the society.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, is annoyed to find Hilary Revel, the author of travel books, in the space he'd reserved on deck. They both desired seclusion. Hilary had just lost her invalid brother, Hugh.

INSTALLMENT III.

BAD MANNERS.

That first restless night at sea Falconer stalked, a figure of comedy, through Hilary's half waking dreams. She could not understand why she had not heard from Mrs. Casaylis that he was to be her fellow passenger on the Pericles, or why there had been no demonstration from his admirers as they left the wharf. She had had difficulty enough in avoiding something of the kind herself and her cabin, when she came on board, had been full of flowers and fruit and little gifts. His spoils, of course, would be infinitely greater, and this a young man who talked largely of engaging the deck he would think only his due, no doubt. He was spoilt and she did not believe he wanted quiet. That was mere self-importance. Within a few days he would be the darling of the ship.

This conviction was rather disappointing to Hilary. It would have been amusing, she thought, to sit stolidly beside the creature for three weeks and take no notice of him.

Falconer awoke next morning with an uneasy conviction that he had behaved like a fool and a boor. He did not know who this wretched girl might be, but he wished he had avoided an altercation with her and taken his chair away. Better do it now, perhaps, before breakfast. She would be sure to sleep late, or even, with luck, might be ill. The last was a forlorn hope, however, for a golden sun looked in at his porthole, and the Pericles stole through the quiet waters so steadily that but for the screw she might have been at anchor out in the bay.

Breakfast was still half an hour away when he reached the deck, but many of the passengers were already abroad. A group of youngsters were playing deck billiards while the elders marched round the deck with an air of concentration, counting the "miles" as though fulfilling a vow. These were the routine-hounds—people who, when ashore, make a merit of taking a good brisk walk every day, whatever the weather. Falconer, to whom walking was a means but never an end, heard their triumphant calls to each other.

"This is my second I am just beginning."

"Why didn't you tell me, you goose?"

"O, but you are skipping the corners, and that's unfair. Five times completely round the deck, the captain says."

Falconer smiled. It was all so familiar and he could almost predict their conversation for the rest of the day.

He found at last a fairly quiet and sheltered place in which to take refuge and hurried to get his chair. He had just put his hand upon it when a movement nearby made him turn round and he met the critical regard of a pair of gray eyes. Miss Revel was leaning against the side, her arms outspread, guarding her place, no doubt. Damn the girl, did she think he was going to throw her things overboard? Quite unable to retreat under her eyes and leave her in triumph, he flung out his chair with a bang and sat in it instead.

Miss Revel turned her back abruptly and gazed at the sea. She was laughing, he supposed. By and by, without a glance at him, she turned and walked off down the deck, but she did not, as he had hoped, join the earnest promenaders, strolling instead backwards and forwards, so that she was never out of sight, her hands tucked into the pockets of her navy coat.

She was not in mourning, so the steward's tale must have been a pure fabrication, he indignantly decided, forgetting that Miss Revel might be one of those people who consider the wearing of black for the dead an outworn and barbaric custom. There were scarlet buttons on her coat and a touch of the same color in her little close fitting hat. She was tall, five feet eight at least, and she walked with grace. People turned to look at her as she went by, and one or two women seemed about to speak, but she passed them silently, and they drew back.

Falconer thought:

"They'll have her in the thick of things in a day or two and then I shall be rid of her."

This was triumph, for it did not enter his head that she might be predicting a similar fate for him. Why, then, should he move his chair? He would not.

He spent an hour in the smoking room after breakfast, and then sauntered back to find the enemy already installed and asleep—or was she? That she looked pale and tired was certain, so he moved with care and opened his book to read. He had meant to do nothing else throughout the voyage, had looked forward to it with longing, but now the desire had left him and he felt the desolation that so often follows accomplishment. His work was done, weeks of inaction were before him and then home, which was only a name and a memory, after all.

He had no home; Sylvia was dead. At the thought of his loss he was plunged in an old distress.

The sun, moving across the deck, awoke Miss Revel, and she got up to change the position of her chair. Instinctively Falconer found himself rising to help her, then he retreated awkwardly, immediately afterwards regretting his bad manners. Fate, it seemed to him, was determined to make him inadequate where women were concerned. He had been inadequate with Sylvia, for had his love ever really moved her, even in those first perfect years, before she brought Judith home? Sometimes it seemed to him she had been almost too coldly exquisite for ordinary human passions; and then he would remember that she had done for him what perhaps no other wife in the world would have done, and he would be appalled. And how lightly and gracefully as she did all things!

"By the way, John, I have a surprise for you," she had said. "I have adopted your little girl. It seems the foster-mother, or whatever she was, was taken ill and the messenger, when he couldn't see you at the office, came here. Of course, I pretended to know all about her—why didn't you tell me, you goose?—and I went and brought her home at once. I shall love having her."

"Why didn't you tell me, you goose?" It was the only reproach he ever heard from her; her magnanimity had been complete and wonderful, but he had believed that the knowledge of Judith's existence would break her heart. His own knowledge of it had been only twelve months old at that time; he remembered still his incredulous amazement that that brief incident should have had such a result. It had been in 1916, when he was in England on convalescent leave after influenza, and bored beyond measure at the lugubrious patriotism of his sister Gertrude and her friends. Joining some brother officers for supper after a show, he had met Jenny, who was singing in it—an inconspicuous part. She was a vivid little creature and, like many of her profession, had been through a hard time. That singers should demand to be paid for their services in war time was considered almost an outrage by a mad world, and Jenny had been roundly berated by one patriotic matron for parsimony, when she was needing a more than square meal and new soles to her shoes. She told them her adventures with a gay and uncomplaining humor that won Falconer's immediate sympathy, and the rest of his leave was cheered by the effort to give Jenny a good time.

Dr. Evans Says Women Grow More Masculine

Women are growing more masculine, in the opinion of Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE. He spoke last night before 150 girls at the loop Y. W. C. A. at 59 East Monroe street. The meeting was the regular weekly gathering held for unemployed girls.

Dr. Evans, answering a question as to whether the modern woman is getting masculine, replied affirmatively on the basis of comparison with old standards.

He declared that during the last 20 years there has been a decided change in the figure of women, tending toward a taller and narrower physique.

Reference Books Are Missing, U. of C. May Use New Lie Detector

Use of a lie detector to find the University of Chicago students who believe in obtaining an education at any price, but preferably with the university paying the cost of textbooks, was threatened yesterday. Rodney L. Motts, assistant professor of political science discovered that reference books in the library rapidly were vanishing.

During the last year, a study of library records disclosed, five hundred books have disappeared. In the last quarter 137 books taken from the library by ambitious students have, by some obtuse mental process, become personal property and ended up on library shelves in fraternity houses and student boarding places.

Although the disappearance of reference books is nothing new and some fraternities, it is charged, have created a fine library by forgetting its origin, the situation became acute last week. James J. Cape, instructor in history, assigned a paper on the Renaissance. The next day ten pages from a $150 encyclopedia were torn out. In addition a prize first edition, for safety chained to a table, disappeared. The chain and the cover remain, but the book was neatly removed, cut out with a razor blade. The library is conducted on the honor system.

RUSSIAN COMPOSER'S WORK HIGH POINT FOR STOCK'S MUSICIANS

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Of all the performances that Dr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra have given this season, and by this time of the year quite a respectable number has been reached, the high spot was attained yesterday afternoon. Rather surprisingly, it was in a composition that one does not often think of in connection with performances of extra brilliancy, Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, usually rated as just another of the season's standard works.

The anti-Tschaikowsky society is supported only infrequently and in certain compositions by any vote of mine. In most cases I enjoy his tunes and have learned not to be annoyed by his grieving soul. So there was some extra pleasure in hearing the performance yesterday, the brilliant, exuberant tone, the impassioned expression, the free, rhapsodic utterance given it by the band of experts at Orchestra hall. It may have been the promise of spring outside that got into Dr. Stock's baton and the players' instruments. At any rate, something uncommonly exhilarating was there.

Daniel Saidenberg, who in ordinary times reads his music from the first desk of the cellos, was the soloist, making this Tuesday program his second solo appearance of the season. He is an artist worth taking note of for what he has accomplished now, and still more for what he looks capable of doing in the future.

The Saint-Saëns Concerto in A minor was his solo piece, one of the more pleasant observances composed for the baritone of string instruments. He played it with a charming tone, sparkling execution, and complete poise and authority. A little more weight would not have been amiss. It is one of the qualities to be looked for in the future, and about the only one that kept this performance from being that of a virtuoso.

He was greatly applauded, and, since he is not a prima donna among soloists, as soon as the applause had died down he took his seat at the head of the cello section so that he might play the solo bit leading into Johann Strauss' "Emperor" waltzes. Here, by the way, was another demonstration of what the Chicago Symphony orchestra can do. It may be that in the old days Strauss himself and his Vienna orchestra used to get more out of this ravishing music than came out yesterday, but just at present it is difficult to believe.

Alms Houses Rapped During Pension Talks

U. S. Urged to Aid Aged; Bill Also Opposed.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Institutional care of the poor in the United States was described by Abraham Epstein today as "incompetent and brutal." He is executive secretary of the American Association for Old Age Security.

His opinion was given at a hearing before the senate pensions committee. That group has before it the old age pension bill by Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.].

"What a rotten institution the almshouse is," Epstein said. "With only a half dozen or so exceptions in the whole United States, the man who is in charge of the poorhouse looks at the inmates just as the warden of a prison looks at the prisoners. He regards them with the 18th century idea that anybody who is poor is ipso facto a criminal.

"The almshouses are managed by a most incompetent and brutal group of people who are at least two centuries behind the times."

Strong opposition to the Dill bill, which would authorize $10,000,000 to be spent in coöperation with states, which enact old age pension laws, was voiced by Noel Sargent of New York, manager of the industrial relations department of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"It will cripple industry and impair the virtues of individual self-reliance, thrift, and foresight without which no nation or society can prosper," he asserted.

"Where there exist the public old age pension laws, establishing a legal right to public treasury funds upon arrival at a given age, without a certain amount of income or property, the tendency is for both the amount and percentage of old age indigency to increase."

Epstein estimated there are about 386,000 persons who would qualify for old age pensions and that the annual cost would be about $96,000,000.

Henry Ford was criticised by Harry Riseman, attorney for the Old Age Pension league, in advocating the bill. He said 36.1 per cent of Detroit's registered unemployed are former Ford employés.

Lent Day by Day

IN ROUGH SAILING.

The Rt. Rev. F. E. Wilson.
[Episcopal Bishop of Eau Claire.]

"Jesus steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem."

A man shows what he is made of when he gets under fire. When everything sails smoothly on it is easy to make good. But when troubles assemble we show what stuff there is in us. Lent reminds us of how our Lord met the trials, sufferings, and death which came to him. He asks us to exhibit a Christian degree of courage. One of the marks of a Christian is that he faces his troubles. To be sure there are plenty of troubles for us to face just now—political, social, industrial, commercial, as well as personal vexations. I don't know just how the world will work out of its present difficulties. But I have before me the example of the One who "steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem." He took his cross to Calvary, and so came through to his triumphant resurrection. It is our Christian part to help the world face toward God, meet its modern Calvary and win its way to a new resurrection.

PRAYER.

O, most loving Father, preserve us from faithless fears and worldly anxieties, and grant that no clouds of this mortal life may hide from us the light of that love which is mortal, and which thou hast manifested unto us in thy Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

THE CAST.

Marius .....Donald Blackwell
Picquoiseau .....Nace Bonville
Engineer .....Charles McCarthy Jr.
Fanny .....Mary Howard
Cesar .....Otis Skinner
Panisse .....Fred Tiden
Monsieur Brun .....Wyrley Birch

And others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

YOU will find Marcel Pagnol's "Marius," which Otis Skinner is giving at the Selwyn theater, quite unlike the same Parisian playwright's "Topaze," which we saw last fall. There is no hard cynicism, no Gallic insistence that one touch of graft makes the whole world kin, in this gentle comedy.

"Marius" seeks to be human rather than to be clever. It is a neighborly play, dealing in a friendly manner with the humble habitues of a waterfront bar in Marseilles. A strain of quiet, natural romance runs through its easy-going scenes.

Here you have the story of a boy who wants to run away to sea, of the blustering father who dotes upon him, and of the girl whom he loved but left behind. Marius was devoted to his ornate parent, but he didn't want to spend his life serving aperitifs and washing glasses in the Café de la Marine. He loved the eager Fanny, who sold prawns, shrimps, langoustes and other edible crustaceans in the shop next door, but he wasn't ready to marry her.

He was enchanted by the names of far, off archipelagoes, such as the Windward islands. He saw the ships of the seven seas sail out of the harbor day after day, and he yearned to be aboard. He had probably never heard of Kipling, but something in his heart was saying, "Take me somewhere east of Suez"—or west of the sun. And in the end he slips away as a forecastle hand on the Malaysie, bound for a three years' voyage to the East Indies, leaving a stricken girl and a hurt father behind.

Here you have the content of "Marius"—probably the most human play that has come out of Paris for years. There are hints of Robert Louis Stevenson in it, and suggestions of Eugene O'Neill—of the young O'Neill who wrote about the glamour of the sea. But there is nothing derivative in it; nothing to arouse a suspicion that its author was following a pattern.

"Marius" is a play that requires atmosphere, and Mr. Skinner contributes it in rich and juicy slices. He is Papa Cesar, whose "bistro" is probably not the most important on the quays of Marseilles, but to which he gives the air of a metropolitan rendezvous. He is a genial, flamboyant host to his coterie of clients; he hobnobs with the customers, tricks them at cards, manages his business thriftily, and makes wise paternal plans for the future of his son.

M. Cesar leads a happy, untroubled life, serene in his self-assurance; and not until after the curtain falls does he find that his boy Marius has flown from the nest. Mr. Skinner, mellow veteran of the art of acting, plays this rôle with the romantic grace and jovial humor that have run through the several decades of his distinguished career.

The parts of Marius and Fanny—actually the central rôles of the play—fall to two exceptionally able young players—Mary Howard and Donald Blackwell. They handle their love scenes with vivid and touching effect. Miss Howard, especially, deserves to be "discovered" with emphasis. She is not "type cast," but she makes the ardent shrimp girl completely credible. . . . Fred Tiden is also an important figure in the performance as a meek shipchandler of 50, stricken with a middleaged desire to marry the girl himself.

"Marius" takes its time in getting started and marching along. There is no activity in its pace. But its mood is persuasive, and its story and characters are appealing.

Police Shelter Jobless Widow with Two Sons

She Asks Sally to Help Her Find Work.

Ever since her husband died a year ago, Mrs. R. had managed to keep some kind of a home for her two sons, 11 and 7 years old—until a week ago. Her resources entirely exhausted and her few belongings packed in two paper sacks and a suit box, she was forced to seek a night's shelter in the women's quarters of a police station. A little money from sympathetic policemen and others who learned of her plight enabled her to find a housekeeping room for her family temporarily.

"If I could only find a job," the little blue eyed Scotch woman yesterday told Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE, "I know my boys and I would have no trouble in making ends meet. I haven't let them miss a day of school. I want them above all to be educated. Donnie's heart is already set on going to college.

"I never could think of going to the charities, as I had always managed somehow. But there's hardly a half day's work any more. If I could find a job as housekeeper for a rooming house or a small hotel where my rooms would be furnished and a small salary would buy our food, I know we could get along. I want above all my boys with me, and I could that way."

Sally Joy Brown was pleased at the response to her appeal for work for a decorator.

"We were bombarded with offers," Sally said. "Not only was this decorator given a job but work was provided for a number of others."

Among these jobs was one offered by Mrs. H., in the 2800 block in Burling street, who wanted a decorator to make an estimate on the work. W. E. of the 4900 block in Bernard street, offered a painter $1 an hour. C. R. of the 4700 block, Magnolia avenue, called for a carpenter to make an estimate on the work she offers.

Mrs. E. C. of Aberdeen street, needed a paper hanger. Mrs. R. P. of Prairie avenue wanted a man to clean walls. Mrs. W. of South Millard avenue has two rooms to be decorated.

Mrs. H. of Winnetka has a few days' work for a decorator. Mrs. H. M. of the 7800 block in Constance avenue has a papering and decorating job. Mrs. H. of Wilmette has work for a decorator.

"These are just a few of those offered yesterday," said Miss Brown.

PRAISE OF WORK FOR NEEDY ACCOMPANIES GOOD FELLOW GIFTS

"Inclosed find a check for $10 as my bi-weekly contribution to the needy," wrote A. H. "God bless your good efforts."

Another letter yesterday, from E. M. T., said: "It is indeed a pleasure to inclose a check for $6 covering our bi-monthly pledge for your good work."

Yesterday's contributions totaled $206 and brought the fund total to $96,815.23. Gifts also came from two new Good Fellows, raising the total of members to 1,560. The funds they donate are sustaining 305 families over the unemployment period. Girls Rude to Their Parents, Yet Expect Courtesy in Return

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's Father's side of it, you young women who complain that your boy friends are treated gruffly by the male parent:

"I take issue, Miss Blake, with your sympathy for the girls with 'rude, unfriendly' parents of the male species. You could devote more space in your column to advice to girls on a little more respectful and considerate treatment of the much abused father when their young men callers are not around. If said girls would accept your advice, they wouldn't have to complain about the indifferent attitude of Father toward their boy friends. There would be, indeed, a sociable and courteous parent, instead of this one described as 'snubbing the caller with a gruff, short greeting, or none at all.'

"I am the father of four, two of them girls of marriageable age, now. I have had a hard struggle seeing them through high school and have to worry my head off for the others. I have deprived myself of every pleasure for their sakes.

"They never ask me or mother for advice or suggestions. They go and come whenever they please. They associate with whomever it suits. When there is no boy or girl friend calling on them in our home, when they have no place to go they busy themselves in books or magazines and haven't a friendly word to extend to their old man. At impatient, curt return is generally made if father advances an attempt at breaking the ice.

"They're agreeable enough if a friend comes in. In fact, a charming self, rarely exposed in the intimate home circle, is exhibited. Now, if they bring into the house a young man, shall we jump to the roof, shall we extend a warm handshake? Were they polite, did they give the parents a smile or a cheering word when there are no boys around—believe me, we fathers would be there with all they'd need from us.—P. G."

And that's something to mull over in your minds, young ladies! If you've been taking father and his incessant work and concern about your welfare too much for granted, look him over now as a human being, one starving for a kindly, appreciative word and willing to go more than half way, if you go your half.

Nothing wrong, but it is better to choose your associates from girls of your own age.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Now is the time for all good girls who want to look good-er to be looking up the color charts. Rumors are rife that but a short way ahead is a season during which the colors you wear are going to have everything to do with your being an eyeful or an eyesore. The world [of women] is going to break out in color rashes, the like of which hasn't been seen in many a day.

If you haven't a good color combination sense, you'll have to let an expert tell you, for colors are not going to be one tone for an ensemble but several, and strikingly but harmoniously different. And that's where you're going to need a connisseur's eye to slip you in between the right color folds.

Anyway, it's a sense that ought to have no special year for its exploiting. With color you have one beauty aid that is a true accomplice. Better than dieting can color take off a year, two, or five from a crowded calendar. You have all the cosmetic tricks down pretty well now. You know your exercises and your table rations. Look into this color phase of beautying and make it lend you contributions that are your just and easy due.

Then you must get acquainted with some of the new shades, a variety of which are already sprung for the season ahead. Don't hold grudges against them until they've proven their unfriendliness. One of them, or two in combination, might just turn out your best friends.

And most of all, remember that as you get older you might serve your beauty better by not sticking to the same old shades. You outgrow colors as you outgrow other things belonging to earlier years. Beauty needs revamping with dress and hat colors that warm and brighten slightly fading eyes, hair, and complexion tones.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

C. H.: AN EYEWASH OF SALTY water is excellent for the eyes. A teaspoonful of salt to a pint of water is the usual proportion. If the eyes are tired apply the salt lotion warm, with pads of cotton, after which cold water should be used for its tonic effect.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Family in Distress.

"I wonder if you can do something toward helping a poor family of four children whose father has been out of work since last July. There is a baby 4 months old ,a girl 5, a girl 11, and a boy 15. There has been illness in the family, due, no doubt, to lack of nourishing food. If you can get a buggy for the baby it will be greatly appreciated. I have been doing what I can for them, but it is not sufficient for their needs. T. D."

If you would like to help one of the many victims of this depression, here is a likely applicant for your aid. These people will be extremely grateful for anything you may be able to do for them.

Parents Can Help a Child Overcome Dread of Numbers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Yesterday we were noticing, while thinking over this subject of arithmetic and the children who hate it, that usually they pick up arithmetic quickly when they have occasion to use it.

But, of course, I'm not advocating quite such a radical procedure as to wait for that occasion. All I want to do is to help those parents who are frantic with their children on the subject of arithmetic to put it in its place, to evaluate it properly in the scheme of things.

Now, unless you're on a school board or belong to a parents' association, you can't do much if your school makes a fetish of arithmetic. But you can do two things. One is this—you can protest if too much home work is given in arithmetic. And enough protests from enough parents will have an effect.

The other thing you can do which will help and comfort your child is not to make him feel that you gauge his intelligence and his progress by his ability to do arithmetic. Don't nag him. Don't harp on the subject. Arithmetic is a terrible stumbling block to him, and if he really makes the effort, don't make him feel unhappy or inferior about it.

Now that I come to think of it, there is a third thing you can do to help the arithmetic-nag-ridden child. But this is to help him with the actual doing of the work. You can begin with the examples he brings home to do. Give him a quiet place to work in and plenty of time. Then impress upon him that he is not to think once of how quick he can be. Try to keep him calm. When you help him, be quiet and patient and try not to have an audience.

Various News About Travel, New Airplane

BY THALIA

THE most interesting bits of news heard yesterday were . . . that Mrs. Russell Lord of Lake Forest and her two daughters, Betty and Kathleen, are sailing pretty soon for Europe, and that they're to stay for a whole year, making their headquarters in Vienna. . . . that Mrs. Gustave I. Tolson is visiting here from Atlanta . . . that the party for Robert Lee Eskridge and his book, "Maya Reva" (it IS stunning, too), for William S. Monroes are to give it to be this evening . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Anthony Jennings (Marvia and Bill) are letting their friends know that they're "at home" at 1211 State street, which means, you know, that there's been a reconciliation . . . that the L. Hamilton McCormicks, who have been living at the Hotel Pierre in New York, have gone to Miami . . . that Gordon Kelley, whose plane was burned up in the Palwaukee airport fire in December, is having a new Laird made (if you know your aeronautics you know how grand that is).

Here of the Same, and Few Backgammon Room.

More of the same—that the Roger Quincy Whites have in their apartment at 11 East Division street a backgammon room — the board is painted on the floor, and the players sit on big cushion dice cubes, pushing the men in place with the rakes that croupiers in casinos use . . . that "Mose" Moss is keeping bachelor hall, entertaining occasionally at small dinners while his parents, the Jesse Lathrop Mosses are away, and that he's been in charge of Palwaukee while Duncan Hodges was out of town.

Travels and suchlike—Walter H. Wilson, who has been quite ill, was to depart yesterday, accompanied by his son, Laurence O. Wilson, for Los Angeles. . . . The Edward F. Swifts, the Frank Hibbards, the A. Watson Armours and their Elsa were aboard the Chief yesterday morning bound for Phoenix . . . Mrs. John V. Babcock of Hinsdale and her son, Freddie, departed for Phoenix also on Sunday. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams are leaving today—they will visit Mr. Adams' sister, Mrs. Robert Crane, in New York City for a week before they sail for Bermuda, and they'll probably be away until April. . . . Friends of William R. Moore have had cards from him sent from Jamaica and Panama.

The Tommy Wheelocks went to Columbus, O., for the week-end. . . . Mrs. John I. Underwood, mother of Mrs. William R. Ruffner of Highland Park, has gone to Dayton, O., for an indefinite stay with her sister, Mrs. Charles Underwood Raymond. . . . Mrs. D. Mark Cummings returned yesterday from a visit with the A. B. Dicks aboard the Chieftain in Florida waters, and will conduct the regular monthly dressmaker's sale at the White Elephant Rummage shop tomorrow. . . . The Carleton Birchfields of 1400 Lake Shore drive have returned from an unusual trip through Death valley and other parts of the desert country.

Mrs. J. W. Morrisson Tells About Politics, Too in Talk.

Mrs. James W. Morrisson's "Random Memories," given yesterday afternoon at the Gustavus F. Swift residence for the benefit of the Chicago Teachers college, were—characteristically enough—mostly political, but they were very interesting, and the audience of a hundred or so women listened intently.

Mrs. Morrisson's remark that she remembered the first mayoralty campaign when the candidates vowed they would get something done about the traction problem got a big laugh, also her anecdote about being called on very short notice to make the second speech for Hoover at the Republican convention, the tale of the drenched suffragist parade and the one about the baby elephant in the window of headquarters. Mrs. Swift, wearing a two-piece frock with a mushroom-colored blouse and black skirt and a black turban, served as hostess and there was tea after the talk.

It seems to be rummage sale season—the provisional members of the Junior League are to put on another of their re-sales on Thursday, March 12, the place as yet undetermined, and castoff winter dresses and appurtenances are already being collected. Miss Marguerite Watson is general chairman of the sale, Miss Dorothy Dunn is to take charge of the wrapping, Miss Barbara Senn, the selling, and Miss Ruth Card is the business manager. Mrs. Niblack Thorne and Miss Geraldine Swift are taking care of the publicity, and collections are being superintended by Miss Betty Smith in town, and by Sarah Wood in the suburbs.

Alumnae of Mount Vernon seminary are to have a tea-meeting at Miss Margery Riech's in Evanston this afternoon to discuss and plan for the rummage sale the Mount Vernon association is to give on March 5 at 1557 Sheridan road, Evanston. Miss Betty Slaughter is president of the association, and Miss Riech is chairman for the sale, with Jeanne and Katherine Frost, Marianne Stevenson, Mrs. Clark Weymouth, Mrs. Charles Little, Mrs. Rollin Keyes, and Mrs. Oliver Kelly assisting. Miss Catherine Blakeslee, secretary to the headmistress of the school, is to be guest of honor today.

Tame School Teaching Gets Sharp Rebuke

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The policy of avoiding controversial issues in school rooms was termed "educational suicide" by Dr. Jesse H. Newlon, professor in Columbia University Teachers college, in an address today before a group gathering in connection with the National Education association meeting.

Dr. Newlon declared that "attempts of militant minorities and vested interests to control policy" constitutes a difficult problem, and one from which schools generally retreat. "Where things are hottest, controversial issues are excluded," he said, "with the result that youth may prepare to grapple with the problems of tomorrow only by chewing over the lifeless problems of yesterday."

"In too many communities," he added, "teaching is saturated with points of view held by the conservatives and even reactionaries in politics, economics, morals."

The schools, Dr. Newlon urged, "should become an instrument of enlightenment," regarding controversial issues of the day. "Let us use the materials of whatever source, but properly labelled," he said. "Let all sides be presented."

ARTS CLUB SHOW, HUGO PAINTINGS AND CHINESE PAPER LAUDED

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There has opened at the Arts club, to continue through the week, an exhibition which is interesting from several standpoints. Perhaps the most dominant feature is the variety of the exhibits offered. There are paintings by Henri Rousseau, large scale canvases; there are tiny painting by Jean Victor Hugo in the Persian tradition; there is antique Chinese wall paper loaned by Mrs. Florence M. Warfield, and there are several panels of painted linen by Raoul Dufy.

By all odds the most delightful of these are the little pictures by Hugo and the Chinese wall paper. This last, charming as it is, may be dismissed with an appropriate admiring gesture, for aside from its beauty of design and tender silvery gray of coloring, features which are open to instant appreciation, it does not dramatically fix the attention. The tiny paintings by Hugo do. They are of such stuff as causes comment and a delightful lingering. Exact, precise, primitive in their simplicity of composition and direct story-telling, these paintings possess charm and humor. They are fresh in color and whimsical in tone. Not great art, but an excellent art in miniature, that is what best describes them.

Henri Rousseau leaves one in a far different mood. This little tax collector of the French colonies, this Sunday afternoon painter as we are told he was, gives us little cause here to understand the values which today are set upon his compositions. The "Exotic Jungle," from the collection of Mrs. R. R. McCormick, is definitely the most picturesque of the group and is seconded by "Flamingoes," from a Berlin collection. The "Centenaire of Independence" and "Liberty Invites the Artists to Send to the Independents" are the most amateurish of piffle. They are childish, posterish, of no artistic merit. Rousseau's we know is a dealer built reputation, but how his reputation can stand in view of such work as this is beyond comprehension. He himself did not pretend to greatness; recognition was contrived for him, thrust upon him.

British Fans Desire Chaplin Knighted for Conquest of Laughter

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin's admirers here are eager to see him rewarded for his contribution to the world's merriment by a knighthood or other British distinction.

Following scattering letters to newspapers from various persons urging this, Joseph Toole, member of parliament, has written to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald suggesting such recognition.

Chaplin was born in England, and though he has lived for many years in the United States is still a British subject.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

OLD FASHIONED GARDENS.

Nothing difficult or mysterious about these old fashioned gardens that have been creeping back into popularity the last few seasons, according to the older generations of gardeners. For they find that the typical old fashioned garden is merely a happy selection of colorful annuals.

Annuals were used almost exclusively in flower gardens of two or three generations ago and were the mainstay for color and beauty during the summer months. Yet no true flavor of antiquity is given them, for they are just as possible today and may regain all and more of their former popularity.

Some of the unusual plants suggested for an old fashioned display are said to be so old that they are really new in use. A large bed of double balsams in full flower attracted countless visitors to one garden last year. The balsam or lady slipper is scarce in comparison to its popularity of 50 years ago. Single plants can be used in pots for table decorations.

A brilliant patch of scarlet can be obtained with the old fashioned Flora's paint brush or tassel flower, formerly known botanically as cacalia but later changed to Emilia. Somewhat of a spectacle is the martynia, usually found among vegetables but used among flowers because of its unusually large pods of peculiar shape.

Ornamental kales distinguished one garden last year because visitors found the foliage plant retaining its color even into the winter months. Automobile tourists are said to be one main factor in the spreading of the popularity of such gardens.

Food Talk.

Our modern bakeries offer for home consumption a variety of delicious and healthful breads. And one of the best is the whole wheat variety, either plain or with raisins. True whole wheat or graham bread [the terms are synonymous] is made from white flour, yeast, liquid [either milk or water or a combination of both] sugar, salt, fat, and the entire wheat flour. It is this last ingredient that gives the bread its distinguishing qualities. For white flour we discard the outer covers of the wheat grains, but in the entire wheat flour the bran covering and the central starchy portions are ground together to give the coarse flour.

Whole wheat bread as contrasted with white bread, offers no difference in caloric value. However, it is important because of the increased mineral and vitamin content. Also it gives us an appreciable amount of roughage as the bran portion is not digested by the body. The amount of iron contained in the whole wheat breads is much greater than that of white bread. A person living on a fairly good dietary including whole wheat bread is practically assured of the sufficiency of iron in this diet.

Some people object to whole wheat bread because they think the appearance is not attractive, the color is not pleasing and the flavor is different. They say that they will get their bulk and vitamins from other foods.

This is merely prejudice. The human family has been consuming whole wheat bread ever since the art of grinding grain was learned. A well browned loaf of whole wheat bread carefully sliced makes the bread plate more interesting because of the added color. The flavor is really delicious offering a contrast to the bland flavor of white bread. As for the bulk and vitamins why seek elsewhere when that which is put before us is in a form that is palatable. Let us be just to whole wheat bread and give it a fair trial before condemning it.

MAPLE CHARLOTTE.

Soak ½ tablespoon gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water. Boil 2-3 cup maple sirup until it spins a thread. Let stand 2 minutes, add gelatin, beat until thick and add 2 egg whites beaten until stiff. Fold in 2-3 cup whipping cream beaten stiff and ½ cup of pecan meats broken in pieces. Turn into individual molds lined with lady fingers or strips of sponge cake and leave until firm. Turn out and garnish with whole pecan meats and surround with maple pecan sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Reprimanding Friends.

One evening my boy friend and I went to a movie in the neighborhood. We arrived just before the first show ended, so that when the show did end there was much changing of seats and people going in and out. The second show had started, when a young couple who had just came in sat down and then stood up in front of us, making it impossible for us to see. I remarked, "Some people can't make up their minds just where they want to sit."

The couple turned around and looked at us and you can imagine how I felt when I saw that they were good friends of mine. Needless to say, they changed seats. E. R.

Hand Work Enhances Fresh Spring Frocks.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Hand work is one of the strongest aids to the chic of the new Paris fashions. It's not fussy looking embroidery, though, but flat, tailored trimming made of hemstitched bands that lend transparency to dark crêpes or voiles, or of narrow strips of organdy stitched into microscopic tucks and joined together in patterns to make collars and cuffs and inserts.

Lelong, Molyneux and Maggy Rouff are a few of the Paris couturiers who have taken up this tailored handwork.

The girlish Martial et Armand afternoon frock, sketched here, is of black crêpe de chine. Its double hip peplums, set on at either side of a plain front and back panel are edged with irregular, widely hemstitched hems. Amusing fullness is given the skirt by four wide, half godets, inserted at either side of the plain panels, below the peplums, recalling similar half godet cuts in the bodice.

The flat encrusted collar and the trimmings accentuating the full bishop sleeves are of miraculously worked bands of white georgette. Four white georgette buttons running down a worked band from the back of the neck help you to get this slim fitting frock off without hysterics. The tailored crêpe de chine belt is finished with a strasse buckle.

What you value most is that feeling of security
Kotex gives

Kotex absorbs quickly; it is adjustable; it may be worn on either side with equal protection.

WHAT you really want in sanitary protection—more than any other one thing—is a feeling of perfect safety and security. To know you are well protected, despite long hours at work, at the theatre, out-of-doors. To feel safe. To keep well poised and thoroughly at ease. This is one of the most important assurances Kotex gives you.

So highly absorbent

Kotex, in the first place, is so tremendously absorbent . . . by test, five times more so than the finest of surgical cotton. And the way it absorbs is important—"lateral absorption"—a process which makes the pad effective not in one area but over the entire surface.

The delicate fibers of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding carry moisture swiftly away from the surface, leaving the protective area delicate and comfortable for hours. This distinguishes Kotex from the ordinary pad.

Wear it on either side

Kotex may be worn on either side with equal protection, equal comfort. No danger of embarrassment, no fear of inadequate protection from wrong adjustment.

Hospitals use it because of its hygienic safety, its amazing absorbency. You'll find it wise to specify Kotex next time you buy sanitary protection.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

IN HOSPITALS . . .
2—Kotex is soft. . . Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

PLA-MORS TAKE 2D PLACE FROM SHAMROCKS, 5-2

Ranger and Mitchell Each Score Twice.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Kansas City Pla-Mors and the Chicago Shamrocks, roommates in second place of the American Hockey league for some time, came to a disagreement at the Chicago Stadium last night and this morning finds the Pla-Mors sole tenant of the apartment with the Shamrocks a floor below. The Chicagoans did not leave meekly last night, but they finally went by a score of 5 to 2. Approximately 7,000 of the neighbors gathered to see the boys settle their tie for second place. It was the second time in six games that last year's champions have been able to win an argument with the Shamrocks.

The Pla-Mors left no doubt as to why they were the star boarders in the American league last year. Pete Mitchell and Biff Ranger were especially troublesome, each scoring two goals. Mitchell also assisted Dunfield in making the Pla-Mors' fifth goal. Peewee Wasman and Gordie Brydson were the only Shamrocks to penetrate the Kansas City defensive trio of Moose Jamieson, Slim Halderson, and Goalie Pete Byrne.

Jamieson attracted considerable attention from the fans after the stadium announcer informed them that the Moose had played hockey, man and boy, for 25 years. For an elderly party in a young man's game, the Moose appeared to be pretty spry, and managed to be sent to the penalty box five times during the game.

Wiseman Scores Unassisted.

The action in the first five minutes of the opening period was comparatively slow, both teams contenting themselves with long shots from the center of the rink. Goalie Sam Timmins was kept busier than Pete Byrnes during this interval.

Wiseman, 20 year old Shamrock wing, contributed one of the best individual performances of the evening when he smared the puck near the blue line, and with no escort, darted through Moose Jamieson and Bert McLeod to within five feet of the Pla-mor cage, where it was a simple matter to move the counter past Byrne in 7:40.

The Pla-mors immediately came back with two goals. Slim Halderson traveled up for a long shot. Timmins fell in blocking the effort, the puck bounding off his stick out to Ranger, who pushed it over the prostrate Sam at 12:17.

Mitchell, most valuable player in the league last year, came through with an unassisted goal with only six seconds of the period remaining.

The second period was quite young when the Pla-mors increased their lead and the Shamrocks immediately retaliated with their second goal of the evening.

Mitchell Passes Timmins.

Mitchell's shot was wide but Dunfield recovered the rebound off the boards and nudged it out to Ranger, whose back hand shot fooled Timmins at 3:46.

The Shamrocks' efforts were rewarded at 5:21 when Gordie Brydson took a pass from McFadyen and drove the puck into the Pla-Mor cage, making the score 3 to 2.

Mitchell scored his second goal of the game and the Pla-Mors' fourth at 10:46 when he took a pass from Ranger and squirmed through for a flying shot. It was an unfortunate shot for Timmins, who had been playing a great game for the Shamrocks. Sam fell after Mitchell's feint at the net. He might have stopped the shot any way, except that he raised one of his legs just in time to see the puck sail through.

The Shamrocks did their most strenuous skating of the evening at the beginning of the last period when two Pla-Mors, Jamieson and Ranger, were sentenced to the penalty box. They had lost Jack Riley on a tripping charge about the same time, but they still had an advantage of one player on the ice. Pete Byrne then demonstrated why he is the smartest goalie in the league until Ranger and Jamieson returned to the rink and the furious rushes of the Shamrocks went for naught.

Referee Voids Goal.

The Pla-Mors' fifth goal was a mere formality. After some debate with Referee O'Hara about a shot which they claimed had gone into the Shamrock net, the Kansas City team accepted his decision and immediately restrained to prove how easy it was. Mitchell dashed down behind the Chicago cage with the puck, shoved it out to Dunfield, who nonchalantly flicked it past the unprotected Timmins. The time was 11:54.

MAROONS DEFEAT HAWKS, 3 TO 2, IN OVERTIME GAME

Siebert Fools Chicagoans for Winning Goal.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 24.—(AP)—An overtime goal gave the Maroons a clean sweep in the season's engagements with the Chicago Blackhawks. The Maroons edged them out, 3 to 2, after coming from behind to tie.

The Maroons have now beaten the Hawks in all four engagements on the schedule. Babe Siebert, wingman, turned the trick tonight with two goals. His third period shot with a double assist tied the score, and less than half a minute of overtime had gone when he engineered a speedy play to flip in the winning counter.

Stewart grabbed the puck on the opening face-off and slammed a shot to Gardiner's feet. Abel rushed, but was smothered by the defense. Stewart shot again a moment later. Gardiner cleared to the left, but Hooley Smith darted in and flipped a quick shot at the Chicago net when Gardiner's view was hampered for the first score.

The Maroons did not stay long in the lead. Gottselig rushed and split the Maroon defense. Couture breezed in alone on Kerr, drew him out and lifted a high one into the corner of the net.

Wilcox, Abel Penalized Again.

The Blackhawks were out to break the Maroons' string of victories against them. It was fast hockey, with lightning rushes to both ends. Wilcox was sent to the bench for bodying Ty Arbour. Tommy Cook, Des Jardins, and March swung in on passing attacks that bothered the Maroon defense. The Maroons closed the period skirmishing dangerously around the Hawk net, with Gardiner making some superb saves.

Wilcox and Abel got their second penalty each at the start of the second period for roughing on the defense. Trottier, Ward, and Phillips crashed against the Chicago defense without success. The Maroon defense was inclined to split, which gave Kerr some exciting situations to face.

Conacher went off for slashing just after Abel returned. Loose work by the Maroon defense, with careless passing, gave Chicago a one goal lead. Couture snared a stray pass in the Maroon defensive area, flipped the rubber across to Gottselig, who rapped a high shot at Kerr. The Maroon goalie tried a falling save, but the rubber flopped into the cage, putting the Hawks one up.

Siebert Scores to Win.

The tying goal came in a wild session of pushing and shoving. Stewart and Smith slipped the puck back and forth and then sent a long pass to Siebert. The Babe scooped it up and sent a smoking shot into the far corner of the net.

At the start of the overtime session, Babe Siebert picked up the puck at his own blue line, passed to Hooley Smith at center ice, took a return pass, shoved it through the legs of the defender and picked it up on the other side to blaze a hot shot into the net. Gardiner did not have a chance to save. A heavy shot struck Dave Kerr in the face. He was unable to continue. Hostilities were postponed till Kerr recuperated.

Pitchers Yearn for Chance at Hack as 2d Cub Party Lands

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 24.—Cub training business will open up full blast at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The second squad—the powerhouse boys—arrived at noon today after mill pond voyage across the channel, and each and every one admitted he was in condition and earnest about his work.

HACK WILSON.

The gala welcome-to-our-city game between the Malones and the Hartnetts, staged at noon to delight the newcomers, was something of a bust as a spectacle on account of the regular infielders and outfielders having so much laundry to be sent out that they couldn't get over to see pitchers filling their jobs. But it was a good training stunt, just the same.

The Hartnetts won by a score of 6 to 2, and after the workout the pitchers en masse expressed a desire to make a chump out of Hack Wilson at the earliest possible moment.

Hack Modest About Hitting.

News of the eagerness of the pitchers to throw to Mr. Wilson was relayed to him as he was arranging his wardrobe in his hotel apartment.

"All fine boys, those pitchers," said Hack in his grand manner, "but foolhardy chaps withal.

"I have been withholding from them the information that there's a man at Hagerstown who has a pitching machine and I have been devoting much of my time socking everything the machine had. If you've seen one of those machines you know how it can shoot more stuff than all the pitchers in the National league, yet I was able to make a monkey out of the machine on divers occasions.

"I don't like to talk about my spring hitting, but I got so tough on that machine that I went over on a trap-shooting range and had 'em shoot clay pigeons at me. I would stand for an hour at a stretch breaking clay pigeons with my bat as fast as four men could shoot 'em my way.

Promises to Surprise Hurlers.

"These bragging pitchers, with their week's training, don't suspect what I've been doing on my own time, but there'll be a rude awakening for them before the week's out."

While Hack and the other sluggers weren't taking any pitching challenges seriously they were a bit circumspect in their talk about the Hornsby training innovation, the soccer game. The pitchers want to play as a team against the newcomers, but Rogers is of the opinion that some of his second squad heroes would get their teeth kicked out by the pitchers, who now look upon themselves as soccer veterans, having been playing the game for seven days.

Of the squad that arrived this noon only one player was from outside the Wrigley baseball family, the same being Vincent D. Barton, an outfielder obtained from Baltimore. William Frederick Jurges was with Reading last year, and John Francis Moore, with the Cubs all of 1929, played at Los Angeles last season. The others, Beck, Lester Bell, Blair, English, Grimm, Cuyler, Heathcote, Stevie, Dan Taylor, and Wilson, were received on the island on the same basis that natives are welcomed home.

Sun Comes Out and Riveter Desists; So Sox Go to Work

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 24.—The White Sox battery men, some twenty in number, got down to a normal training basis today in their second workout of the year. The weather, despite a chilly breeze, seemed more like the so-called sunny south. Moreover the steel riveter, whose air hammer caused such a rumpus among the sleepers the day previous, didn't show up for work this morning, possibly at the suggestion of the hotel management. Thus, all the athletes were much refreshed and with the sun to encourage them they were rather impatient for the limited drill given them by Manager Bush.

Bush operates on a sane basis during the first few days of conditioning and, so, soreness, thus far, is notably absent, much to the delight of William A. Buckner, the ancient trainer. As was the case in the first drill yesterday, today's assemblage was excused after a bit more than an hour of labor. The only difference from Monday's program was that the chasing of fungoes was included. This was made possible because the spacious field had dried out after the week of rains. The pitchers can't catch many of the fungoes but they, at least, chase them and that helps.

Pat Page, the ex-Indiana football coach, who is going to do some pitching to batters when the regulars get here next week, conducted a practice which was designed exclusively for one infielder. While the pitchers and catchers were doing whatever Bush thought best for them, Pat took a fungo stick and used it to advantage in giving some needed exercise to Irving Jeffries, the youthful infielder, who, apparently, got mixed up in his dates and reported a week too soon.

Jeffries, a few years ago the outstanding all around athlete at the University of Kentucky, stationed himself at third base and tried to stop everything Page hit to him. The score at the finish favored Page. Jeffries did a lot of work during the winter, but not in a gymnasium. Most of it was in the dining room.

Vic Frasier was among those operating with the pitchers today. He drifted into town yesterday with the usual leisure of a Texan, but not in time to don a uniform. He's a well set up lad and it is a pleasure to have him around because he doesn't annoy people with needless chatter. In fact, he thinks if he has said hello he has done enough. He is supposed to have a lot of ability, but with it he has a trick hip which slips out of joint at inopportune moments.

As an indication of the absence of soreness, Hal McKain, the pitcher who developed a lame back last season, is the only one to request a rub thus far. He admitted that he didn't need it, but told Trainer Buckner that he was entitled to such attention because of three domesticated mallard ducks he had sent to the muscle manipulator during the winter. Buckner ate the ducks, so he couldn't very well refuse the rub. Raising these ducks is McKain's hobby.

Buckner's rubbing room now is ready for business on a large scale, but he doesn't look for much action until the remainder of the squad arrives. There is only one item out of order. This is one of those steam box bath devices. A carpenter constructed it according to measurements sent down from Chicago, but he erred. In this box is a chair. The patient, while seated, is supposed to have his head through a hole in the roof.

For Giraffes Only.

The carpenter must have thought Bush was bringing down a flock of giraffes. The roof is so high that the top of the head of the tallest player doesn't even reach the opening. Something will have to be done about this before-profuse cabinet sweats are possible.

Catcher Moe Berg, who never has reported to camp in time, still is the only absentee. A newspaper man here with the Giants saw Berg in New York recently and claims the linguistic athlete has said that the Sox had cut his salary almost in half. In view of what Berg did last season the cut was deserved. With Tate, Henline and Grube on the job there is no worry about Berg's absence.

SHADES OF PYLE! HERE'S A SKI RUNNING DERBY

One of the Satre Boys Wins It.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 24.—There was a vague reminder of Charlie Pyle's crazy foot races across the American continent today when eighteen ski runners, most of them Scandinavians, went sliding over the snow covered Adirondacks in a race of 30 miles for the eastern amateur championship. This was the final event of a three days tournament. The winner was Magnus Satre of Salisbury, Conn., the oldest of a numerous family of Satre children, all of whom get around on skiis so nimbly as to suggest that they were born with barrel staves on their feet.

The Satres skim over the snowdrifts on foot runners as nimbly and gracefully as an exhibition skater giving a show on blades and moreover they leap from crag to crag and slew around trees going full tilt down the mountain sides in airy defiance of certain generally accepted rules of cause and effect. Just off-hand, it would seem that any one who hopped off a cliff would be pretty certain to dissolve himself in a rather unpleasant mark upon the snow but these ski runners and jumpers know how.

Probably Just a Knack.

But, at that, there probably is no magic to it but merely knack, strength, gameness, and abandon. The leaders in all sports execute prodigies that seem impossible to the laymen until he sees them done. Johnny Farrell might twine himself around a sturdy pine tree in such a manner that it would take a bucket of water and a sponge to remove him if he were to try sliding down a mountain trail on skiis, but then Johnny Farrell can drop a golf ball right behind a big pine tree, creating a dead stymie and slap the ball with just the proper degree of slice to correct the angle and drop it on an invisible green.

Magnus Satre's time was 4 hours 52 minutes and 30 seconds, rather slow as the marathon runner plods along firm highways, but then he had to climb one ridge called Sentinel mountain, or familiarly, just Sentinel, in the early stages of the run, and along toward the end, when his legs should have been tired and his arms numb from the constant pushing on his poles, he had to hoist himself almost straight up a rise of 1,000 feet, called Nye mountain.

The Right Kind of Wax.

They have various kinds of wax, put up in cakes, like soap, with which they chafe the running surfaces of their skiis to make them slide more smoothly. It is possible that they delude themselves a bit about the marvelous properties of these waxes, but they do believe that one kind of wax is best on dry snow such as they encounter up in the high altitudes, where the trees shade the trials, and that another is best for the valley trails where the sun makes the snow comparatively sticky.

So they pause on their long runs and fish out the kind of wax which is deemed appropriate to the sort of going which lies just ahead and rub their skiis vigorously, with the simple optimism of a bald man kneading a magic restorer into a nude scalp.

Much labor of love is performed for the racers and jumpers by the ordinary guests who people the community in winter, preferring the cold and the vigor of the northern sports in winter to the warmth and listless ease of the tropics. They toil on the steep hill of the jump, packing down the snow after the spills, and stand in distant posts in the hills as guides during the races, to set the runners right, and they seem to be a more energetic lot than those who go south to take the sun.

Color Attracts Public.

Possibly one reason why the winter sports of the cold latitudes have been so slow to catch on with the greatest number is that the costumers were not alert.

It cannot be reported that the at-

Bill Tilden and Karel Kozeluh to Play Here Tonight

Play for the world's professional tennis championship shifts to Chicago tonight, when Big Bill Tilden displays his prowess against Karel Kozeluh of Czecho-Slovakia, former world's titleholder, at the Chicago Stadium. The players will arrive here this morning.

BILL TILDEN.

Efforts have been made for many seasons to bring Tilden into a clash with Kozeluh. All efforts failed, because Tilden was an amateur. Kozeluh, who has been a tennis professional for about twenty years, is recognized as one of the greatest players in the world.

In addition to the clash between Tilden and Kozeluh, Emmet Pare, Chicago youth, who just turned professional, will meet Frank Hunter, who was national doubles champion with Tilden a few years ago.

These stars will open the program with a singles match. The Tilden-Kozeluh championship affair will be run off second on the card. The windup will find Tilden and Hunter renewing their old doubles partnership to play Pare and Kozeluh.

RAIN PUTS OFF WALKER-RISKO BOUT AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Walker-Risko fight, scheduled for tonight, was postponed this afternoon by Pa Stribling, promoter of the match, on account of rain. The fight will be held tomorrow night, weather permitting.

Stribling held off postponement, after a heavy rain started this afternoon, in the hope that the downpour would cease in time to let the show go on. He made his decision when weather bureau officials told him the rain would probably continue through the night.

Here's Story of a Fight as Is a Fight!

BY ARCH WARD.

White City arena. Exactly 11 o'clock. The hall crowded with fans momentarily gone mad. Men waving arms, hats, canes, bellowing incoherently. Here and there a woman shrieking encouragement to a surprised victor.

The winner was J. Kastendiek and the vanquished Edgerson Fountain, a colored lad competing unattached.

It's a Ring Epic.

Their bout was a ring epic, a lifetime of thrills crowded into a few frenzied moments. The stage was set for the drama. The spectators anticipated it. They got it.

You may never have heard of either boxer and you probably will read little about them in the rest of the Golden Gloves tournament. But if you were at the ringside last night you will appreciate the value of a boy with courage in his heart.

It had been a big night for the colored fighters. Time after time they had left the ring a step nearer the coveted Golden Gloves. It looked like the parade would continue after Fountain had belted Kastendiek from rope to rope in the opening round. He was ever on top of the white boy like an avenging nemesis. A blizzard of rights and lefts rocked Kastendiek from head to toes. He shivered and trembled in the storm, twice dropping to the floor under the impact. He got up only to be swept around the ring like a chip in a whirlpool.

Referee Davie Miller was about ready to stop the match when the bell ended the round. But Kastendiek wasn't through.

Kastendiek Gets Going.

The gong clanged for the second round. Fountain pawed two or three times without damage. But whis-s-ht! Kastendiek finds the range with his left. Blop! He lands again with his right. This brought the crowd to its Fifty-six bouts. This was the program last night in the south section of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament at White City.

Monday night 3,600 saw the first preliminaries, a total of 51 matches. That crowd set an all time attendance record in the metropolitan qualifying tournaments. But last night, another 3,300 attended the six hour program, despite preoccupation in Chicago's mayoralty primary.

One hundred and seven fights in two nights, an unequaled number. Perhaps the south side fans are punch drunk this morning. But having heard them cheer for two nights, having seen them stand for hours along the walls of White City's roller rink or cling to more advantageous positions, we know that tonight these veteran fans will be back for the finale of the south section meet.

Last Qualifying Tests Tonight.

The semi-final and final qualifying bouts in all weights are offered tonight. From these battles will come the 16 best lads on the south side who will enter the tournament of champions at the Coliseum next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Tonight's program completes Chicago's seven day qualifying tests. Judging by the caliber of the winners last night and Monday night it will be the best of them all.

Eighty boys reported yesterday afternoon in the four heaviest weight divisions, the 147 pound group to the unlimited division. Forty-one were in the welterweight class, each certain he would be the Golden Gloves champion when the finals are concluded March 11.

Variety of Styles.

The bouts last night presented a review of every imaginable attack and defense. Some of the boys jabbed with little or no force; others had the old fashioned sock, but didn't know how to use it. But from this army of amateurs there is emerging a group which will strengthen the forces of the west which invade Madison Square Garden for the fourth intercity battle with New York.

Bout number 16 last night brought Nick Fosco back to the golden gloves wars. Two years ago Nick made the trip to New York, but the last year an injury prevented him from competing. Last night Fosco stopped Joe Damber of Ted Bogan's gymnasium. Damber took such a beating he did not come out for the second round.

Chancy Crain, colored, the 1930 Chicago lightweight champion from the Lawndale gymnasium, began his campaign for a second title with an easy victory over James Sharkey, unattached. Crain now is fighting in the 147 pound class.

Caserio Comes Through.

Freddie Caserio of Kid Howard's gym, another favorite, also started the title path in correct fashion. He punched out a three round decision over Joseph Kalec of Bogan's gym.

LEARNS BOXING TO SAVE HONOR AND MAKES GOOD

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton Harbor, Mich., Feb. 24.—The attention of boxing fans is hereby called to Joe Siriano, one of the boys who will be fighting on the Benton Harbor Golden Gloves team in the tournament of champions at the Chicago Coliseum next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. He put on a great show for the home town folks last night when he slugged his way to the lightweight championship and now he's aching for a shot at those tough city fellers in Chicago.

Although he's only 16, Joe has been punching people on the nose for a number of reasons for the last ten years. He's not the kind of a boy who goes around looking for trouble and nobody ever would think of calling him the school bully, but just try to pick a fight with him and see what happens.

Enter the Villain.

Joe's boxing career began like this: He was sitting in a swing one summer afternoon when he was but a stripling of 6, and beside him was a charming young lady of about 5. The birds were singing, the sky overhead was blue, and one of those soft romantic breezes was whispering through the trees.

Into this setting came the villain, an uncouth person several years older and several pounds heavier than Joe. The smiles which the young lady was lavishing upon Joe at this moment aroused pangs of jealousy, which the uncouth person eased by blacking both of Joe's eyes, thereby humiliating him before the most wonderful girl in the world.

Takes Dad's Advice.

That was an insult which no Siriano could brook, so Joe strode home to seek advice from his dad, who owns a restaurant on the outskirts of town. Now Joe's dad was a former prize fighter, so there was only one course for him to advocate—and that was action. He got down a set of boxing gloves which he had not used for years, took Joe out behind the barn and began demonstrating right crosses, left jabs and the niceties of footwork.

In less than a week Joe was ready and the meeting took place in a ravine just outside Benton Harbor. Joe squared things in the most picturesque way, leaving his former conqueror rubbing his jaw and picking himself up gingerly from the turf. But the humiliation of this adversary was not yet complete. This beating which he had administered in the ravine was more or less of a private affair, whereas the true story book hero always squares accounts and vindicates his courage in the presence of the town squire, his former schoolmaster, his best girl, his classmates, and the home town folks in general.

Faces Old Tormentor.

So Joe's final triumph occurred in a fight ring under blazing lights with the people of St. Joe and Benton Harbor packing the house. His opponent [yes, you've guessed it] was none other than his erstwhile tormentor.

Joe's dad advised him to take it easy at first, so he bided his time and waited for an opening. That opening came in the second round. Joe's right flashed like lightning and the terror of his childhood was stretched cold on the canvas.

There are six other boys coming up with Joe from Benton Harbor, and they'll all be just about as hard to beat. There are Joe Belski, Jack Allmendinger, Don Miller, Ralph Carneigie, Bob Frakes, and Hudson Hudnuc. All are Benton Harbor boys except Hudnuc, who hails from Kalamazoo. There will be no heavyweight entrant.

feet. The unexpected was happening. Fountain again was plunked with a left. He showed a welt over his eye. A right to the stomach and it was all over, with Fountain, the boy who had it all his own way in the first round, a badly beaten fighter.

This was one of the 56 bouts on the White City card last night. There have been plenty of $10 fights that had less thrills. It cost the fans last night about a cent and a half.

The final chance to see Chicago Golden Gloves game cocks before they enter the Tournament of Champions at the Coliseum next week is offered tonight at White City.

If you like amateur boxing you can't afford to miss it. There will be 40 bouts for 75 cents.

STEEL WORKERS WIN

Gary, Ind., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The battlers from the steel mills invaded the Memorial gym tonight and after 30 bouts the team which will represent the Gary Post-Tribune in the tournament of champions at the Chicago Coliseum on March 2, 3, and 4 was picked. A crowd of 3,000 saw the bouts.

Six of the eight champions are employed in the steel mills here. The other two titleholders, John Long, Hammond heavyweight, is a clerk, and Anthony Zale is a high school student.

Zale, a 147 pounder, and Jack Krans, the light heavyweight champion, again will attempt to win a place on the Chicago team which will meet New York at Madison Square Garden March 30.

One of the three Dubak brothers who entered the tournament scored a victory. George won the 112 pound title, while Pete was beaten by John Mavicky and Paul lost to Francis Skidmore. The champions are:

112 pounds—George Dubak.
118 pounds—Paul Stedina.

56 Bouts Keep Golden Gloves Fans in Uproar

And if you haven't seen Ralph Phillips of the Robin Athletic club, Cleveland, you've missed the hardest punching middleweight who ever lifted a glove in amateur competition in Chicago. Phillips is Ohio champion and he has bounced the best competitors on the floor. He dropped a ton of leather on Edward Tudor's jaw in the first round last night. Young Tudor, from the Loop gym, isn't an easy mark by any means.

Vincent Satkoff made things difficult for Chancy Crain in a second round bout. He rushed the Negro and had a lead after one round, but Crain came back coolly and, with his driving left, took the decision.

In the last bout of the night, which started just at 1 o'clock, Crain met Carmen Barth of Cleveland. Crain knocked Barth down in the first round. The Cleveland welterweight rallied in the final session, but Crain nursed out his advantage to win and remain in the tournament.

tendance amounted to a crowd at any stage of the long journey which the 18 racers undertook today. There was a gathering of perhaps thirty at a place called Ski-T, about 20 miles long, when the first racers began to rise over a distant ridge and slide down to the refreshment station, where people shoved chairs beneath them and served them hot stuff, such as tea and fluid oatmeal. The first man to reach the place was so shaky that he trembled most of the tea out of his cup over his clothes, but he grabbed a couple of slices of orange and some large white pills, the size of sparrows' eggs, and slid off on his way.

Crowd Cheers Racers.

At the finish, which occurred in the lee of a large lifelike snow sculpture of a polar bear, there were about forty people, strangers for the most part, to the individual racers, but nuts about this rather obscure sport of ski running, with an appreciation of the trouble the athletes had been through. So they cheered as doggedly as the runners ran and no man came to the finish line but received his quota of acclaim.

The sculptured polar bear, by the way, had a litter of cubs at her side a few days ago, but some tourist squad one accidentally and the rest succumbed to the rigors of the unseasonable sunshine and just trickled away.

Erkki Pintilla, a Finn from Montreal, was second in the race in five hours two minutes and forty-two seconds, about ten minutes behind Magnus Satre. The third man, Sven Astrom, was only eighteen seconds behind Pintilla, and the fourth man, Ottar Satre, a brother of Magnus, 34 seconds behind Astrom.

Between the Scandinavian accents of the imported amateurs who have been competing in the tournament and the irresistible influence of the daffy system of spelling followed here, the tourists probably will be some time recovering from the confusion. One finds one's self saying "Ay tank ay skal have a small yolt of yin before supper," and spelling Kat with a K.

Levinsky Will Fight Griffith as Scheduled

Opposing forces in the controversy over whether King Levinsky will fight Tuffy Griffith at the Stadium on March 6 yesterday agreed to forget their difficulties after a stormy session in the offices of the boxing commission. So the fight between Chicago's leading heavyweights will go on as scheduled and each faction is satisfied that it won its point.

Ray Alvis, Levinsky's manager, retracted the announcement that he would refuse to permit his slugger to enter the ring March 6, and the Stadium, represented by President Sidney Strotz and Matchmaker Nate Lewis, consented to remove "the thorns in Alvis' side" by assuring the fight manager that his ticket needs would be taken care of and agreeing to permit Alvis to approve the supporting card.

The gathering opened with a lively verbal exchange, but Gen. John V. Clinnin of the boxing commission quickly induced the participants to forget their troubles. The commission took the attitude that the contract signed by Alvis in which he agreed to give Griffith a $25,000 guarantee out of his 60 per cent of the net receipts, was legal and that it had nothing to do with outside agreements.

The Stadium-Alvis controversy also brought a ruling from the commission that no manager may have more than two boxers on any fight card. This edict followed disclosure by Lewis that Alvis had demanded that Tony Herrera and Battling Bozo, in addition to Levinsky, be placed on the Stadium card. Alvis denied this statement.

A touch of humor was injected into the proceedings when Gen. Clinnin announced that he had refused to grant a license as a second to Mrs. Lena Lena Levy, Levinsky's sister, who, in a written application, said she wanted to be in her brother's corner when he fought Griffith.

"Mrs. Levy," said Gen. Clinnin, "may not know that the commission has a rule that all seconds must wear blue pants and a sweater."

The commission seemed to doubt that Mrs. Levy was equipped to meet these specifications.

The annual race for the sectional city league basketball titles has ended. All teams, with the exception of Austin and Harrison, have concluded their schedules, and the survivors will begin the battle for the light and heavyweight championships next week.

Led by Capt. Eddie Odron, the fighting Hornets of Harrison, who were defeated by Crane's heavies last week, broke a 24 to 24 tie in the third quarter and went on to defeat Marshall, 31 to 29 at Harrison gym yesterday. The Hornets, along with Crane, will represent the west section.

Marshall held a 17 to 16 lead at the half, but Harrison rallied and the teams were deadlocked at the end of the third quarter. Then while Rosen and Gretch were scoring for Marshall, Capt. Odron and Gordon sank the winning points. The Marshall lights overwhelmed Harrison, 27 to 18.

Roosevelt, with Bergbom and Barnosky starring, closed its league season with a 42 to 23 victory over Senn on the Roosevelt court. Barnosky scored 12 points while Bergbom contributed five baskets. The victors led at the half, 20 to 10.

Roosevelt's lights also will compete in the semi-finals. The ponies scored their ninth victory by defeating Senn, 48 to 23. Kreiger featured for the winners, collecting four baskets and one free throw.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TILDEN AS PROFESSIONAL.

BIG BILL TILDEN will make his first professional bow in Chicago tonight at the Stadium. His opponent will be Karel Kozeluh, former world's pro champion. So far as The Wake is concerned, our interest will be in Big Bill rather than in his adversary.

Tilden has been the most forceful factor in modern amateur tennis. He was a stormy petrel to U. S. L. T. A. officials in various controversies. On the courts he was often temperamental, sometimes to the point of displeasing the crowds, but always a good showman. For ten years in succession, 1920 through 1929, Tilden was ranked No. 1 among American players. The only other player of all time approaching this record was Billy Larned with eight No. 1 rankings, and those were not in succession.

Our interest tonight will center in two things—to what extent, if any, Tilden has "gone back" from when we last saw him play, and his demeanor on the court as a pro. Tilden's court mannerisms as an amateur might not register so well before paying customers. To The Wake they never were objectionable because we accorded him, as an artist, a tennis artist, the right to "temperament." Likewise we were his supporter in practically all his controversies with the U. S. L. T. A.

Whether there is a profitable field for pro tennis remains to be proved. Tilden's tour thus far has drawn unexpectedly large crowds. The publicity has been adroit and convincing. Bill Pickens, world's greatest ballyhoo artist, who had like duties on the Suzanne Lenglen tour a few years ago has attended to that.

Naming Daughter No. 2.

She arrived on Lincoln's birthday—
O, so plump, and sweet, and tame!
And since then all the doting ones
Have been stabbing for a name.
" Let us call her Abraham! "
Dear Aunt Betty cried in glee,
But Aunt Edith strongly favored
The more swingy " Rose Marie."

" Nancy Anne," paternal grandpa
Thought a name that fitted well,
But Uncle Tinney countered with Stiff old " Jane Mehitabel."
From hither, yon and everywhere—
From the pastor to the cook—
Has come a flock of monickers
'Most enough to fill a book.

The job is too much for daddy,
Whose suggestions didn't click;
He simply wants a handle neat,
And he wants that handle quick.
Perhaps we're on a wild goose chase.
For the chances are, dear mister,
That all of us will compromise
By calling daughter " Sister."

Purdue Mac.

Days Off Dangerous.

Wake: Suppose you read about the fella who chopped up the $400,000 Rembrandt painting with an ax. They ought to know better than let a fireman spend his day off in a museum.

JONES ARRIVES TODAY TO OBTAIN MEMORIAL MEDAL

N. U. DROPS 8 FROSH PLAYERS, VARSITY TACKLE

Fail to Meet Scholastic Requirements.

Bob Gonya, regular tackle on Northwestern university's football team last fall, and eight freshmen who were counted on for varsity football material have been dropped from the university because of low grades, it was announced yesterday by the department of registration.

BOB GONYA.

The freshmen lost are Paul Hickman, Rock Island, Ill., guard; Lester Corley and F. Gruver, Chicago; William Romoser, Benton Harbor, Mich., and Ken Stansfield, Nashville, Tenn., tackles; Ed Gracey, Detroit; William Labant and Jack Hart, Chicago, half backs.

Lefty Leach, regular quarter back last fall, also will be ineligible because of two previous years of competition which he had at a secondary college before coming to Northwestern.

Coach Dick Hanley plans to start spring football practice Monday. Only freshmen and upper classmen not competing in other sports will report. But few varsity men are expected out since seven regulars and a number of reserves are on the baseball, track and wrestling squads.

Among the football men on the baseball team are Reb Russell, Lee Hanley, Larry Oliphant, Jimmy Evans, Lefty Leach, Hi Crizevsky, Hank Mellin, Cliff Fogarty and Johnny Kruft.

Loyola to Open Series with De Paul Five

De Paul and Loyola university's basketball teams will meet at Loyola university tonight in the first of a two game series to decide the Catholic university championship of Chicago. It will be the first time the two schools have met in basketball in several years.

De Paul has won ten out of twelve games this season, having beaten such teams as North Dakota State, North Central, Rice institute, and Cornell college. Its two losses came at the hands of St. Viator college, whose team has defeated the best schools in the Little 19 conference.

De Paul has changed its lineup. Bud O'Connor, who has been playing guard, has been shifted to forward, while Tony Laritus will start at the other forward position. Stix Powers will start at guard along with Joe O'Connor and Ascher at center. Probable lineups:

Free Mechanical First Aid

A dead battery, fouled ignition points, or a broken axle are a few of the many mechanical troubles that come unexpectedly. Car trouble may find you far from a garage; it may come as you start out in the morning, or it may come late at night, but always it is unwelcome.

One hundred thousand motorists have protected themselves and their families in just such emergencies by means of membership in the Chicago Motor Club. When they are in need of help they call the club. In 1930 members sent in 146,000 calls for free mechanical first aid and towing service. Eighty-seven per cent of the trouble cases were remedied by club mechanics on the spot; the remainder of the calls were tow jobs. No charge is made for mechanical first aid or towing service. Like all other services of the club, this service is free to members.

You are as close to help as the nearest telephone. The service is available at any hour of the day or night.

In Cook county members call the club and the service is rendered by club mechanics. In the sixty-one other counties of the club territory in Illinois and northern Indiana the service is rendered by approved service stations.

*In addition to mechanical first aid and towing service, the club provides members with such services as these:

PLAN BUILDING AT CHICAGO AND MARION, OAK PARK

Frank Petru to Erect 3 Story Structure.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans have been drawn and bids are now being taken for the erection of a three story store, flat and office building at the northeast corner of Chicago avenue and Marion street, in Oak Park, by Frank Petru. The property fronts 100 feet on Chicago avenue and 150 feet on Marion and contains old improvements which are to be wrecked at once.

The architects for the new project, Clarence G. Johnson & Co., have drawn plans which call for thirty-four apartments of two, three and four rooms, five stores on the Chicago avenue frontage and four offices. The total investment in land and building, it is claimed, will be in excess of $200,000. Petru Bros., Oak Park realty firm, will operate and manage the property.

Buys Evanston Flats.

One of Evanston's largest apartment projects, the two structures at the northeast corner of Sheridan road and South boulevard known as Sheridan Arms and Sheridan Court, each containing twenty-four suites was sold yesterday by Bernard M. Sharpe, president of B. M. Sharpe & Son, mortage loans, to Sigmund Wolkenstein.

The latter gave in part payment the twelve apartment building at the northwest corner of Vincennes avenue and 50th street, lot 47¼x135¼. The Evanston property was sold subject to an incumbrance of $178,000. There were no brokers.

Round the Town Leases.

Snappy Frocks, Inc., a new chain concern, has entered the Chicago area with a lease at 3001 East 92d street, negotiated by James D. Harvey & Co. for a term of years, at an average rental of $250 per month. This same firm also reports having closed the following leases: Dellehan's grill, 3015 East 92d, ten years at a term rental of $27,250; Sheridan-Leland pharmacy, 4701 Sheridan road, five years at a term rental of $19,400; Guaranty Tire and Equipment company., 3542 South Michigan, five years at a term rental of $9,900; James Quality laundry, 4703 Sheridan road; Bramson's Children's Wear, 4711 Sheridan road, five years at a term rental of $12,000.

Miller & Cohen report the following leases negotiated: Wyle Hat company., 6406 South Halsted; Sydelle Dress Shops, 6404 South Halsted; Rose Dress Shops, 6402 South Halsted; Liberal Credit Clothing, entire second floor, 100x100, at 6402-08 South Halsted; Victor's shops, 1251 South Halsted; Jacob Cohen's, Inc., furniture, 6145 South Halsted; Nieman Studious, Inc., 1236 South Halsted.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks were firm yesterday. Niagara Hudson advanced more than a point. Investment trusts were generally improved, although all gains were held within a one point limit. Rustless Iron was unchanged.

INT. HARVESTER AND PENNSY RY. REPORT INCOME

Both Earn Dividends by Good Margin.

BY A. O. MATHER.

Two great American corporations yesterday offered tangible proof of their ability to weather depression. Furthermore, they are engaged in lines that might be expected to bear the brunt of adverse conditions prevailing last year.

The International Harvester company, largest of the agricultural implement concerns, and the Pennsylvania railroad, among the premier railroads, issued their annual reports. While both reported a lower volume of business and smaller earnings, as was to be expected, yet both really did better than had been predicted and earned their dividends by comfortable margins.

International Harvester has net earnings for 1930 of $25,703,191, equivalent after preferred dividends to $4.54 a share on 4,409,185 common shares. It paid dividends totaling $16,669,167 and thereafter added $9,034,024 to surplus, which now stands at $59,108,107. Net earnings for 1929, which set a record of volume of business and profits, were $36,779,997, or $7.17 a share on the common stock.

Equals $5.28 a Share.

The Pennsylvania railroad's preliminary report showed net income for 1930 at $68,952,718, which was equivalent to $5.28 a share on 13,038,711 shares of capital stock. The statement included earnings of the West Jersey and Seashore for six months. After payment of dividends the Pennsylvania added $16,688,640 to surplus, which now stands at $247,522,713. Net income for 1929, excluding the West Jersey and Seashore, was $101,378,518, or $11.11 a share on 11,495,128 shares of capital stock.

In the International Harvester report President Herbert F. Perkins recites some of the troubles of last year, but expresses confidence in the future.

"American agriculture was called on to face almost unprecedented conditions," he says. "Farm prices for agricultural products were severely reduced, causing a situation that called for great courage and fortitude on the part of America's farmers.

"This company has complete faith in the future of American agriculture and the men who follow it as their life work."

Sees Better Times Ahead.

Better times ahead were predicted by Samuel Insull at stockholders' meetings of three big public utility companies under his control. He presided at the meetings of the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

"We suffered from a very great depression in business last year," he said, "but we suffered more in the fact that people lost their heads and indulged in a hysteria of despair as to prices more than anything else. Now, that fear seemed to disappear with the close of 1930, and in the period that intervened, January and the greater part of February, there has seemed to be a returning confidence in values on the part of the people as a whole.

Approve Stock Increase.

"I think that is the first step toward a returning confidence in possible improvement in business. There is some slight evidence of improvement. There are some basic industries that we call key industries that show an inclination to do better than they were doing in the last quarter of last year. I think there is enough improvement in general sentiment and in business generally to justify us in saying that we feel hopeful as to 1931. Everybody can play a part in restoring business by being hopeful and taking an optimistic view of the situation."

Mr. Insull said the 950 mile pipe line for the purpose of bringing natural gas from Texas to Chicago will be completed this year and should result in larger sales of gas for house heating and industrial purposes. The project will cost upwards of $75,000,000. The Peoples Gas stockholders approved increasing the capital stock from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000. Mr. Insull was noncommittal as to whether additional stock will be offered to stockholders this year, although he mentioned that this has been the practice in former years.

Foote Bros. Gear Co. Ousts President; Reports Loss

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The annual meetings of stockholders and directors of the Foote Bros. Gear and Machine company yesterday resulted in the retirement of W. C. Davis as president and a member of the board and several other changes in personnel. The developments follow a year in which the company experienced heavy losses, resulting in the reduction of more than $1,316,000 in total surplus.

J. F. Griswold was named to succeed Mr. Davis in both positions. A. B. Wilder was also named a member of the board. Other new officers chosen by directors are F. A. Emmons, vice president; A. L. Gray, secretary and treasurer; J. R. Fagan, assistant treasurer, and O. R. Moss, assistant secretary. W. A. Barr and H. A. Bates were reelected vice presidents.

Reports Loss of $772,072.

The annual report of the company distributed at the stockholders' meeting disclosed an operating loss for the year of $772,072 as compared with a net profit of $612,618 in the preceding year. The balance sheet revealed a weakened current position. Quick assets as of Dec. 31 were $1,485,373 compared with current liabilities of $1,170,949 as against $2,505,361 and $1,265,129 at the close of 1929.

Total surplus at the end of the fiscal period stood at $1,001,603, as compared with $2,486,916 on Dec. 31, 1929. An earned surplus of $948,053 at the end of 1929 was reduced to a deficit of $1,123,425 at the close of last year. Capital surplus was carried at $2,125,028, as compared with $1,538,862 at the end of the preceding year.

Improves Tractors.

The reduction in surplus included $109,492 for loss on the sale of Western Gear properties; $159,814 for obsolete and excess inventories and $652,836 for idle plant expense, excessive manufacturing costs and expenditures in designing and development of tractors.

The company experienced difficulty in the mechanical construction of its new tractors resulting in large expenditures for elimination of the mechanical trouble and reconditioning of the defective machines. The adverse conditions were coupled with a decline in the volume of business and in prices.

In his letter accompanying the report, the retiring president described the year as disastrous for the company. "Although, because of conditions recited, an unfavorable report might have been expected, nevertheless I am frank to admit that I am surprised and appalled at the distressing result," he said. "Although some of the loss may be due to changed and changing economic conditions, nevertheless, mine is the responsibility for a large portion of the disaster sustained. I admit it and accept it," he declared.

Both Mr. Davis and various directors expressed the opinion that financial accounting of the firm at the close of 1930 represented a cut to the bone. It was also stated that the mechanical difficulty with the tractors has been eliminated.

Stocks Lose Early Gains.

Foote Bros. common stock, which reached a high price of 32 in 1929 and 22 last year closed on the Chicago exchange yesterday at 3⅝. Turnover in the issue approximated 3,000 shares. The closing prices represented little change from the previous closing quotation in keeping with the general trend of the market.

Early strength on the market gave way to a general price recession around midday, which wiped out previous gains. Trading was fairly active, with a total of 230,000 shares changing hands. Most of the active shares were selling within a fraction of previous prices when the final gong sounded.

GENERAL AMERICAN TANK CAR TO HANDLE SWIFT & CO. TRANSPORT

General American Tank Car corporation has completed negotiations with Swift & Co. involving acquisition of 6,000 refrigerator, tank and stock cars, composing the packing company's entire fleet, and will handle all transportation operations, which involve about 200,000 carloads annually.

Swift & Co. has operated its own car department since organization, and this is said to be the first instance of a large packer transferring the transportation phase of its business to an outside concern.

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The preliminary statements of earnings of General Asphalt company and subsidiaries showed 1930 net of $1,006,795, compared with $1,757,095 for 1929.

The company's statement said the "financial position of the company is satisfactory, cash on hand Dec. 1 being $2,360,000, and the ratio of quick assets to quick liabilities over 10 to 1." Inventory Dec. 31 was $2,900,000, a reduction of $500,000 compared with Dec. 31, 1929.

APPROVE RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE ALL COMPETITORS OF RAILS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The house interstate commerce committee today approved the Parker resolution to authorize the interstate commerce commission to investigate all interstate transportation concerns operating in competition with railroads.

The inquiry would be made into coastwise and inland waterway, motor bus, pipe line, and other systems. It would be conducted with a view of determining whether any or all should be regulated.

The commission would be directed to make recommendations with a view to bringing about legislation to control the competitive transportation facilities.

Hyde Suspends Forty Live Stock Men for 90 Days

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Two-score live stock commission men and order buyers of St. Louis today were ordered suspended for ninety days by Secretary Hyde for boycotting two farm board coöperatives. At the same time they were ordered by the secretary, under the packers and stockyards act, to cease the "unfair and discriminatory" practices he found they had engaged in against the Producers' Live Stock Commission association and the National Order Buying company, the coöperatives.

Rap Suspension Order.

St. Louis Mo., Feb. 24.—(AP)—W. A. Moody, president of the St. Louis Live Stock association, said tonight Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, in suspending for 90 days forty St. Louis live stock commission men and order buyers, "has chosen to stand with those men who are violating every rule of sound business by abolishing the law of supply and demand."

Longworth Revives Hopes of Oil Relief Legislation

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Speaker Longworth today came to the support of proponents of restricted oil imports and revived their hopes for such legislation this session.

The speaker announced Republican members of the house ways and means committee would meet tomorrow to reconsider the committee's action in shelving the Capper-Garber bill to limit oil imports to 16,000,000 barrels a year for three years.

Earlier in the day, representatives from the midcontinent oil states urged the house Republican steering committee to support the proposed restriction.

The independent producers of the midcontinent area, failing to obtain an oil tariff in the Hawley-Smoot bill, are backing the move for limited imports.

Supports Contention.

They contended the large oil companies are driving them out of business by importing oil from Venezuela and laying it down at eastern refineries at much less cost than they can deliver their own products. A report of the tariff commission supports this contention.

Longworth said he believed the Republicans of the ways and means committee "are convinced something should be done."

He said he "strongly favored" the passage of such legislation and expressed the opinion a bill could be framed which would not violate any treaty against embargoes.

Following the speaker's announcement a new compromise bill was drafted to provide a two year restriction of 16,000,000 barrels annually, with a provision that for 6,000,000 barrels of crude oil an equivalent amount of refined oil might be substituted.

Big Yield Seen in New Pool.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—The new oil pool recently discovered in east Texas may yield a billion barrels of oil, says The Lamp, mouthpiece of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in its February issue.

It comments that control of production through proration of wells is seriously threatened by the new field. That warning follows a recent visit of inspection of the new field by Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company. Through a subsidiary, the Humble Oil and Refining company, the Standard has production in the new field. It also operates a pipe line through the district. The Lamp's statement is the first authoritative comment on the new field.

The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 37,550 brls for the week ended Feb. 21, totaling 2,165,250 brls, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum institute. The daily average production east of California was 1,634,850 brls, an increase of 35,750 brls.

FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS ARE 1,636 HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on Feb. 14 totaled 720,689 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today.

This was an increase of 1,636 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 172,451 cars below the same week last year. It also was a reduction of 236,809 cars below the corresponding week in 1929.

MELLON REFUSES BAN ON RUSSIAN MANGANESE ORE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Efforts of producers of American manganese ore to have Russian manganese barred from the United States failed today when the treasury ruled that evidence produced did not show the Russian shipments violated the anti-dumping act of 1921.

In a formal order to custom collectors, Secretary Mellon said issuance of an anti-dumping order against manganese ore from the republic of Georgia in soviet Russia was not justified.

Mellon said the treasury had made an extended investigation into allegations of the American Manganese Producers association that ore is being dumped into this country and had given careful consideration to evidence received from interested persons.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—Wall street rioted in a thundering 5,300,000 share bull market today. More than 300 separate issues, representing practically every group on the board, were sent whirling to new high price records for the year on gains ranging anywhere from 1 to nearly 10 points. It was the biggest day the exchange has seen since early last October.

Among the many issues to reach new tops were United States Steel, American Telephone and Telegraph, Westinghouse, Radio, Eastman Kodak, and General Electric. U. S. Steel crossed 150 and the communications leader went to 201, but both were later forced to give up some of their gains as profit taking cut down the general list in the afternoon trading.

Radio, on the contrary, finished at its high of the day and Westinghouse found enough fresh demand to peg it at 106¾ on the closing sale, a net gain of 6¾ points for the day, and Eastman outdid them all, finishing at 185½, up 9¾.

Strong at Start.

The bulk of the advance was scored in the first two hours of trading, much of it on the strength of accumulated orders piling in from all over the country from traders who had convinced themselves that their business turn is in fact just around the corner, as the prophets have been saying, however lacking the evidence to support their convictions may appear at the moment.

For the first hour, in fact, trading was at the rate of 7,000,000 shares a day. The ticker was distanced a full eight minutes—for the first time this year.

The upswing continued unchecked, although with diminishing momentum up to about noon, when some of the more timid ones began to take their profits. For about an hour after the turn of the day price movements zigzagged as the balance veered now on the selling and now on the buying side here and there, and finally turned

AN EXPERIENCED VIEWPOINT OF TIMELY SIGNIFICANCE

▼ INCOME . . . rather than capital . . . measures a man's wealth in England. When he is "worth five thousand," the Englishman refers to his annual income and not to his principal . . . though obviously his principal would represent a much larger sum.

This point of view reflects the long experience of the English in financial matters. It is an impressive recognition of the fundamental aim of investment. The true investor seeks well-secured income, rather than uncertain profits from questionable assets. He is reconciled to the fact that regular income, consistently added to his capital, is the most dependable road to financial security.

Such a program leads naturally to the choice of bonds as the favored medium of investment. It places emphasis where it belongs in investing—on INCOME, adequately safeguarded. It points clearly to the unusual opportunities in the present bond market.

Ordinarily, bond income costs about the same one time as another. But at infrequent intervals, as at present, many sound bonds can be obtained at prices that give unusually high returns. By taking advantage of such opportunities, the far-sighted investor appreciably increases the income from his investments for years to come.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. has consistently served those who recognize INCOME as the chief aim of investment. Since the day it was founded, this house has confined its business to bonds, notes and debentures. It has adhered to this policy in full confidence that, year in and year out, it affords the greatest protection to the investors whom it is privileged to serve.

We shall be glad to suggest bonds which we have approved — from among the unusual values in today's market — to fit your requirements. Write for current recommendations.

COTTON UP $1.50 A BALE

More active buying, with a strong undertone and an improved situation, as construed by spot houses and speculators, carried prices for cotton up sharply yesterday and made a close around the best of the day. There were net gains on futures in Chicago of 94@33 points, equal to $1.20@1.65 a bale, and in other markets of 22@30 points, as compared with Saturday's close.

Liverpool was up sharply on top of the advance Monday, and closed 19@21 points net higher, with spot sales increased 5,000 bales. Reports from the dry goods markets indicated a rather quiet tone. Stocks were up 30 points with New York 11.35c, New Orleans, 10.93; Galveston, 11.05c, and Houston, 11c.

Reports to J. S. Bache & Co. said that approximately 75,000 bales were stocked for the co-operative account. Co-operative brokers were said to have sold May in the neighborhood of 35,000 bales, causing the market to hesitate somewhat. Prices follow:

GRAIN PIT SEEKS TO SOLVE WINTER WHEAT MYSTERY

Report Farm Board Making Sales in Europe.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Persistent rumors that the federal farm board is making sales of wheat abroad, while apparently lacking positive confirmation, have become a factor in the world's markets.

Fred Uhlmann, one of the best known members of the Chicago Board of Trade, who was in New York yesterday, wired back that it was reported there that hard winter wheat sold in Europe was for farm board account, but not in the board's own name. Foreign representatives gave their own contract. Big United Kingdom millers, according to the message, reported offerings from the farm board. Late in the day it was rumored at the seaboard that several loads of hard winter had been sold to the continent.

Local representatives of the farm board were inclined to make light of the reported sales of hard winter wheat abroad. They said that an announcement on the situation will probably be made within the next few days.

Between the reports of efforts to sell American hard winter wheat abroad at low prices, weakness in Liverpool and Winnipeg, and scattered rains in Kansas and Oklahoma over the holidays local bulls became uneasy and there was fairly general selling which carried the July down to 66¾c, or 1¾c under Saturday's finish, and to the lowest figure since Feb. 7, with some stop loss orders uncovered on the way down, especially under 67¾c, which has been a resistance point to selling pressure for a number of days. The close was 1¼@1⅝c lower, with July, 66⅝c, and September, 67¼@67½c. Old crop months were unchanged to ¼c lower, with March, 79¼c, and May, 82c.

Winnipeg Wheat Weakens.

Houses with Chicago connections were credited with being aggressive sellers at Winnipeg and that market showed an easy under, closing 1½@1¾c lower. There was some buying of wheat futures early credited to the continent, but this failed to be reflected in export business and sales in all positions since the close Saturday were finally placed at 400,000 to 500,000 bu. Liverpool closed 1d lower to ⅛d higher, the former on March, which was sold by longs on the reported diversion of several cargoes of low grade Argentine wheat to the English market.

Corn Nears Season's Low.

Liquidation by longs in the March delivery of corn carried that future off ⅞c from Saturday's finish to 60⅞c, a new low on the crop, while the May was 1c lower at 63¼c, or within ⅛c of the inside figure of the season. Reports of purchases of 200,000 bu to arrive, including 140,000 bu from other terminals, had some effect, as did the increase of 1,042,000 bu in the visible supply, making the latter 18,230,000 bu, against 21,067,000 bu last year.

Buying by shorts was the main influence in checking the decline, but the bearish cash position caused buyers to operate with caution and the close was at net losses of ⅜@⅝c, with March finishing at 61¼c; May, 63⅜@63⅝c; July, 65Z@65½c, and September, 65¼c.

Longs sold March oats rather freely while cash houses were the best buyers. The market showed a heavy undertone the greater part of the day and closed ⅛@⅜c lower, with March, 31⅞c; May, 33c, and July, 32⅞c.

Spreading operations between the various deliveries furnished a good part of the trade in rye. Final sales were at net losses of ⅜@⅞c, with March, 38⅛c; May, 42c, and July, 42⅛c.

Canadian Farmers Demand Aid; Threaten to Secede

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The so called Saskatchewan "charter of liberty," which calls for the formation of a secessionist free trade commonwealth in western Canada, will be introduced as a resolution into the annual convention of the Saskatchewan section of the United Farmers of Canada tomorrow.

Submission of the charter was assured when it was approved by the delegates from district 12, who will offer it. It calls for secession if demands for farm aid from the dominion government are not met. George R. Bickerton, director-elect for the district said that more than 1,500 signatures have been obtained.

The charter demands "pegged" wheat prices, 100 per cent pooling; nationalization of currency, credit and resources; government crop insurance, and the formation of a standards board to fix the prices of products the farmers sell on a scale proportionate with the prices of things they have to buy.

POTATO FUTURES WEAKEN

Potato futures weakened on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, dropping 3c on selling induced by less favorable statistical news. Butter and egg futures were steady to firm. While fairly heavy new buying appeared in April potatoes, selling developed and the market dropped at the close. A weak spot market was the main factor. Butter and egg storage news over the holiday continued good, but butter weakened slightly by a drop in the spot market and closed unchanged to ⅛c lower. Firmness in the spot egg market tended to offset the effect of the continued heavy fresh arrivals, which finished unchanged to ⅛c higher. Sales: Butter, 71 cars; eggs, 22 cars; potatoes, 34 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 6 cars; eggs, 1 car. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $9.00; average, $8.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 12,000.

Additional price cuts were enforced in cattle and hogs yesterday, while lambs held generally steady in moderate supplies. Cattle finished 25@50c under the high point of last week, while a stronger tendency was noted in hogs following the sharply lower opening.

Light weight hogs were plentiful and slumped 25@40c, whole light butchers came down 15@25c and heavy stock sold at steady to 10c lower prices, the latter finishing a shade above the low spot of the forenoon. The extreme top dropped 25c to $7.40, equaling the previous low point of the season, established last week.

The general average at $6.85 was 15c under Monday's average, but is still 15c above last week's bottom, due to the more satisfactory trade for medium and weighty stock lately. Eastern demand has been small lately.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.50.

Light hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.50 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but the lowest offer was $7.75. March light were offered at $7.75 and bid $7.50, while April and May offers were lowered to $8.75. Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs, were offered at $8.00 for April and May delivery and 260@310 lb, averages for those months were offered at $7.25 and bid $7.00.

Cattle supplies moved slowly at yesterday's decline, closing on the bottom, with some going over unsold in face of the small supply in sight for today. Only 5,000 are posted for today against 11,215 last Wednesday. Few steers were good enough to bring more than $9.00, the bulk sales falling to $6.50@9.00.

Only one load of choice 1351 lb. steers was good enough to bring $10.50, the day's peak. Cows and heifers continued slow at the decline. Calves were weak to 25c lower. Stockers and feeders were dull and weak.

Lambs Finish Stronger.

The lamb market closed stronger after a slow and uncertain opening yesterday, some medium weights selling slightly above the early level. Best light weights to city butchers reached the $9.00 line again, while packers bought many 90@95 lbs, averages at $8.75@8.85 and took heavier lambs at $8.25@8.50. Aged sheep were steady and yearlings firm. Feeding and shearing lambs were strong. Some lambs are coming back shorn and are selling at $8.00@8.50.

HOG PRODUCTS FIRMER

Trade in lard and bellies for future delivery was comparatively light yesterday, but there was not particular pressure. The market had a fairly steady tone, and closed 2½c higher, with trading mostly in July. A few trades were made in July bellies at 10.70c, an advance of 15c, while May was nominally 5c higher. Hog prices were off sharply the last few days, but had no effect on the market for product. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower. Exports of lard for the week were 15,323,000 lbs, against 16,766,000 lbs last year, and of bacon were 8,509,000 lbs, against 6,915,000 lbs last year. Exporters reported the demand from abroad satisfied for the time being. Prices follow:
